DETROIT BALLOT POLITICAL TEST OF C I O BACKING

Issue Squarely Met in Mayor Race.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Detroit's most portentous city election in years will be held tomorrow with the political significance of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization at stake.

Late tonight, a few hours before the polls open to record an estimated 400,000 votes, the edge in the bitter mayoralty fight was given to the anti-C. I. O. candidate, Richard W. Reading, present city clerk, who is opposed by Patrick H. O'Brien, former attorney general of Michigan and a vehement C. I. O. partisan.

One straw vote conducted in the 22 wards of the motor city gives Reading 65 per cent of the vote and forecasts his election by 120,000 votes. Some observers think that this is a little lop-sided, but the consensus among these political experts is that Reading will win.

Major Political Effort.

This campaign is the first pretentious attempt of the C. I. O. to become a factor in national politics. Here it first used the sitdown strike, with the United Auto Workers of America in the General Motors' plant. Now it seeks control of the government of a city of almost 2 million with a candidate for mayor and five of nine seats in the city council.

During the primary O'Brien declared: "Labor must seize the reins of government in Detroit and every other American city."

Should O'Brien win he would have the power to appoint the heads of the seventy city departments, including police and public works. Among the C. I. O. candidates for the council is Richard T. Frankensteen, assistant to Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers.

Tomorrow's election will be nonpartisan, with no party designations on the ballot, but the issue, to quote one observer, will be "C. I. O. versus the rest of Detroit."

Federation Vote Has Balance.

In the Oct. 5 primary 326,000 votes were cast and Reading polled 137,000, running 38,000 ahead of O'Brien. The third important candidate in a field of five was John W. Smith, former mayor and retiring president of the council. Smith was backed by unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor and a good deal of tomorrow's outcome depends on whether the 68,000 voters who supported him will now back Reading or O'Brien.

Final returns in a straw vote claim that 82 per cent of the Smith supporters are now in the Reading camp.

The poll gives O'Brien only two of the 22 wards in the city. Of the men polled, it was claimed that 63 per cent are backing Reading and 37 per cent O'Brien.

Gov. Murphy Keeps Out.

Gov. Frank Murphy, who favored the C. I. O. in the auto strikes, has kept out of the mayoralty fight. "I have asked no one in Detroit to vote for any one and don't intend to," he said.

O'Brien is a Democrat but he has not been indorsed by the Democratic committee of Wayne county.

Mayor Frank Couzens, who is retiring voluntarily, is supporting Reading. The mayor is a son of the late Senator James Couzens.

TAMMANY'S FATEFUL DAY

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—One of the most confusing, bitter, and spectacular municipal election campaigns in New York City's political history reached a climax tonight, the struggle for control of the city hall and power in the metropolis winding up in a bewildering jumble of personal accusations, blurred party lines, and strange alliances.

Tomorrow, the voters will go to the polls to elect the city administration for the next four years. It was predicted that 2,300,000 will vote.

Major interest in the fight, referred to by opponents as "the last stand for the warriors of Tammany Hall," centers in the outcome of the contest for mayor in which Fiorello H. La Guardia, incumbent, running as the candidate of the Republicans, American Labor, City Fusion, and Progressive parties, is opposed to Jeremiah

CROSS QUIZZING JOLTS STORY AT MURDER TRIAL

Boy Fights on Stand to Shield Mother.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Anna Marie Hahn tonight climaxed half a day's effort to escape the electric chair by wilting under an hour's barrage of cross-examination.

When court adjourned until Wednesday morning, Mrs. Hahn still was in the witness chair and Prosecutor Dudley Miller Outcalt was wiping his pink, perspiring brow with a smile of satisfaction. Judge Charles S. Bell informed the jury trying Mrs. Hahn for the arsenic murder of Jacob Wagner, 78 years old, that they would be allowed to vote in their home precincts in the city election tomorrow, but cautioned them to allow no one to speak to them regarding the trial.

Mrs. Hahn's blonde hair at the close of tonight's session was still as beautifully coiffured, and her manner as calm, as when she entered court this morning to hear her son, Oscar, 11 years old, make a greater effort than his years and size warant to save his mother from the death penalty.

But She Grows Uneasy.

But her answers were less secure than her curls, and her drawing room manner, with which she strove to make the eleven women on the jury feel right at home earlier in the day, had given way to apology, vacillation, and general uneasiness.

Oscar, the bright son of Mrs. Hahn, in his first suit of long pants, held the attention of the packed courtroom throughout the morning. Often anticipating questions, but never missing the meaning of any, the boy delivered an uncannily controlled recital of his version of what the court has termed "the collateral transactions." These are the three poison murders other than that of Jacob Wagner, and the one poisoning which did not result in death, but paralysis, which the state attributes to Mrs. Hahn and on which it was allowed to produce evidence to show motive and identity.

Laughs at Sick Man's Rage.

He laughed at the memory of an old man's feeble rage as his mother moved the ailing Obendoerfer from one city to another two days before he died, and in all instances declared that he himself, not his mother, delivered food to the several victims.

A pathetic touch came when the child, branded as illegitimate by defense counsel in the questions asked prospective jurors before the trial began, spoke proudly of "my daddy." Asked coldly by prosecutors if he meant Philip Hahn, Mrs. Hahn's husband, who has figured only as a vague shadow in the trial to date, the boy gulped and said, "Yes, I do."

Despite the child's pitiful efforts to explain everything away and take on his own small shoulders the blame for all of what the state said were deadly meals Mrs. Hahn served her elderly admirers, Oscar unwittingly provided the state with a chance Prosecutor Outcalt was looking for. Introduction of evidence concerning a bottle of croton oil, found by Oscar and turned over to the man he called father, was possible for the first time.

Wagner "Just a Gardener."

Mrs. Hahn was on the witness stand all afternoon and for one hour tonight. She spoke affectionately of the late Albert J. Palmer, a former suitor, 72 years old, and adopted a patronizing but fairly affable manner toward Jacob Wagner, whom she said she knew only as an old gardener who told her how to plant flowers and change the colors of flowers.

She had one thing in common with one old man, and one with another, it developed from her testimony. George Heis, 62 years old, who came to court in a wheel chair to testify against her, told her at the outset of their close friendship that he had always eaten in restaurants and liked home cooking, she testified tonight. She asked him over to have some pancakes.

She Becomes Offended.

Asked if she put arsenic in the pancakes or anything else she ever served George Heis, her manner became offended and she repeated in the same words she had used in four

APPLY CENSORSHIP TO ROCKWELL KENT POSTOFFICE MURAL

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The postoffice department disclosed today it had exercised censorship powers on Artist Rockwell Kent's controversial mural "Delivery of the Mail in the Tropics."

In a letter to Delegate Anthony Dimond of Alaska, W. E. Reynolds, acting director of procurement, said Postmaster General James A. Farley had requested Kent to submit—in English this time rather than in Eskimo—a substitute for the message contained in the painting which hangs in the new postoffice department building.

The message, which supposedly was written by an Alaskan native to a Puerto Rican, suggests that the two people "change chiefs." It then adds, "That alone can make us equal and free."

The message drew a storm of controversy from Puerto Rican officials and from Dimond. The Puerto Ricans, however, found fault with the mural in general, one contending Kent attempted to make his people out to be "a bunch of African bushmen."

WANTS TO KEEP WANDERING BOY SAFE IN SALOON

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Arthur Janik, president of the Milwaukee Tavern Owners' association, explained today to a committee of the ministers' association why the tavern keepers object to earlier closing hours of saloons. The parents wouldn't like it, he said. Parents have objected, Janik said, in other cities where closing hours are earlier than 1 o'clock. He said the parents reported they did not know where their children were after the taverns closed.

Noble Horse Hauls in Extra Revenue for City

With the aid of the noble horse, the city's wheel tax collections for the first ten months of 1937 totaled $5,082,386, exceeding last year's $4,594,432 for the same period, City Collector Louis Rixmann said yesterday. Thus far this year 3,520 licenses have been issued for horse-drawn vehicles, or 433 more than in 1936.

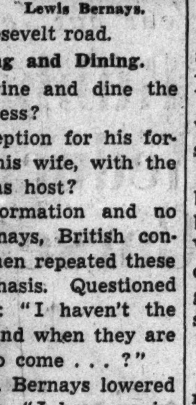
Who's to Wine the Windsors? City Atwitter

BY BETTY BROWNING.

It's the gravest question that has confronted Chicago society within memory.

It's splitting wide the hitherto united ranks of the English Speaking union.

What to do about the duke and the duchess of Windsor?



Lewis Bernays.

According to announcements, the duke and the duchess, on their arrival in Chicago, will visit the stockyards and will inspect the federal housing projects on Roosevelt road.

Ah! The Wining and Dining.

But who will wine and dine the duke and the duchess?

A dinner or reception for his former majesty and his wife, with the British consulate as host?

"I have no information and no plans," Lewis Bernays, British consul general, said, then repeated these words with emphasis. Questioned further, he added: "I haven't the foggiest notion if and when they are coming. If they do come . . . ?"

A pause, and Mr. Bernays lowered his voice and said: "I have no information and no plans."

Duke's Plans a Mystery.

An official of the English Speaking union pleaded ignorance of the duke's and the duchess' plans.

"If they are coming, we haven't been informed," he said. "We can't make any plans until we do hear."

When promised that he wouldn't be mentioned by name he became more explicit.

"There's sure to be a fight before we decide whether to entertain for the duke and the duchess," he said. "It's entirely up to the board. Some of them would take their cue from official Britain and some of them wouldn't miss the chance of breaking bread with the royal pair. Who'll win out?" A chuckle: "I couldn't say."

Arthur Meeker, chairman of the board of governors of the Assembly ball, and a host to the then prince of Wales on his previous visit to Chicago, was asked his intentions regarding the forthcoming visit. He said: "I wouldn't care to say."

He Really Can't Say.

Pressed further, he added: "I really have no information as to their plans."

Mr. Meeker admitted that it was he who had escorted the heir to the British throne on his tour of the stockyards and said he had seen the prince on several occasions since.

"Then if they do come you may possibly entertain for them, Mr. Meeker?" he was asked.

Mr. Meeker laughed ruefully. "Now you're going too fast," he said. "I really can't say."

Mrs. Howard Linn, who danced with the prince on his last Chicago visit, likewise has no plans for entertaining him on his arrival.

"Yes, I have met the duke and the duchess of Windsor several times," said Mrs. Linn. "No, I really haven't any plans at all."

SEN. BAILEY INSISTS BUDGET BALANCING IS ALL UP TO ROOSEVELT

Worcester, Mass., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Senator Josiah W. Bailey [D., N. C.] declared today that if President Roosevelt "meant business" he could balance the budget.

The senator, in an interview with the Worcester Evening Gazette, said: "If President Roosevelt means business, he can balance the budget. If he does not do so, the United States is in for a period of inflation."

"If the people will let us," added Bailey, here to address the Economic club tonight, "we can reduce government expenditures. The present rate is nine billion dollars; the government can be run on three billions. But the attitude of the people has been changed by the huge relief appropriations of the past five years."

Asked if he thought the President meant it when he said he would balance the budget, Senator Bailey said:

"I'll believe it when he gets his scythe out and starts to cut," the senator said.

Assassin Kills Rich Chinese; Called Tyrant

Chin Jack Lam, millionaire Chinese restaurant owner and former national president of the rich On Leong tong, was shot to death last night as he was walking in the rain in the 200 block on West Cermak road.

His murder—mysterious, sudden, and deft—removed what police described as one of the most powerful, behind-the-scenes Chinese figures in America, a man who ruled his followers tyrannically and allegedly precipitated the savage tong war of 1924. This war spread from coast to coast and cost seventy lives, four in Chicago.

Refuses War Donation.

Police were satisfied early today that tong feuds did not motivate Lam's assassination, and they looked for other motives. One was his refusal to donate $1,000 to the Chicago On Leong for the Chinese war relief fund.

The murder of Lam, who was 61 years old and lived at 2143 Archer avenue, was accomplished in the modern tradition, yet not without a touch of oriental cunning. He had left a friend, Harry Yee, and a son, Robert, a Lewis institute student, to visit neighborhood merchants to give orders for supplies for a third café he was opening in Louisville, Ky. He went out alone, a usual habit. In Chinatown he was known as bold and fearless.

Fires Three Times.

It was raining as he started homeward in Cermak road. Lam pulled his coat collar up and bent his head down. As he reached a vacant lot at 209 Cermak road, a dark figure slithered out of the rain behind him. The man slipped up softly and rapidly and touched him on the shoulder.

Lam turned around quickly. As he did so the stranger shoved a pistol against his chest and fired three times. Then as Lam slumped to the sidewalk the gunman fired a fourth shot, which struck him in the left eye. As quickly and silently as the assassin had appeared out of the rain he faded, disappearing across the vacant lot.

"The shooting was all done in a few seconds," related Walter Olson, a fireman attached to Truck 4 across the street, the only witness. "The gunman came up one second, fired four shots, and vanished in the rain."

Son Appears on Scene.

In spite of the rain, crowds of people gathered at the scene. Among them was another son of the slain man, Albert Lam, a Y. M. C. A. student, who tearfully held an umbrella over the dead man's head to shield him from the rain.

Except for Olson, the eye witness, and Lam's sons, Robert and Albert, and a stepson, Dr. Paul Z. Koesun, 2317 Wentworth avenue, there were few witnesses to be found.

Robert and Albert described Lam as very wealthy and powerful in Chinese affairs—more powerful, they intimated, than the late Frank Moy, mayor of Chinatown. The boys told

EDEN DISCLOSES SECRET IN TALK TO PARLIAMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—Cabled dispatches that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had told parliament that the United States was the leader in promoting the nine power conference over the war in China were greeted with consternation and stunned silence by the administration tonight. Eden's statement placed the United States in the same position as in 1931, when Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson in the Hoover cabinet inveighed against Japanese aggression in China only to have the British refuse to follow his lead.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull was vacationing at Pinehurst, N. C., and state department officials here would not discuss the speech. The sentence that plunged officials into a state of complete dither was:

"The initiative for holding of the conference in Brussels never came from us at all, but from the United States government itself."

The Belgian government remarked in its official invitation that it was offering its hospitality "at the request" of Great Britain and "with the approval" of the United States.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Capt. Anthony Eden, Great Britain's foreign secretary, today put President Roosevelt and the United States government up to the neck in far eastern affairs. He accomplished this by announcing in the house of commons that the initiative in summoning the conference of signatories of the nine power treaty to meet in Brussels came from the Roosevelt government. The nine power treaty guarantees China's territorial integrity.

Hitherto the understanding had been that the league of nations' council was the father of the Brussels conference on the Chinese-Japanese war. But Eden, replying to charges by Noel Baker, a Laborite, that Britain had been meddling too much in the Chinese-Japanese war and that the conference was being held in Brussels as a result of British pressure, said this was not so. Washington, he said, was responsible.

Lifts Veil of Secrecy.

"It is not always easy to lift the veil of secrecy, but in this case I feel I ought to make it plain that the initiative for holding the conference in Brussels never came from us at all but from the United States government itself," the foreign secretary said.

He promised Britain would go "as far as the United States" to end the war in China. "In this difficult far eastern situation we will go as far as the United States in full agreement with them—not rushing in front but not being left behind," the foreign secretary said.

Praises Coöperation of U. S.

Eden even chided a critic for failing to appreciate the "difference" between the position which the United States occupied at Geneva and the position it will occupy at Brussels.

"Surely the difference is vital," he said.

"At Geneva the United States representative is only an observer, taking no part in the discussions and having no responsibility for decisions. Any act, whatever the character of the act, that can be taken in the far eastern dispute does essentially depend on the coöperation of the United States.

Calls U. S. Aid Valuable.

"I say without hesitation that in order to get full coöperation on an equal basis of the United States government in an international conference I would travel not only from Geneva to Brussels, but from Melbourne to Alaska, particularly in the present state of the international situation."

Diplomatic observers considered Eden's statement was tantamount to laying the baby on the doorstep of the United States. His move, in fact, means that the United States has been committed to lead any real action that may grow out of the nine-power conference and that the British are going to play second fiddle so as not to roil the Japanese too far.

Parliamentary critics of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's Tory government's foreign policy concerning Spain and the far east recently made onslaughts against Eden for not making sufficient use of the league in bringing Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, and the Japanese to time.

Takes Dig at League Members.

Today Eden replied that a large section of the league's members, notably the South American ones, wanted not only Franco but perhaps also the Japanese to win in their respective conflicts.

Besides, the foreign secretary said, it was much better to have the United States in on the party at Brussels than to have the dispute handled by the league, of which the United States is not a member.

Tangled up somewhere in these words is perhaps a hint of an explanation as to how British diplomacy succeeded in getting Mr. Roosevelt to take the lead in calling the Brussels conference when every one from the Japanese to the Italians had been preparing to get angry at the British for assembling the powers at Brussels.

Mussolini Is Rebuked.

Aside from disclosing that Britain is going to let the United States do all of the frontline trench work in bringing the Japanese to time in the far east, Eden delivered what is called here a "stern rebuke" to Premier Mussolini of Italy for coming out in defense of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's claims to colonies which Germany lost in the world war.

Eden added that Britain is ready to discuss the colonial problem with Germany, but not with Italy unless, as he suggested, Il Duce is prepared to chip in with a slice of Italy's war gains in southern Tyrol or Africa.

Eden reminded Mussolini that Italy itself had not done badly in collecting swag in the world war and voiced the opinion that no state such as Mussolini's should call on Britain to give up colonies in order to satisfy Hitler's appetite for them unless the same state was prepared to make a slight contribution itself.

Takes Thrust At Dictators.

"I have noticed a tendency to use as a part of diplomatic machinery methods which are highly dangerous. There is an inclination to threaten, to issue orders from house tops—to proclaim that which is virtually an ultimatum and to call it peace."

The commons roared approval as he continued:

"Such methods never will have any response here. Such orders will never be obeyed by the British public. We are ready enough to make our contribution to the peace of the world. We are ready enough to discuss any issue with those concerned, but we are not prepared to stand and deliver at any one's command."

Eden Hits Aggressors.

Claiming that Britain has fulfilled all its treaty obligations, Eden warned that an enduring peace would not be obtained until all nations accepted international law and until the forces against a potential aggressor were overwhelming. Neither of these conditions, he said, exists today.

"We will join no anti-communist bloc and no anti-Fascist bloc," he concluded. "We will work wholeheartedly with all nations who are like-minded with us. We offer our coöperation to all, but we will accept dictation from none of them."

After delivering what he had called an exposition of "appalling frankness," Eden packed his bag and hustled off for Brussels, where he hopes to see Norman Davis, President Roosevelt's ambassador at large, before the nine power conference gets under way on Wednesday.

A vote on a Laborite amendment to the king's speech censuring the government's policy at home and abroad followed party lines, the amendment being defeated by a vote of 363 to 142.

JAPS DRIVEN BACK ACROSS CREEK IN SHANGHAI BATTLE

Many Slain in Fighting in City's Suburbs.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 2.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—A Chinese spokesman today declared China's army had driven Japanese forces back from the south bank of Soochow creek despite a relentless Japanese artillery and aerial bombardment attempting encirclement of Shanghai.

The spokesman said the Japanese were repulsed in Shanghai's western suburbs by Chinese armed only with trench mortars, machine guns, and rifles in the face of Japanese artillery.

"We are fully confident now of holding the enemy, who is facing us in large numbers at Rubicon road," said the spokesman.

A Japanese army statement said there was "no new information from the Soochow creek front."

Shanghai Buildings Shaken.

Shanghai buildings as far away as the bund, along the Whangpoo river front, were shaken by detonations of the Japanese bombardment of Chinese positions along the Shanghai-Hangchow railway.

The Japanese drive to force a passage of Soochow creek yesterday produced an American protest and a Japanese apology. About 7,000 Japanese shock troops first gained a footing on the southern bank after furious fighting and a heavy loss of lives on both sides. Early today, with reinforcements pouring over pontoons laid down by engineers, the Japanese smashed at the Chinese lines in an effort to reach Hungjao, residential and country club suburb southwest of the city.

Many Japanese were killed in the attack. The cost of crossing the creek was indicated at one spot where thirty-five members of a Japanese engineer unit of forty were killed trying to make a pontoon.

American Homes Hit.

Behind the Chinese lines several American and British homes were hit in the Japanese bombardment of the Hungjao area. These homes were evacuated last week.

The fighting along the international settlement's northern and western fringes, which already had plunged the Japanese into a series of frictions with the British defense force, led to a dispute with United States marines.

Japanese bluejackets trying to cross Soochow creek using junks as stepping stones seized a rice laden junk on the international settlement side of the stream where the marines were on guard.

Chinese Crew Flees Boat.

The junk's Chinese crew were scared away when the Japanese fired a blank volley. The junk was seized and with several others eventually became part of an improvised bridge by which the Japanese forced a passage of the creek.

The vigorous protest of Brig. Gen. John C. Beaumont, marine commander, brought an apology from Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commanding the Japanese naval forces here, and a promise the incident would not recur.

Tension between the Japanese and British army units continued, the results of the killing of five British soldiers and wounding of five more during the last ten days.

[Dispatches from Tokio said the Japanese government yesterday apologized to Britain for the machine gunning of three British motor cars Oct. 12 near Shanghai. No one was hurt in the attack.]

British Defy Japanese.

When Japanese commanders warned that they must bombard Chinese positions close to the British lines and urged the British to withdraw, Maj.-Gen. A. P. D. Telfer-Smollett, the British commander, declined and ordered the flags raised.

In North China the Japanese reported minor gains in the drive on Taiyuanfu, capital of Shansi province, and renewed activity in North Honan province, where a Chinese assault was thrown back and 400 Chinese killed.

FALL AT HOME IS FATAL.

ASSASSIN KILLS RICH CHINESE; CALLED TYRANT

Ex-Tong Leader Shot as He Walks in Rain.

Lieut. William Crot that the only motive they could suggest for the killing was their father's refusal to subscribe to the local fund for the Chinese relief. Lam refused a local donation, they said, because he had already given $750 to the Chinese fund in Washington, D. C.

Lam was essentially a Chicago leader in Chinese tong affairs, but his influence years ago was felt throughout the country. He was considered a renegade by some of his countrymen because he formerly was an On Leong leader and later a leader of the rival Hip Sings.

Police and other records indicate that Lam in his early days was a ruthless organizer for the On Leongs and soon rose to power, eventually becoming national chief. His reign was too tyrannical, however, and the tong deposed him in 1923. One reason given was his inability to speak English.

Lam retaliated by joining the rival Hip Sing tong, which he soon came to lead. At about this time he was charged with extorting $70,000 in property from his countrymen in Cleveland. He defeated extradition proceedings in Chicago, but was eventually extradited to Cleveland from New York.

Once Had Price on Head.

That was late in 1924. It was during this period that the worst tong warfare in years broke out, resulting in seventy deaths, twelve in Cleveland, center of the trouble. Lam more than any other person was commonly blamed for the strife. At one time a price of $15,000 was placed on his head.

Lam was convicted in Cleveland on Feb. 18, 1925, and sentenced to Columbus prison for fifteen years. He was released in 1931. He established cafés in Louisville, now run by his son, Ming, but continued to make his home in Chicago. He ostensibly retired from Hip Sing activities, but was still regarded as the man behind the scenes.

Chinese ducked into their shops and homes when Lam came down the street, so great was their fear of him, police said; all, that is, except the man who killed him in the rain last night.

Deaths of Six Americans Fighting in Spain Reported

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Six more Americans were reported today by the Friends of the Abraham Lincoln brigade to have been killed while fighting with the loyalist forces in Spain. They are: James Doherty and Robert Walsh, New York; Stefen Cojeran and Milo Danjanovich, Detroit, and Louis Goslin and Harry Kuryk, whose home cities were not named.

JAPAN TO CREATE IMPERIAL OFFICE TO DIRECT WAR

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Nov. 2—[Tuesday].—Establishment of a "wartime imperial headquarters" by the Japanese as has been done in past wars virtually is assured, according to newspaper reports today. The practice of establishing a supreme command office and having the emperor at headquarters to give imperial sanction to military and naval actions on all matters day by day was inaugurated at the time of the Chinese-Japanese war of 1894-'95. Imperial headquarters also was established during the Russo-Japanese war of 1904-'05.

It is maintained that such headquarters will facilitate coördination of military and naval strategy with domestic and diplomatic policies and thus bring about complete unification of civil and military services on a wartime basis.

Paper Says Navy Relents.

Since the army unanimously favors the plan and is backed by the cabinet, only the navy has been holding up the scheme. The navy argued that a decision should await future developments in the fighting in China.

The newspaper Asahi reports that the navy is no longer opposed to the plan and regards its realization during November as certain.

An attempt to induce Americans to invest capital in Manchukuo will be made by Yoshisuke Ayukawa, president of the Japan Industry company. This firm has obtained a practical monopoly on the Manchukuan heavy industries, including coal, iron, gold, and other mining. The movement, it was said, will get under way in December with Ayukawa making a trip to the United States.

Aim to Finish 5 Year Plan.

With domestic capital taking care of production expansion, it is considered imperative that foreign capital be invested to help complete Manchukuo's five year industrial plan. The government of Manchukuo also is reported to be seeking United States capital.

In the move to establish credit the industrial resources of Manchukuo are expected to be offered as security as a means of inducing American investors to put money into the development of Manchukuo's resources.

19 CHICAGOLAND BOMBINGS BOOST LOSS TO $32,000

Since the first of the year 19 bombings have been reported in Chicago and suburbs, according to records compiled by the police yesterday. This is five more than were reported for the whole year of 1936. Damage caused by the bombings this year is estimated at $32,000, as compared with $7,000 for 1936.

Labor trouble was given as the cause for seven of the blasts, politics was blamed for one, and either business rivalry or personal grievances were listed as the causes for the others. Six taverns and eight homes or apartments were damaged.

Six bombings, five attributed to labor trouble, were during April 20-21. The Lake Shore Country club at Glencoe and a Wilmette home were damaged by the blasts. One arrest was made solving the bombing of a home in Deerfield last May.

Chinese Abroad Contribute $6,000,000 to War Chest

NANKING, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Contributions to China's war chest from Chinese abroad were listed officially today as $6,000,000, including $400,000 from the United States, $180,000 from Canada, $150,000 from South America, and $12,000 from Hawaii.

British Admiral to Investigate Sinking of Vessel Near Spain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Britain today ordered its mightiest warship, the battle cruiser Hood, to Barcelona to investigate the machine gunning, bombing, and sinking of the 2,349 ton British freighter, Jean Weems by a "pirate" plane 16 miles off the Catalonian coast Saturday.

Bruno Mussolini.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons the government had lodged a strong protest with Spanish rebel authorities over the incident and was consulting the French government about measures to tighten up the Nyon agreement "anti-piracy" patrol in the Mediterranean.

Eden Mum About Mussolini.

Eden refused to be drawn out by Laborite F. J. Bellenger, who demanded a reply to the statement made in the press here today that the pilot of the plane which sank the British vessel was none other than Bruno Mussolini, son of Italy's dictator.

Bellenger demanded that Eden probe the accuracy of this statement. Eden said, "I must naturally await a report I have called for by telegraph from the consul general at Barcelona."

Loyalists Plan Drive.

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Spanish rebel military dispatches from Salamanca stated today the loyalists were concentrating troops and equipment in the Madrid sector for a general offensive to break the year old siege of the capital.

The dispatches said government troops had already started attacking rebel advance posts and government soldiers who passed into the rebel line told of intensive preparations for the drive.

Madrid Hails Soviet State.

Madrid, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Madrid and other cities in government territory today began a week long celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the Russian bolshevist revolution—which Moscow celebrates Nov. 7. Madrid blossomed with huge portraits of Russian leaders, communist slogans, red stars, and pledges of homage to and solidarity with the soviet union. Official greetings, gifts, and a delegation already have been dispatched to Moscow.

The first anniversary of the government defense of Madrid also falls on Nov. 7, and many banners linked the two events.

Flames Cause Damage of $10,000 to Radio Store

Fire swept through Max Segil's radio store at 1520 Fullerton avenue early today, causing damage estimated at $10,000. The origin is unknown. The flames spread so rapidly, and for a time threatened several nearby frame structures, that Chief Alvin Brandt of the 13th battalion sounded a 3-11 alarm. The families of Walter Swiatly and William Tolotrock, including eight children ranging in age from 18 to 3 years old, were driven to the street by the flames.

214 Slain as Jap Troops Fight Manchukuo Bandits

TOKIO, Nov. 1.—(AP)—A Domei [Japanese] News agency dispatch from Mukden, Manchukuo, reported today that a Japanese army detachment clashed with bandits between Mukden and Hsinking. Fourteen soldiers and 200 bandits were reported to have been killed.

CO-EDS BOYCOTT JAPAN; IT'S WOOL STOCKINGS NOW

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Co-eds of the school of education of New York university today stripped their shapely legs of silk stockings and drew on hose of wool.

Twenty of them decided on the change last week as a protest against the Japanese invasion of China. A meeting has been called for next Friday in the women's lounge, when the Boycott Japan club will be organized formally. After officers are elected, an open meeting will be held for nonscholastic sympathizers.

Dena Kummel, one of the organizers, when asked whether the boycott will include undergarments, looked puzzled.

"What undergarments?' she asked.

"Well, step-ins and such."

"My dear," said Miss Kummel, "we don't wear such things. But everything else that we wear—pajamas, slips, negligees—will be cotton or wool from now on."

SHANAHAN'S FEAR OF ROBBERY BY 2 COUSINS TOLD

Legislator's Plea for Help Related by Partner.

A business partner of the late David E. Shanahan told a jury in the court of Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday that several weeks before his death the veteran Illinois legislator became worried about his financial affairs and accused his cousins, the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, of taking charge of $80,000 from one of his safety deposit boxes.

The witness was Jacob R. Sensibar, 33 North La Salle street, Shanahan's partner for fifteen years in the Construction Materials corporation. He testified in the suit in which the Flynn sisters are contesting Shanahan's will leaving his $850,000 estate to his secretary and deathbed bride, Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan. They also seek to void the marriage, performed in Mercy hospital on Oct. 5, 1936, 13 days before Shanahan's death.

Tells Hospital Conversation.

When he visited Shanahan's hospital room in early August, Sensibar testified, the following conversation took place:

"Protect me, Jake," said Shanahan; "they're robbing me."

"Who's robbing you?" Sensibar said he asked.

"Who is it?" Sensibar asked. "Aunt Kit?" [Shanahan's octogenarian aunt, Mrs. Katherine Shanahan].

"No," said Shanahan.

"Miss Troesch?"

"No."

"The Flynn sisters?"

Tells of Moving Money.

Sensibar said that on investigation he learned that Miss Mary Flynn had gone to the Northern Trust company, obtained $80,000 from Shanahan's deposit box, and put the money in the safe at the Palmer house, where the Flynn's are public stenographers.

"Didn't you know Miss Troesch was with Miss Flynn at the Northern Trust company?" asked Attorney Eugene P. Kealy, counsel for the Flynns are public stenographers.

"Yes, I knew it. I told her she shouldn't be a party to anything like that," said Sensibar. "I told her and Brinkman [Attorney Francis L. Brinkman] to try to get the money back."

Later, Sensibar said, Brinkman showed him a receipt for the money, but the cash itself remained in the possession of Miss Flynn.

"I thought they were stealing the money," said Sensibar. "Helen told me she was at the bank and saw Mary Flynn take out two envelopes from the box and put them in her bosom, then close the box. I later told Helen she would be implicated. Helen said she did not know what to do about it."

Priest Takes Stand.

Father Louis F. De Celle, 3836 South California avenue, pastor of St. Joseph's and St. Anne's Roman Catholic church, testified on direct examination by Attorney Irwin N. Walker that Shanahan had been determined to marry Miss Troesch, who had been his secretary for 20 years.

"I trust Helen completely and I want to marry her," the priest quoted Shanahan as saying on Oct. 4, the day before the marriage. Miss Troesch, Father De Celle said, had told him she would marry the legislator if he wanted her companionship or to have her manage his affairs.

"Did you put the suggestion of marriage in his mind?" asked Attorney Kealy, cross-examining.

"No," he replied. "I just asked him if he was willing to enter the marriage," the priest said.

Three witnesses were put on the stand by Attorney Walker in an effort to show Shanahan's high regard for Miss Troesch. They were Col. A. C Millspaugh, chief clerk in the secretary of state's office at Springfield; Mrs. Ernest Wilson, Springfield housewife who worked in the same office from 1916 to 1934, and Miss Madeline Ogden, secretary to Shanahan at the Construction Materials company.

PRINCESS BABA.

LONDON, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Princess Baba, daughter of the British rajah of Sarawak, and Bob Gregory, who claims the European "catch-as-catch-can" wrestling title, gave formal notice today at the London registry office of their forthcoming marriage.

The princess, youngest daughter of Sir Charles Brooke, admitted she was threatened with disinheritance unless she abandoned her plans to marry Gregory, who is 25 years old. Her father rules a portion of northern Borneo as large as England and Wales, which his ancestor, Sir James Brooke, was given by the sultan of Borneo in 1840 for helping suppress a rebellion.

The 21 year old Princess Baba—otherwise known as Valeria Brooke—became engaged to Gregory after a whirlwind courtship. Her elder sisters are the countess of Inchcape and Mrs. Harry Roy, wife of a jaz band leader.

GOV. LA FOLLETTE RALLYING FROM FLU IN PANAMA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COLON, Panama, Nov. 1.—Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, ill of influenza, was reported somewhat improved late tonight at the United States army hospital here to which he was removed from a ship on which he and Mrs. La Follette were taking a cruise.

Lieut. Col. F. H. Petters, superintendent of the hospital, said the governor had a temperature of 103 degrees when he received medical attention aboard the steamer Quirigua when it docked at Cristobal this morning from Costa Rica, but tonight his temperature was lower. The governor's condition is not now regarded as serious, it was said.

DETROIT BALLOT POLITICAL TEST OF C. I. O. BACKING

These two have made a spectacular fight. Venomously and unflinchingly they hurled charges and counteraccusations, discussing communism, labor, graft and corruption, efficiency of government under La Guardia, city budget, relief, police conduct, schools, law and order, vice, and taxes.

Slightly less bitter was the campaign of personalities pursued by Harold Hastings, Tammany candidate for district attorney, and his rival, Thomas E. Dewey, La Guardia's running mate. This contest in some stages received more attention than the mayoralty fight, with Tammany Hall put on the defensive by the young rackets prosecutor, Dewey, and fighting to retain its hold on this potent office.

Last minute betting odds, heavily favoring La Guardia to defeat Mahoney, leaped from 4 to 1 to 6 to 1. The bettors also favor Dewey at 2 to 1 to win over Hastings.

Elect New Council.

One of the features of the election is the selection of city councilmen, whose membership under the new city charter will replace the old board of aldermen. They will be elected on a proportional representation basis, a new departure here.

City voters will make their choice for all offices except the council on voting machines. For the council paper ballots will be used.

In addition to offices already named, city voters will elect a controler, president of the council, borough presidents, and some borough and county officers, judges, and one congressman.

NEW JERSEY TO VOTE

New Jersey voters will elect a new governor today. The Rev. Lester H. Clee, a Presbyterian clergyman who won election to the state legislature on a reform platform, is the Republican candidate, opposed by United States Senator A. Harry Moore, Democrat, making his bid to be governor for a third time.

Boston, Mass., will select a mayor today from among six candidates in a nonpartisan election. The candidates are James M. Curley, former governor and three times mayor; Malcom E. Nichols, a former mayor; William J. Foley, Suffolk county district attorney; Maurice J. Tobin, school committeeman; Albert Santossuosso, former state representative, and Carleton L. Brett.

Voters in Philadelphia, Pa., will elect county officers today and ballot on city-county consolidation.

In Clevenland, O., a mayor, councilmen, and municipal judges will be elected. Mayor Harold H. Burton, Republican, seeks reëlection. He is opposed by John O. McWilliams, Democrat.

TORIES TAKE LEAD OVER LABOR IN BRITISH VOTING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Big gains were made by the Conservative party in municipal elections held in more than 360 cities and boroughs of England and Wales today. Final results in 127 of the largest cities and towns showed that the Conservatives had gained 33 seats while Laborites had lost 16 seats. Results still were uncertain in London where Labor is expected to increase its strength.

Liberal party candidates gained only three seats and lost 29, while the Fascist bid to enter municipal politics collapsed completely. Up until a late hour none of the 49 Fascist candidates were elected.

Aunt Gets Freddie

REFUSES RETURN OF BARTHOLOMEW BOY TO PARENTS

'They're Strangers to Me,' Declares Freddie.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Freddie Bartholomew, child screen star, will remain in the custody of his aunt who adopted him last April 3, Judge Robert H. Scott ruled late today in denying pleas of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil L. Bartholomew of England.

Attorneys for the aunt, Myllicent Bartholomew, charged that the young star's father was trying "to get as large a slice as possible of Freddie's earnings."

Parents Charge Fraud.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew had sought to regain custody of their son, 13 years old, on the ground that his aunt had spurned their repeated pleas to visit him, and that a fraud had been perpetrated upon the court when full custody of the boy was granted to the aunt.

The parents saw Freddie in court today for the first time since they arrived from England three weeks ago to open their court fight. The young actor called a cheery "hello" to them as he took a front seat.

Counsel for the aunt asked if Freddie was happy with her.

"Yes, sir," Freddie answered. "I've always been with her—since I was 3 years of age. She's just the same as my mother to me."

"Strangers to Me."

"Do you have any affection for your parents?"

"No," he said matter of factly. "They're strangers to me."

When Judge Scott ruled against the parents, Freddie smiled and said, "I am very, very happy."

He shook hands formally with his mother and nodded stiffly to his father.

"About two months after I signed the adoption waiver I decided I had made a mistake," said the father.

"There was so much adverse publicity in the London newspapers, so much reflection on myself and Mrs. Bartholomew, that we decided that if the publicity did not cease I would lose my government position."

'Healing Squash' Is a Meal for Entire Family in Georgia

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The granddaddy of the squash family, the "healing squash," which continues to grow even after part is cut away, provided a meal for the whole family of Mrs. B. S. Turner in suburban Hapeville. Her "healing squash" was 5 feet, 5 inches tall when a chunk was cut off for dinner.

BORAH OPPOSES RALLY TO SHAPE G. O. P. POLICIES

Doubts That Parley Would Reflect People's Will.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A foretaste of the kind of discussion expected when the Republican national committee meets in Chicago next Friday was afforded yesterday by chance encounters in the lobby of the Congress hotel.

The one big question before the Friday session will be whether the organization of the G. O. P. shall authorize a national conference or advisory convention to adopt some form of declaration of party principles applicable to the present state of domestic and foreign affairs.

It was this subject, therefore, that was taken up in private conversation when, at different times, Senator William E. Borah, Harrison E. Spangler, and Earl J. Venable shook hands in the Congress lobby.

Three Different Opinions.

That they were there at the same time was an accident, each being in Chicago for a different reason. But, while excusing themselves from formal interviews, the three held different opinions concerning what should be done by the national committee.

Senator Borah, on his way from Idaho to Washington, is a bitter opponent of the national action plan. Spangler, who was in charge of western headquarters for the Republican national committee last year, and as the representative of Iowa on the national body is one of its veterans, favors vigorous action. He was in Chicago in a legal matter not connected with politics.

Venable, who for several years was secretary to Senator Borah, is executive secretary of the Republican congressional campaign committee. He is here to attend a small luncheon to be given at the Palmer house today to Congressman Joseph W. Martin Jr. of Massachusetts, chairman of that committee.

Martin on Way East.

Congressman Martin is on his way back east after conferences with Republican members of congress on the west coast. The luncheon in his honor here was arranged by Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin, the Illinois member of his committee. The Republican congressmen from Illinois are his guests for the occasion.

Because of his position with the congressional committee, Venable said he was not in a position to talk about the program of the national committee, but it is understood that Chairman Martin and many of his associates in the lower house feel that any declaration of party principles before the election next year may lessen the chances for increasing substantially the Republican delegation in that chamber, because the declaration would not affect all states alike.

Congressman Martin is scheduled to arrive in Chicago this morning and is expected to set at rest any suspicion that the congressional luncheon was arranged at this time to influence the national committee meeting three days hence.

Social Gathering Expected.

Plans for the luncheon were made some time before National Chairman John Hamilton issued the call for his meeting, and now the fact that the date is so near probably will restrain the congressmen from pointed remarks when they sit down together for food. The luncheon probably will be entirely social.

While at first refusing to discuss the national conference proposal, Senator Borah later repeated in new wording the disapproval of the plan he previously has voiced.

"There is no way," he said, "by which the people could elect delegates to a convention, and to hold a convention without the people having a voice as to its membership would be a great mistake."

Hamilton Due Today.

Spangler refused to say anything for quotation, but it is known that he agrees in this matter with Chairman Hamilton, who has said that sentiment in the national committee and among leaders throughout the country favors some form of party expression next year.

Hamilton believes that this question of form will be the principal subject before the committee Friday. He is due in Chicago today for a conference with National Treasurer C. B. Goodspeed and members of the finance committee.

Johnson & Harwood specialize in half-sizes for the woman who finds it difficult to wear the fashions of so-called standard measurements. Many women, indeed, are a little wider through the hips and bustline than many designers allow for. For these women we have fashions in dresses, suits and coats designed to slenderize and to insure perfect fit.

ANNA GIVES HER OWN VERSION OF ARSENIC DEATHS

previous answers to similar questions:

"No, I never. I never did that."

Under cross-examination by Prosecutor Outcalt her eyes often shifted rapidly, and at one point she swallowed with difficulty, then hastily drank from the paper cup of water before her, as if remembering the horrible thirst of George Obendoerfer before he died of arsenic poison, of Jacob Wagner, before he did the same, as described earlier by state witnesses.

The most dramatic moment in the cross-examination came when Prosecutor Outcalt, imitating the gesture the paralyzed Heis made when testifying, raised his voice and said to the witness:

"You say that you did not know any of those old men were suffering from poison, that you hadn't the faintest idea what was wrong with them. Didn't Mr. Heis hold out his poor, crippled hands like this"—and he thrust his out, doubled up, "and say to you early in his illness, 'You did this to me.' Didn't he say that?"

"Yes. Yes, he did," said Mrs. Hahn, "and it made me feel very bad, too. I didn't think Mr. Heis would say such things, after all I did for that man."

Looks Jury Over Again.

Swiftly recovering from her apparent confusion, Anna then reverted to her manner under direct examination, while Mr. Outcalt paused to consult an associate, and swept the jury box with her veiled blue eyes. She looked directly at the jury, appearing to take them in her confidence, just as she had done on direct examination.

Under direct examination by her attorney, however, Anna did not falter once. Sober, dignified, dressed with as rigid an avoidance of frippery as anyone in the jury box, she made a terrific struggle to impress the women of the jury with her candor.

Cold of face, they regarded her with countenances that might have been carved from stone, but she went on, poised, gracious, as if she were making a little intimate talk before a woman's club and had an unresponsive but good hearted audience.

DIRECT TESTIMONY

Under her own attorney's questioning this afternoon her voice was low-pitched and clear, its slight foreign accent and precision rather musical. Except for a dark tinge about her lips, accented by her vague blue eyes, she appeared under perfect control.

She spoke to the jury, not to her counsel, and the effect was one of masterful showmanship.

She readily admitted forging Wagner's name after death on a $1,000 check, and said she knew he would want her to do so.

When Wagner became ill, she said, she didn't know what was the matter with him and doubted that he did, so she called a doctor.

When she came to the subject of Palmer her voice took on a guttural mellowness.

"Do you remember when Mr. Palmer got ill?" asked her attorney, whose voice quivered and whose hands shook during most of the examination, while his client betrayed no such nervousness.

"I do," she replied, with a gracious bow; "it was in January [1937] that he began doctoring. And he was very sick during the flood."

Q.—How did you learn he had gone to the hospital? A.—When Mr. Palmer hadn't been to my house in ten days I called at his, and his sister told me. Then I visited him at the hospital.

Q.—Mrs. Hahn, did you ever put any poison in Mr. Palmer's food? A. [deprecatingly]—Why, no.

Q.—Or in his drink? A.—No, sir, I never have.

Q.—Did you administer poison to Mr. Palmer at any time in any way? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you know George Gsellman? A.—I did.

Gsellman's body was found on July 6. On the night of July 5, state witnesses testified, Mrs. Hahn was seen leading him to the bathroom in his rooming house, and he appeared bent in pain. Chemists testified to huge amounts of poison found in two saucepans, in which meat and gravy had been, near a table set for two in his room.

Offers Defense

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Anna Hahn, on trial on charges of fatally poisoning Jacob Wagner, yesterday followed her son, age 11, on the witness stand in Cincinnati. She denied prosecution charges.

Never Saw Woman Witness.

Mrs. Hahn swore, however, that she had never seen the woman who testified she was in Gsellman's house the night before his body was found. She said she was not there at all that day. Asked how she knew, she smiled archly and said: "I know it was July 5 because I won a lot of money that day—$540—on a horse, Moneygetter. That evening I was not feeling well and went to bed early."

The next day she called at Gsellman's place, she said, and was told he was dead.

Q.—Did you ever put anything in anything he ate or drank? A.—I never saw him eat or drink anything even.

Q.—Tell the court and jury why you denied knowing Gsellman after you were arrested. A.—Because they were accusing me of so many things I was afraid to [admit it].

Q.—Now, Mrs. Hahn, did you know George Obendoerfer? A.—I didn't until about four days before we went out to Colorado.

She then gave a rambling account of how she lost a heel from her shoe, was directed to Obendoerfer, a cobbler, and lingered to talk German with him for an hour. Confiding in him that she was going to Colorado, he told her he had wanted to go there to visit a sister, that if he could get there he would buy a chicken farm and stay.

Didn't Want to Say No.

"He asked me if he could go with us," she said. "I didn't want to say 'no,' so I said it would be all right."

Before court adjourned Mr. Hoodin asked his client if she was on good terms with her husband, Phil. She replied she was not. When he asked her why, the prosecution objected. The objection was sustained.

Earlier in the afternoon she testified that she was born in Germany, is 31 years old now, and came to this country when she was 24. The father of Oscar is dead, she was allowed to say, but when asked about Oscar's paternity an objection was sustained. Her first husband, she said, was a German.

CROSS-EXAMINATION

Mr. Outcalt, veteran of many murder trials in Hamilton county, admittedly had only begun his cross-examination of Mrs. Hahn when court adjourned tonight, but already he had made serious dents in her pretty stories of loving kindness to old men.

"Now, if you didn't know any of those men were suffering from poison," he snapped at her, "didn't the similarity of their symptoms surprise you? Didn't they all die alike?"

"I don't know," she answered, her voice quavering. "I don't know nothing about what poison acts like."

"You said in direct examination that you never went by any name other than Anna Marie Hahn; that you never practiced deception. Now, when you were in Denver did you pawn some rings and use the name of Marie Fisher?"

It's Not Fair, Says Hoodin.

Attorney Hoodin asked that the jury be excluded while he voiced his objections to the question.

"Your honor, it isn't fair," he said miserably when the jury had gone out. "Mr. Outcalt's planning to introduce another crime. I know he is."

He was overruled, the jury brought in, and Mrs. Hahn required to answer. "I did," she said, "but they were rings a little girl in Colorado Springs I met had given me when she borrowed money."

Q.—What, another girl you lent money to? A.—Yes. I lent money to many people.

Q.—I believe you said you were on your way to collect a debt from a woman when you had George Obendoerfer fix the heel of your shoe? Would you mind telling us her name? A.—I wouldn't do that.

Refuses to Give Any Name.

Q.—Will you tell us the name of one single person you lent money to? A. [With shaky dignity]—I wouldn't do that. I wouldn't bring them into this.

Q.—Could you if you would? A.—I certainly could.

Q.—Why didn't you let George Obendoerfer's relatives know he was dying in Colorado? A.—I didn't know he had any or I would have wired them——

Q.—Do you mean that? Or do you mean that you didn't know he had any or you wouldn't have gone with him in the first place? A—I didn't know.

Q.—Do you remember when you told a banker in Denver that your "husband," Mr. Obendoerfer, lived on the edge of town, so you would sign for his $1,000 check? A.—I never.

Q.—How long were you in Colorado Springs? A.—From Friday evening to Monday night.

Died on Sunday Night.

[Q. [Fingering a postal card, a state's exhibit]—And did Mr. Obendoerfer die on a Sunday night. A.—Yes.

Q. [Smiling sarcastically at the witness and speaking in a soft and bitter voice]—And did you have a good time that day, Mrs. Hahn? A.—Well, we took in all the scenery——

Q.—You enjoyed yourself? You wrote this postcard that day, "Having a wonderful time," didn't you? A.—Yes, we did enjoy ourselves. But I may have written that card earlier and carried it around with me.

Q.—Did you have a good time Friday? That was the day you got there and he was critically ill, wasn't it? A. [Squirming]—Well, he was ill, yes.

Q.—Did you write, "Having a nice time. It is very chilly here, and we threw honest to goodness snowballs today?" [Reading from a card to her husband]. A.—We were up on Pike's peak and it was cold up there.

LOOKS ONCE AT HER

During the hour and a half that Oscar was on the witness stand he looked at his mother only once. When he did, tears welled up in Mrs. Hahn's eyes and she made no move to wipe them away.

At points in his testimony he looked at the woman jurors with appraising eyes. He saw them in many attitudes but all rigged with attention. Their faces were drawn, searching the child's white little face.

The child talked in a clear voice that could be heard in all parts of the packed but ominously quiet courtroom. His big brown eyes were turned steadily on his questioner or the jury as he testified.

Attorney Hoodin asked the boy if he ever played in the cellar of his home. It was there police, after Anna's arrest in August, found a bottle containing arsenic hidden in the rafters.

He Has Chemical Set.

"Sure we played there a lot," answered Oscar. "I have a chemical set, and we make dyes, and experimented with stuff, Billy Johnson and Jackie Glazel and me. We get old bottles from hospitals and from ash cans."

Asked when he last saw the set, he said it "was upset and wet. and one chemical was missing."

Asked if he ever hid the bottles he played with in the rafters, the boy answered: "Sure, so the other kids wouldn't find them."

The attorney held up the bottle, a state's exhibit, found in the cellar. He asked the young witness if he "ever hid a bottle something like that." The boy replied valiantly: "Yes, I did."

"Did you ever have any bottles that had any powder in them?" was the next question.

"Yes, I have," came the prompt reply. "I had one with sort of a whitish powder in it. It looked like that bottle, but I don't know if it was the same."

Oscar, who went with his mother on the trip to Colorado with George Obendoerfer, told of the trio setting out for Chicago on the first leg of the western trip. He said Obendoerfer arrived at the Hahn home in the morning of the day they started. This conflicted with the testimony of a state witness who indicated the elderly man spent the night there.

Stop Sight in Chicago.

The boy said they stopped over night in Chicago, he and his mother staying at the Stevens hotel and Obendoerfer at one near the depot. The next morning they continued on their way to Denver.

"What happened on the train, Oscar?" Hoodin asked.

"Well, we ate on the train," the boy related, "and we bought Mr. Obendoerfer sandwiches and coffee and got him a bottle of beer and whatever he wanted. Then he began to get real dry. I began giving him water and I had to bring him so much water I got tired and got three or four cups and set them on the windowsill by him."

"Did you hear any conversation between your mother and Mr. Obendoerfer about money?"

"Writes Name on Paper."

"Yes, I did. My mother asked him how much money he had. He said only three of four dollars. I started laughing. Mother said, 'a farm costs more than that. We'll have to see about a check when we get there.' So when we got to Denver he was writing his name on a piece of paper."

State witnesses had told of Mrs. Hahn carrying food to Obendoerfer in a Denver hotel. Oscar undertook to wipe out this damage. He asserted that he carried watermelon to the sick old man and that it was he, not his mother, who got coffee for him at a restaurant where the waitress was told to put in three spoonfuls of sugar.

Continuing under Mr. Hoodin's questions, the boy's testimony ran:

Q.—Did you give him the watermelon yourself? A.—I handed it to my mother and she just gave it to him right there.

Q.—After he ate the watermelon what happened? A.—He vomited.

Refused More Melon.

Q.—Did he want any more watermelon? A.—Yes, but mother wouldn't give it to him.

Q.—Did you ever see your mother put anything in his food? A.—No, she didn't.

Attorney Hoodin then went on to other elderly admirers of the boy's mother, all but one of whom are now dead. George Heis, who came to court in a wheel chair to testify against Mrs. Hahn, is crippled from arsenic poisoning.

The attorney asked Oscar about Palmer who died last March. A recent exhumation of his body revealed poison in his viscera, state witnesses testified.

The boy said the first time he saw Palmer was when "I came home from school one day and he was there." He said he had gone to Palmer's house with his mother and they had eaten at his home.

"I had dinner with him, and I et and Mr. Palmer et, and mother et," the little witness recounted.

Denies Seeing Food Doped.

Virtually the same questions and answers were made as to Heis. The boy recalled that he took pancakes, veal, and spinach to Heis. Oscar said he ate a pancake first before his mother cooked one for Heis.

He said he saw Jacob Wagner in the garden working with his mother one day when he came home from school.

As Prosecutor Outcalt began questioning the boy he remained as serene and unruffled as he had been on direct examination. He admitted that Obendoerfer wasn't sick on the way to Chicago.

Q.—But he ate some food on the train going to Denver and not long after that he began to go dry? A.—Yes.

Got Thirsty Halfway.

Q.—Was he thirsty all the way to Denver?

Here the boy apparently became aware that the man now interrogating him wanted to make him say things he shouldn't say. He looked suspiciously at the prosecutor and said: "No, not all the way. About half way there he got thirsty."

But strive as he might to help his mother, it was through Oscar that the prosecutor managed to introduce evidence of the croton oil which the state contends Mrs. Hahn fed her alleged victims to remove traces of the arsenic she previously gave them.

Holding up the bottle which contained arsenic, found in the cellar, Outcault said: "Now, about this bottle. Did you say it was yours?"

Oscar wasn't going to be trapped into saying anything he hadn't said. He replied: "No. I said I had had bottles that looked like that."

Tells of Finding Oil.

The boy admitted slowly that he had found a bottle marked poison at home, "in a chair, under a cushion, and I knew right away it was poison so I gave it to my daddy." He said his mother was not home at the time.

Q.—Your mother was mad when she came home and found you had given it to your father, wasn't she? A.—Well, no, not exactly.

Q.—After she was arrested, didn't you make this statement to police: "My mother got peeved because I gave it to my dad?" A.—I didn't say just that.

Q.—Didn't the bottle you found have "poison, croton oil" on it? A.—I didn't read it. I just saw "poison."

Q.—Do you know when Mr. Wagner died? A.—No. Mother told me about it, I believe, in a day or two.

Q.—How long after that did you go with your mother in a trailer to the Kentucky mountains? A.—I don't remember.

Lived in It a Week.

Q.—Didn't you and your mother and a man named Ray live in a trailer for a whole week? A.—Yes.

A letter, part of which was identified as in Anna's handwriting, said, "If I had a wonderful man like Ray——." The letter has not yet been offered in evidence. Under redirect examination, however, the boy said he and his mother had slept in one bed in the trailer while Ray slept in another.

Then the prosecutor again took the child for questioning.

Q.—Didn't you meet Mr. Palmer when your mother took you out to this handbook place? A.—Yes.

Sugar in the Spinach.

Q.—Oscar, did your mother ever put any sugar in Mr. Heis' spinach? A.—No.

Heis testified the spinach Mrs. Hahn fed him had a sweetish taste and experts explained that arsenic has a sweetish taste. When Heis asked Mrs. Hahn if she had put sugar in it, he testified, she replied: "No, but Oscar might have."

"When you got back from Colorado and you said you have met Mr. Obendoerfer accidentally in Chicago, you said that because your mother told you to, didn't you?", was Prosecutor Outcalt's last question to the boy.

"Yes I did," Oscar answered staunchly. Then he climbed down off the witness stand and walked steadily out of the courtroom.

TWO POSTOFFICE YEGGS SLAIN BY SHERIF'S SQUAD

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 2 [Tuesday]. —(AP)—Sherif William Van Antwerp and a squad of deputies and postal agents shot and killed two men trapped early today in the postoffice at Smith's Creek, a village about ten miles southwest of here.

Van Antwerp said the men were attempting to crack the safe. He described them as Detroit hoodlums. One, he said, was Frank Milwaczek, alias Shorty Novak, 38 years old. The other body could not be identified immediately.

Deputies were concentrated after an attempt was made to enter the postoffice Sunday night.

Amnesia Victim

Girl found wandering at Michigan avenue and 29th street.

A girl about 18 years old who appeared to be an amnesia victim was found wandering in Michigan avenue near 29th street early yesterday by a Pekin Inn police squad. At the Central station her only answer to questions was: "I don't know." The young woman, a brunette, wore a red shirtwaist, pink overalls of the theatrical type, and a green coat.

MONEY MACHINE BUYER REPORTS A $578 ROBBERY

Benjamin Fishbain, wealthy laundry owner who a year ago told police a story of paying $100,000 to some glib confidence men for a money making machine, told some more of the story last night at the Fillmore street station, where he went to report a stickup. In the course of the questioning Sergt. Arthur March asked him about that $100,000.

"O, that deal?" the sergeant quoted Fishbain as saying, "I really only lost $3,500. But my attorney told me to say $100,000, so if the swindlers were caught in some other part of the country the police would be glad to bring them back at no expense to me."

Last night's robbery losses were put at $578 by Fishbain, who said a gunman took the money from him and Miss Eugenie Evans, 30 years old, 4616 Hazel avenue, manager of his apartment building at 4828-38 Quincy street, who had just collected $550 of it in rent. The bandit, he said, climbed into his automobile, parked in front of the building. Fishbain is married and lives at 1050 North Spaulding avenue.

DELAY GRANT PK. SLAYING CASE FOR SAPIENZA RETURN

While state's attorney's detectives were returning to Chicago yesterday with Anthony Sapienza from Shreveport, La., the cases of two men indicted with him for the murder of Herbert W. Lee, Evanston market owner, were continued to Nov. 5 in Criminal court. The co-defendants are Leonard Doxey, 31 years old, and Albert Minella, 26 years old.

Assistant State's Attorney Emmett Moynihan requested the continuance so that the three men can be tried together. However, it was indicated that Doxey will testify for the state. Sapienza, who is 32 years old, was captured Sunday at Shreveport.

LEITER HEIRS SUE; ACCUSE BANK OF JUGGLING FUNDS

Seek Removal as Trustee of Three Legacies.

Leiter Grandsons

Colin L. Campbell (left) and Cecil J. A. Howard, who are suing bank in administration of trusts.

The Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company was accused yesterday of gross misconduct, dereliction of duty, malfeasance, breach of trust, and juggling funds as administrator of three trusts, amounting in all to $650,000, the beneficiaries of which are three grandchildren of the late Levi Z. Leiter, pioneer Chicago merchant.

The charges were contained in a bill filed in the Superior court for the grandchildren, Thomas Leiter of Washington, D. C.; Colin L. Campbell of Goleta, Cal., and Cecil J. A. Howard of London. The suit, filed by Attorneys Denis E. Sullivan Jr. and Edmond Sullivan, asks for an accounting and the removal of the bank as trustee.

Two Others Join In.

Because of a peculiar contingency in the will of Mrs. Mary T. Leiter, widow of the merchant, who established the trusts, before her death in 1913, two other grandchildren, Nancy Leiter and Audry Nancy Campbell, both of Washington, D. C., joined in the suit. Because of this same provision, by friendly agreement within the family, five other grandchildren are named with the bank as defendants. They are the Baroness Ravensdale, Lady Alexandra Metcalfe, the earl of Suffolk and Burks, Greville Reginald Howard, all of England, and Mrs. H. Stanley Clarke.

Mrs. Leiter's will provided that the three grandsons should receive a life income from the three trusts, which originally amounted to $100,000 each, until the death of her daughter, the countess of Suffolk and Burks, when they inherit the principal.

The income, however, would not be distributed for twenty years or until the grandsons complied with a provision that each spend six months a year in Chicago working for her husband's $50,000,000 estate.

Equal Division Ordered.

Should the grandsons fail to begin this duty upon reaching their majority, Mrs. Leiter's will stated that their shares were to be divided equally among all ten of the grandchildren. For this reason, which gives all the grandchildren a contingent interest in the trusts, the other seven were made parties to the suit.

Colin Campbell was the first to comply with the residence requirements of his grandmother's will, beginning to receive the income from his trust in 1929. Thomas Leiter followed in 1931 and Cecil Howard in 1932. They have another suit pending which seeks to relieve them of the six months' residence here.

Object to Lump Action.

In yesterday's action, the grandsons accuse the bank of deliberately evading specific instructions in Mrs. Leiter's will by administrating the securities in a lump sum instead of in three separate trusts. The total value of the trusts with their accumulated interest is $650,000, according to the plaintifs' attorneys.

Lumping of the trusts, the suit states, has deprived the plaintifs of the protection and security Mrs. Leiter intended for them and has resulted in the bank paying the federal government $7,000 in added income taxes.

Instead of the 1½ per cent fee provided in the will, the suit alleges the bank has collected a much larger percentage. The bank is also charged with making irregular investments in real estate.

Call Value in Doubt.

By mingling the trust funds with its own commercial accounts, the suit charges, the bank has diverted some of the Leiter trust funds to its own "personal and secret profit." The bank is also accused of failing repeatedly to render a full accounting.

"This constitutes gross misconduct and a dereliction of duty," the bill stated, "and renders the trustee utterly incapable of further administering the three trusts."

JAILS ARKANSAN AND BRIDE, 14, AS CHILD BEATERS

Goshen, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A child bride and her husband were each fined $1,000 and sentenced to six months imprisonment today for beating his three small children by a former marriage.

The couple were Mrs. Marjorie Barnes Messingale, 14 years old, and Sanford C. Messingale, 33 years old, who came here a month ago from Harrison, Ark.

Messingale married the girl on Sept. 21, a few days after he divorced his first wife, Florence. He worked as a sharecropper in Arkansas, and taught singing classes. A few days ago investigators found his children, Valear, 2 years old; Albert, 3 years old, and Arthur, 5 years old, suffering from severe whippings.

In court today the Messingales pleaded guilty, explaining they chastised the youngsters because they "were pouty." Messingale sought to excuse the beatings by saying Arkansas laws allowed chastisements.

"Maybe you can get away with child whippings in Arkansas, but not in Indiana," said Judge Aldo J. Simpson. "We're civilized in this area, and we don't even whip horses or other animals that way here."

BODY TAKEN FROM RIVER.

BUROCRATS POUR WOES INTO EAR OF 'SON JIMMY'

Roosevelt's Son on Job as Dad's Listener.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Although the President was out of town the White House today was presided over by another Roosevelt who received several top men in the administration and solemnly discussed with them the state of the union.

The occasion was the assumption of James Roosevelt, eldest son of the President, and his $10,000 a year secretary, of the new post of correlator of the activities of eighteen governmental units and general "buffer" for his father.

May Be Another "Boloney" Setup.

At the end of a strenuous day of conferences, "Jimmy," as he is known in administration circles, settled back in his armchair and declared he had learned a great deal. He admitted he had to make good or the whole plan would be just more "boloney."

Young Roosevelt received the officials at the rate of one every half hour. Emerging, they all agreed the plan was a good one, although none had any specific hope for accomplishment.

Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the maritime commission, said there were 65 bureaus of the government dealing with shipping and their activities should be cleared through the White House. A. J. Altmeyer, chairman of the social security board, declared the plan a "grand opportunity" to bring matters to the attention of the White House.

Eyes Father's Job.

An unscheduled caller was Charley Michaelson, publicity man for the Democratic national committee and writer of many of the administration's fiercest blasts against its critics. James Roosevelt is reported to aspire to follow in his father's footsteps and has dabbled in Massachusetts politics for several years.

Before his father took him under his wing, the younger Roosevelt collected a fair-sized fortune in the insurance business. Congressman Allen T. Treadway charged last August that trustworthy sources said the President's son's insurance sales were "to corporations, eager to be in the good graces of the administration." The Democratic majority in the house prevented airing young Roosevelt's business methods.

JUDGE TO HEAR ABBOTT TROLLEY DEFENSE TODAY

Attorneys for the Abbott committee for reorganization of the Chicago Surface Lines will defend the committee's plan for formation of a single company to take over the four corporations now comprising the system at a hearing today before Judge James H. Wilkerson in federal court. Judge Wilkerson last month indicated he may find the Abbott plan is not adequate to meet the present situation and will consider a 77B bankruptcy reorganization.

The reorganization of the surface lines is closely related to efforts sponsored by Mayor Kelly to solve the transit tangle through an ordinance providing for a unified system.

Judge Wilkerson asked the Abbott committee attorneys to be prepared to discuss their rights to use the streets under terms of the 1907 ordinances.

TWO EX-CONVICTS AND PAL HELD IN ROBBER SEARCH

East Chicago police last night held three men, two of them ex-convicts for questioning in an attempted robbery Oct. 19 at Bill and Goldie's tavern, 7468 Irving Park boulevard. One of the trio was shot by a night watchman.

Acting on a tip Sunday night police went to 808 North Wabash avenue and seized John Faulkner, 24 years old, 5120 Kenmore avenue, who had been wounded in the left side. With him they arrested Tony Eulberg, 26 years old, 1022 North Francisco avenue, who has a prison record. At 812 North Wabash avenue they arrested John Walker, 37 years old, who also has served prison terms.

CHECK THAT COLD IN THE DRY STAGE!

It's Much Easier Stopped in the First or Dry Stage Than in the Second or Third Stage!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages.

(1) The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours.

(2) The Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days.

(3) The Mucous Secretion Stage.

A cold is twice as easy to stop in the first stage as in the second or third.

In fact, to let a cold run beyond the first stage may be to invite trouble.

The Thing to Take!

The preparation you want to take for all colds—any cold—is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets)!

Bromo Quinine tablets are expressly a cold treatment! They are not a "cure-all." They are made for colds and nothing else.

Bromo Quinine tablets are internal treatment and a cold is an internal infection!.

4 Effects in One!

First, they open the bowels.

Second, they check the infection in the system.

Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

Your Safe Bet!

Bromo Quinine tablets may be taken with confidence. They have been on the market for over 40 years and are the world's largest-selling cold tablet. That's proof of their character.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. Both kinds are sold by all druggists, a few cents a box.

When you ask for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets), insist upon getting what you ask for. It's your money you're spending!

MARX BROTHERS ARE FINED $2,000, BUT ESCAPE JAIL

Los Angeles, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Groucho Marx and Chico Marx, the comedians, were fined $1,000 each in federal court today on their conviction of infringing a copyright. It was within the judge's province to impose a jail sentence on the comedians.

Their attorney gave oral notice of appeal.

They were convicted by a jury Saturday of using in a radio broadcast certain "gag" material which Carroll and Garrett Graham submitted to them previously and which they had rejected.

The Marx brothers contended that the late Al Boasberg, screen writer, prepared the script they used in the broadcast. They declared they did not recall the substance of the skit, "Mr. Dibble and Mr. Dabble," submitted by the Grahams, and did not realize their broadcast script was similar.

CHICAGO SYPHILIS CONTROL PROGRAM

REQUEST TO PHYSICIAN FOR A FREE BLOOD TEST

Please send a specimen from the bearer to the Bureau of Laboratories, Chicago Board of Health for a free syphilis test. He understands that he is to return to your office for the result of the test.

The co-operation of Chicago physicians, who have offered their services in taking specimens for free test, as their contribution to the syphilis control program, is greatly appreciated by;

THE ILLINOIS STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH,
THE CHICAGO BOARD OF HEALTH,
THE UNITED STATES PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE

Reproduction of one of the 300,000 cards to be distributed to Chicago school children in the seventh grade and above today. The children are to take them home. The cards provide for free medical tests for syphilis.

LAUNCH TWO NEW DRIVES AGAINST SYPHILIS TODAY

Two important steps in the city's four month old campaign against syphilis will be taken today.

One is the distribution of 300,000 application cards for free blood tests in Chicago public schools. Teachers will ask all children above the sixth grade to take the cards home to their parents.

The second is the beginning of lectures on prevention of venereal disease before groups of industrial workers. It is expected that more than 1,000 employés of Montgomery Ward & Co. will hear lectures beginning today and given on alternate days for men and for women through Friday.

"Montgomery Ward is the first large business organization to give the board of health and the Illinois Social Hygiene league permission to carry their educational program to its employés," said Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, chairman of Mayor Kelly's committee against venereal disease.

"The mayor's committee hopes that all industrial and commercial groups will join in the campaign to get every Chicagoan to volunteer for a test," said Dr. Schmidt.

Meanwhile distribution of 1,000,000 cards, which request physicians to give a free test to the bearer, is being carried out among other groups. This includes twenty-three Cook county women's clubs which have 500,000 members.

Fifty thousand WPA workers and 86,000 relief families will receive the cards beginning tomorrow, it was announced by Arthur Carsten, WPA regional statistician who is directing the WPA syphilis control project in Chicago.

Quickly Relieves Miseries of "Morning-After Acidity"

WHEN YOU WAKE UP IN THE morning dull, headachy or out-of-sorts with yourself and the world, don't keep on feeling miserable. Your trouble is probably due to a night-time accumulation of excess acids that cause "morning acidity" and may lead to . . .

Relief comes so delightfully fast because this sparkling pleasant drink acts on "morning acidity" two ways at once. It counteracts acidity and cleans away the toxic waste matter. As a result, it helps to make you feel fine and look fine.

Now don't endure misery—causing "morning acidity". To feel clean, keen, gloriously alive, start the day right . . . with a little JADS in a glass of warm water. Get a bottle of Condensed JAD Salts from your druggist—today!

ENGLISH DESIGNS IN FURNITURE GET GENTLE SNUBBING

American Pieces Win Buyers' Preference.

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

American furniture for Americans. That seemed to be the reason yesterday for the gentle, but determined snubbing that furniture buyers gave the periods of Hepplewhite, Adam, and Sheraton.

It was a surprise at the American Furniture mart and the Merchandise mart—where manufacturers have displays of opulent, graceful 18th century chairs, sofas, and secretaries—to find the buyers murmuring gracious praises of these pieces, and then moving purposefully on. But they did.

So, a month from now, we will be hearing about a new trend in decor, called Franciscan. It will be furniture fashioned of maple in brushed yucca finish—its design a combination of the Spanish-Indian influence of Old California and the best traditions of the colonial days.

An Aura of 1849.

It will have an aura of the sturdy, rip-roaring days of '49 in its lusty upholstery.

There will be plank top tables, bright floral decorations on drawer fronts, and bedsteads tied together with lether thongs. Quilted chintz footboards and headboards will decorate colonial beds, and, to epitomize the American trend, eagles parading on drapery fabrics will come abreast a rolling line of silver dollars.

To be sure, the buyers didn't completely ignore the 18th century. There were those who toyed with new tricks that have been incorporated in the classic design of tables and chairs. One group of men, for example, found and enjoyed a Sheraton table with an electric switch in its side and a Chippendale coffee table with a liquor cellarette concealed beneath its top.

Youth More Sophisticated.

The furniture market, which will continue through this week, is the merchants' annual source of Christmas playthings for children. And, because young America has grown more and more sophisticated, manufacturers arrayed for them their subtlest emulations of grownup household goods. The miniature pieces which will furnish doll houses will be clean cut and livable, made from mahogany, a new mellow tone of walnut, American butternut, or the rediscovered cherry wood.

Yesterday's opening characterized what mart officials term a healthy market.

LAG IN BUSINESS ALTERS SPECIAL SESSION OUTLOOK

Battle Lines Form Against Roosevelt Policies.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The business recession, which is being dubbed the "Roosevelt depression," has upset all calculations on the extraordinary session of congress called for Nov. 15.

The reaction of returning senators and representatives to current economic developments reveals that the lines are forming for a mighty battle over the Roosevelt policies. On the one hand will be ranged the radical and liberal Democrats contending for further experimentation in the Roosevelt theory of producing less for more pay. On the other side will be found the conservative Democrats and the Republicans advocating abandonment of the Roosevelt economics and repeal of laws held responsible for the present stagnation of business.

Deplores Conflicting Forces.

Representative Roy O. Woodruff [R., Mich.], member of the house ways and means committee, voiced a widespread opinion among opponents of the Roosevelt innovations when he proposed today that congress step into the breach to save the country from another crash.

"Restrictions of production, warfare between the government and industry, warfare between industry and agriculture and labor, and warfare between great labor factions, is the way to RUIN, not the way to PROSPERITY," said Woodruff.

"Coöperation, not opposition, between these factors is the only possible avenue to recovery. Yet the New Deal seems not willing to choose this path even now.

"Increased taxation cannot achieve the solution to present conditions. Starvation of helpless millions of unemployed cannot achieve the solution. Restriction of production and increasing of costs to ultimate consumers cannot achieve the solution. Class hatreds, political wars, and racial discriminations cannot achieve the solution.

Urges Independent Action.

"It is now apparent that congress must move independently of the President and his advisers to restore as quickly as possible the coöperation between all factors of government, industry and labor, and to bring about the coördination between those factors necessary for concerted nation-wide efforts at fundamental recovery if we are to escape another serious upheaval."

How capital has been frightened by the Roosevelt policies is disclosed by a report of the securities and exchange commission showing the decline in registration of new securities for industry since the beginning of the year. The total effective registrations for the last quarter of 1936 were 1¼ billion dollars. They fell to 1 billion 400 millions in the first quarter of 1937, to 900 millions in the second quarter, and to $725,600,000 in the third quarter.

The SEC report said that since the fourth quarter of last year there has been "a progressive decline in the volume of securities effectively registered under the securities act, the total for the month of September falling under $110,000,000 [excluding securities reserved for conversion to other issues]." The total for the third quarter of 1937 "is lower than for any quarter since the middle of 1935, when flotations of new securities got under way on a large scale," it added.

Utility Construction Lags.

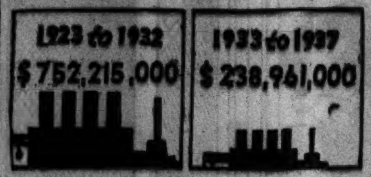
According to the committee of utility executives, electric power plant construction aggregating 3 billions 600 millions would be in progress today but for the antagonism of the Roosevelt régime to privately operated utilities. Said the committee:

"An electric utility construction deficit of $2,600,000,000 has accumulated in the last five years, these statistics show. In addition, next year's normal construction would justify expenditure of at least $1,000,000,000—provided present obstacles were removed.

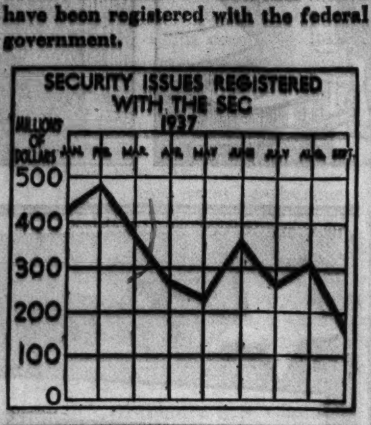
Investment Drops

(Story in adjoining column.)

Investment in new construction by the utilities industry has made a sharp drop under the Roosevelt administration, compared with the average for the previous ten years.



Further evidence of the investment decline is found in securities which have been registered with the federal government.



"Thus a vast untapped reservoir of jobs outrivaling the programs of PWA and WPA awaits release. It is a privately financed recovery measure that will cost the taxpayers nothing and add billions to the taxable wealth of the nation.

Annual Averages Compared.

"The ten year average of new construction by the industry from 1923 to 1932, inclusive, was $752,215,000 annually. This period includes the two subnormal depression years of '31 and '32. The annual average of construction over the last five years has been $238,961,000, including the estimated $450,000,000 for 1937. Thus, if the '23-'32 average is taken as representative of normal growth, then it is fair to say that the utilities have sustained a 67 per cent lag for five years."

3 NEW SCHOOLS AND 4 ADDITIONS OPEN THIS WEEK

Continuing their policy of eliminating portable schools and other makeshift classrooms, board of education officials announced yesterday the opening this week of four new elementary school additions and three new buildings. Approximately 3,000 children will benefit from the new quarters. The largest of the new buildings is the Forestville addition at 4439 St. Lawrence avenue, with 27 classrooms and a kindergarten. Other new structures are:

Bright addition, 10740 South Calhoun avenue.
Chappel Elementary school, Foster and Leavitt streets.
Nettlehorst addition, 3252 Broadway.
Goudy Elementary school, 1101 Foster avenue.

"We are proud of every step that tends to lessen overcrowding, Supt. William H. Johnson said. "Neither pupils nor teachers can do their best work in makeshift school buildings."

PRESIDENT SEES HIS ADVISERS ON FINANCE CRISIS

Morgenthau, Eccles and Bell Are Callers.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The nation's finances held the attention of President Roosevelt throughout the busiest day of his stay in his family home here.

Into his high ceilinged study came Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, and Daniel W. Bell, acting budget director.

Although each of the callers had separate appointments, all were believed to have discussed the same problems—budget balancing, tax revision, and the fluctuating stock market. Bell brought a report on means of financing the new crop control program, for which the President summoned a special session of congress to meet Nov. 15.

Won't Discuss Conferences.

All three visitors steadfastly refused to talk about their conferences. Morgenthau admitted that corn loans had been considered but would not hint as to the policy which the administration will seek to press on congress. He would not discuss reports that the RFC will be asked to underwrite corn loans of 45 or 46 cents up to 100 million dollars.

Eccles, who was even more reticent than the treasury head, would only admit that he had discussed revision of the capital gains and undistributed surplus taxes. He hastily added that "a great many things were discussed." Fiscal experts are urging downward revision of the corporation taxes to stimulate business.

Hopkins Says Good-by.

The three conferences took up most of the presidential day. At luncheon he said good-by to Works Progress Administrator Harry Hopkins, who had been a house guest with his small daughter. Hopkins said his visit was purely social and did not embrace relief problems.

In the morning the President appointed a mediation board of three to work to head off the threatened paralysis of Los Angeles street car service due to a strike call of Pacific Electric company workers.

Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt will go to the frame town hall of his home town to cast a vote in the Dutchess county elections.

5TH RANSOM BILL IN ROSS MYSTERY SPURS U. S. HUNT

Federal agents investigating the kidnaping last Sept. 25 of Charles S. Ross, wealthy retired business man, yesterday turned their attention to another $10 bill of the $50,000 ransom paid for Ross' return. The bill is the fifth to be found in the Chicago area and was turned over to investigators by Mrs. Kinga Ogarek of 8332 Baker avenue. Ross was not returned to his home after the ransom was paid.

State Street Seniors Hear Jesse Jones Warn Railroads

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, last night advised railroad managements to eliminate expensive and unnecessary duplications of service and not to rely too heavily on rate increases to meet their problems. He was the principal speaker at the fifth annual dinner of the Association of State Street Seniors at the Palmer house, which was attended by about 2,000 members and guests of the organization.

The merchants made last night's dinner an occasion for paying tribute to the railroads for their part in building Chicago, and about fifteen railroad presidents were present to hear Jones' advice.

Mentioning the recent request of the railroads for freight and passenger revenues totaling approximately 508 million dollars, Jones said the interstate commerce commission undoubtedly will give it proper consideration, but said that management should not count too much on increased rates to meet its problems.

Tells of Duplications.

He said there are six independent systems maintaining nine tracks to serve the territory between Chicago and the Twin Cities and operating 24 through passenger trains daily between the two centers. He said two or three of the more direct routes, with 8 or 10 trains, could handle all the business.

Jones suggested that the railroads be divided into 5 systems west of the Mississippi—two occupying the northwest and middle northwest, two the west and southwest, and one the central section. East of the Mississippi, he suggested two systems to occupy the south and southeast, and two and possibly three the territory including St. Louis, Chicago, and the east.

He said that elimination of duplicated service undoubtedly would entail some reduction of labor, but explained that labor has a dismissal wage upon which to rely in the event such a course were adopted.

Describes Need for Railways.

"Although it appears that we have more railroad mileage than we can support," Jones said, "the fact that we are living in a streamlined age, with new forms of competitive transportation, does not mean that we can do without railroad transportation."

Jones said holders of railroad securities cannot expect the government to insure their investments, but declared that with government regulating the railroads as to service, charges, working conditions, and other things, it should protect the roads against unfair and irresponsible highway trafic and government subsidized water rates.

Discussing the setback in the stock market, he insisted that business is good and that the country is paying entirely too much attention to the stock market.

Pageant Is Presented.

Other speakers included Mayor Kelly, Frederick D. Corley, president of Marshall Field & Co., and Richard D. Moffatt of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. A pageant of transportation was given, in which transportation from early days to the present was depicted in six tableaux.

H. C. Lytton, only survivor of the 14 original State street pioneers and president of the company bearing his name, was elected honorary chairman of the State Street Seniors, which is composed of about 700 veterans of the State street stores. L. R. Moore, with Charles A. Stevens for 44 years, was named chairman; Francis O. Stevens, with Marshall Field 37 years, was chosen vice chairman; Daniel Hoppe, with Maurice L. Rothschild 32 years, secretary, and Thomas Egelton, with Sears, Roebuck & Co. 32 years, treasurer.

ILLINOIS CENTRAL

We Have to Talk About Money

It takes money to run a railroad, and with increased prices, wages and taxes it takes more money than before. That is why it is necessary to increase rates.

Increased rates are no permanent answer to this money question. Railroads live on their ability to create economies which in the long run will allow rates to be reduced. But right now the rates have to be increased to meet imposed increases in costs.

It is a shame that railroads have had to add to unemployment because of these imposed increases in costs. However, a railroad is like an individual in that it must live within its income. It cannot spend more than it earns and stay in business.

The more money a railroad earns, the more it spends, and the spending puts men to work on the railroad and elsewhere.

CORRIDOR TO MEAT

No. 2. By CALEB

NINE million six hundred thousand meat-producing animals found their way to public sustenance through the Union Stock Yards of Chicago in 1936. It must be apparent that any concentrated area which sees 800,000 head of stock a month must be picturesque—an animal isle in a city of steel and concrete.

Yet, the average Chicagoan never sees the stock yards until his country cousin comes to the city. Then he goes, for the country cousin knows—as knew the now Duke of Windsor—more about the stock yards before his arrival here several years ago than most of us who have lived in Chicago for years.

Away from here there is something dramatic about our "corridor to meat"—the "animal hotel" at which western grains and grasses are converted into gold for rural citizens of most of the nation. Month after month long, rattling freight trains and rumbling trucks on America's highways head Chicagoward with the product which distributed $289,000,000 back to forty-two states in 1936.

Throughout the year—but peaking in the fall—farmers, breeders, and stock growers pace the streets of the Union Stock Yards. They come from counties just over the way and from remote farms, plains, and ranches of the South, the West, and even Canada.

Fifty to seventy-five thousand men a year from western states accompany their stock to Chicago—receive cash for it—see the sights, buy presents and merchandise—and return home. In a busy season the stock yard streets and Exchange Building are among the most cosmopolitan appearing in the world. Drawling Texans in wide sombreros and colorful clothes pause to pass the time of day with the plainsmen of the Northwest in woolly black peaked hats and high heeled boots. Members of religious sects who till the soil and raise fine animals move with trim black beards and clerical collars among cowboys and midwest stock farmers dressed in business clothes. Some of the younger and alert men you see are 4-H boys of a decade ago—the scientific farmers and stock men of tomorrow.

Halsted and Root (41st Street) is the place. The roof of Exchange Building—the only 9 story building in Chicago with footscrapers at each entrance—is a great vantage point.

DUKE'S EMISSARY AND EX-HUSBAND OF WALLY ARRIVE

Simpson Won't Talk and Bedaux Says Little.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Charles Eugene Bedaux, friend and emissary for the duke of Windsor, arrived here tonight only a few hours after Ernest A. Simpson, ex-husband of the duchess of Windsor, disembarked from the Queen Mary on a surprise visit to America.

Bedaux, in whose French château the Windsors were married, is here in the capacity of an advance agent to prepare for the forthcoming visit of the abdicated British monarch and his American born wife to this country.

Simpson, who parried all questions about his former wife, said he had come to visit his mother and to conduct private business in connection with his London ship brokerage firm. Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador to Washington, was his shipmate on the voyage.

Details of Trip Not Revealed.

In a ship to shore telephone conversation before his storm delayed ship docked Bedaux disclosed he carried a disappointment for the country's leading society hostesses. He didn't bring the news about the points in the United States the royal couple will visit, adding that the duke will announce that himself.

When it became known that Bedaux was not to provide the Windsors' itinerary, Sir Ronald was pressed for information on the subject. He offered no light on the matter, however, discussing the royal couple's trip seemingly without enthusiasm.

Simpson Keeps Cheerful.

Simpson amiably skipped all questions about the wife he lost to a king. He also had nothing to say when asked whether he is to marry Mrs. Mary Kirk Raffray when her divorce from Jacques Raffray, insurance broker, becomes final in December. His only comment on that was: "It's amazing how you fellows get news."

However, he was as affable as was possible for one who apparently for months has been watching every word to make certain nothing he said could be misconstrued. He was thoroughly at ease when talking about his trip, but when questions veered around to the Windsors he promptly became reticent.

"I trust all of you are gentlemen," he said to the reporters, "and you realize I have never said anything to the press about the circumstances. You will understand I will have nothing to say now." He paused, then smiled and said: "When do we get a drink?"

BIG FRENCH PLANE LANDS IN AFRICA AFTER OCEAN HOP

PARIS, Nov. 1.—(AP)—France's great flying boat, Lieutenant de Vaisseau Paris, landed today at Dakar, Senegal, French West African colony, after a return flight across the South Atlantic from Natal, Brazil.

The seaplane covered the 1,830 miles over open ocean in 17 hours 55 minutes. Average speed was 105 miles per hour. Officials said no attempt was made to establish a record.

Air France said the plane would remain at Dakar probably for several days until it could be checked after its long flights.

NAZIS ORDERED NOT TO INFLAME WRATH OF SLAVS

'We Fight Only Reds,' Deputy Chief Says.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 1.—Rudolf Hess, deputy leader of the Nazi party, in a decree tonight warned Germans against rash outbursts which might endanger Germany's peaceful relations with other nations.

"We are fighting the world revolution organized by the soviet comintern, but our struggle is not directed against Slav peoples ruled and oppressed by bolshevism," the decree declared.

Hess' order banned the singing of the old German national song, "We Shall Vanquish France," even when the word France is omitted and the word Russia substituted.

Cites Bases of Fight.

Observers recalled that Reichsfuehrer Hitler in his book, "My Struggle," the political bible of Nazi Germany, explained at great length that allied propaganda proved successful in Germany because it stressed that the allies were not fighting the Germans, but the kaiser.

In his decree, Hess stresses that Germany is not fighting the Russian people, but that it is the "unrelenting and irreconcilable enemy of the Jew and of the communism created by him."

Hess banned "utterances which could create the impression that Germans are the enemy of some nation."

Harp on Need for Colonies.

Colonial propaganda is holding sway in Germany this week with every statesman and official making speeches about Germany's need for colonies. Some assert this is done to detract attention from the lack of fats and from poor quality bread and sausages.

Leading Nazis declared tonight they expect Hitler soon will reformulate Germany's claims for the return of colonies lost in the world war and for closer contact with German minorities abroad. It is expected that this will be done in a forthcoming reichstag meeting.

Official circles admit the question of a special meeting of the reichstag is being seriously considered in the chancellery. If it is called it will be after Der Fuehrer has completed reorganization of his ministries, on which he and his aids are working now, it is declared.

BRITAIN STARTS 'WAR OF TONGUES' ON AIR LANE FOES

Will Broadcast in Arabic, Spanish, Afrikander.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 1.—Spanish, Portuguese, Arabic, and Afrikander are the first four foreign languages in which the British plan to broadcast their own version of world news—not propaganda, officials were careful to explain—over the world, it was learned today.

America already is receiving the programs in English.

The other languages were chosen because they are the ones in which anti-British propagandists have been the most active.

Broadcasts in German and Italian "will not be excluded," but will not be undertaken immediately, Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, told the house of commons tonight.

Culled by Government.

The British Broadcasting corporation expects the government to grant $3,250,000 a year to help finance the "propagandaless" news to the propaganda laden world.

Every item will have to be approved by three government ministries, it is understood. These are the board of trade, corresponding to the American department of commerce; the colonial office, and the foreign office.

"Booster" stations to rebroadcast the British programs for the benefit of those lacking powerful receivers will be established on the British Mediterranean island of Cyprus and somewhere on the North African coast.

Distributing stations of similar type will be established in Britain's colonies and other possessions and community loudspeakers will be liberally distributed for schools, public squares and other points where useful.

First of all, it is officially stated, 100 such sets will be installed in Palestine villages with a population of 11,000 or more.

Nazis Aim at Former Colonies.

Presumably these community installations will not be equipped to receive on the wave length of Italy's powerful transmitter at Bari. Anti-British propaganda which that station has poured into willing ears in the near east during the last three or four years in Arabic is blamed for most of Britain's troubles with the Arabs.

Afrikander [South African Dutch] was chosen in an effort to offset the effect of Nazi broadcasts of anti-British propaganda in that language from Zeesen, the powerful German station, in the last two years. This propaganda has been aimed at former German territories there which now are under British mandates.

WINS $150,000; BUT IT IS GONE AND U. S. ASKS $106,851

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A Mexican ship mess boy, whose Irish sweepstakes winnings of $150,000 made him "king for a day," pleaded innocent today to a charge of income tax evasion. His trial was set for Nov. 15.

The government charges Alejandro Vega should have paid an income tax of nearly $70,000, and now, with penalties, that he owes $106,851.

Vega, who says he is penniless, contends he is a native of Mexico and, therefore, is not obliged to pay an income tax in this country.

Under the name of Richard De Laval he won an Epsom Downs prize on May 23, 1936, on Agha Khan's horse, Mahoud. And under the name of De Laval he invested in a string of horses, but he did not pay his income tax.

Corn Husker Accidentally Killed by Shotgun Blast

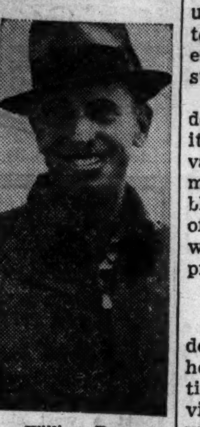
Harold Kohn, 21 years old, was killed yesterday when a shotgun in the hands of a companion was accidentally discharged. Kohn and John Stoub, 15 years old, 1414 South Ashland avenue, were husking corn on the farm of Jacob Bulthius in a field at 73d street and Wold road. Stoub saw Bulthius' shotgun under the front seat of the wagon and the gun was discharged as he lifted it out.

Sues Musician

DOROTHY GARBER.

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Dorothy C. Garber, wife of Jan Garber, orchestra leader, filed suit for divorce today, charging extreme cruelty. She asked a division of community property, valued at $75,000, and custody of their daughter, 9 years old. The Garbers were married in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in December, 1926.

ILLINOIS CORN HUSKING TITLE WON ON 39½ BU.



William Rose.

Van Orin, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—More than 70,000 persons saw William Rose of Kewanee walk out of a cornfield near here today with the Illinois husking championship. He shucked 39.54 bushels of corn in 80 minutes, the official picking time. Rose competed against eleven other county champions in a field of yellow corn that averaged more than 101 bushels an acre on Frank Grisell's farm.

The new champion will represent Illinois in the national corn husking contest on the Weber Brothers farm in Saline county near Marshall, Mo., Thursday. He will be aided by Joe Endress of Speer, who took second in today's contest, picking 38.30 bushels.

31 Intersection Changes Urged to Cut Accidents

The city council trafic committee yesterday recommended that thirty-one perilous street intersections be altered to permit greater pedestrian safety and swifter movement of automobile trafic. These recommendations will be submitted to the council tomorrow.

Ald. James A. Massen [48th], chairman, explained that the proposed changes are known to trafic engineers as channelization. Although each intersection presents its own problems, Ald. Massen said, channelization generally means installation of safety islands, marked roadways, or similar measures to make it safer for pedestrians to cross the street.

CHICAGO DRAFTS DRASTIC CURB ON TRAILER CAMPS

Council to Get Proposed Ordinance Tomorrow.

Acting on instructions of Mayor Kelly, Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes last night completed the draft of an ordinance for the regulation of trailer camps. It will be submitted to the city council tomorrow. Police immediately began a canvass to report the extent of the camps to the council meeting.

Hodes had been gathering data from other cities on the subject for several months, but it was only last week that the mayor learned that the trailer problem did not end with summer. On the contrary, fall found many of the trailerites settling down for an indefinite stay, which complicated the public health aspects of their light dwellings.

Ordinance Sets Limit.

Thirty days in any six month period is the limit placed on the stay of trailerites under the ordinance. Trailers will not be permitted to drop their hitching post in just any vacant lot but will be required to park in camps where sanitary standards are enforced by a responsible, full time caretaker.

"The elimination of unsafe and unwholesome conditions which exist in unregulated trailer camps is essential to the public health, safety, and general welfare," the proposed ordinance states.

Camps will not be licensed in residential or apartment districts, where it was felt they would depreciate the value of tax-paying property. Nor may any camp be established in any block in which more than one-half of the buildings are homes, except with the written consent of all the property owners.

Health Inspections Provided.

Licenses must be approved by the departments of public works and health. The latter will make inspections to determine whether there are violations and will order compliance under threat of revocation.

For each unit of 8,000 square feet in camp space, the operator must provide toilets, wash basins, and bath facilities for each sex. There must be an adequate supply of wholesome water and connections with the city sewer system. Garbage disposal and laundry equipment are also required by the proposed measure.

Fire Protection Required.

Fire extinguishers are required to be kept in working order in each trailer and in the camp buildings. The caretaker must keep a register of all persons in the camp for inspection by police.

"The problem of education and poor relief were studied, and were one reason for the limit on duration of stay," Hodes said.

Penalties up to $200 fines and 60 days' imprisonment are set forth. The council will determine license fees for the camps.

STABBING DEATH HELD ACCIDENT.

A coroner's jury decided yesterday that Charles A. Baldi, was killed accidentally Sunday in a tavern at 2424 South Oakley avenue. Mrs. Bruna Cani, wife of the tavern owner, testified she accidentally stabbed Baldi with a bread knife.

WIDOW, 73, KILLED WHEN STRUCK BY CAR ON SO. SIDE

Driver Held for Inquest Today.

Mrs. Mary Malz, 73 years old, 7534 Dante avenue, a widow, was fatally injured last evening when she was struck by an automobile at 76th street and Dorchester avenue. The driver, William Reid, 21 years old, 8123 Evans avenue, took her to the Jackson Park hospital, where she died two hours later. Reid was held by the Grand Crossing police for the inquest today.

Struck by an automobile at Greenview and Barry avenues last Wednesday, Mrs. Ida Patock, 65 years old, 1752 Nelson street, died yesterday in the Grant hospital.

Tony Bezouska, 5507 23d street, driver of the car, was not held. Sheffield avenue police said Mrs. Patock was crossing Greenview avenue against trafic lights.

Gates Up, Says Witness.

Testifying at the inquest over Mrs. Janet Getgood and Mrs. Sibyl Brittain, both of Winnetka, who were killed Saturday when their car was hit by a Chicago and North Western train at Pine street in the suburb, Sergt. J. Henry Luensman of Winnetka said he has statements from four witnesses that the crossing gates were not lowered until after the accident.

Joseph F. Cletcher, 4447 North Seeley avenue, gateman at the crossing, said after the accident that the car was driven under one gate as it was being lowered. He is free in $5,000 bond on a charge of involuntary manslaughter. The inquest was continued to Nov. 9.

Safety Campaign Urged.

Deputy Coroner Edward Edelstein, who conducted the inquest at 1610 Maple avenue, Evanston, urged that residents of the north shore suburbs campaign for elevated crossings.

"The people should compel the railroads to do this," he said.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 896 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 680 were killed in Chicago, where 19,232 were injured in the same period.

3 ERRATIC MOTORISTS JAILED; BARRED WITH 5 OTHERS FROM DRIVING

Three reckless motorists were sentenced to jail yesterday by Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court, and they and five others were suspended from driving. Erskine Johnson, 2336 Washington boulevard, received the longest jail term, 60 days, and was ordered not to drive for 30 days.

The others sent to jail are Charles Bruce, 4638 Kelso avenue, and Emmett Mesler, 3850 Irving Park boulevard, who were sentenced to five days each. The former was barred from driving for four months and the latter for one year. Lester Dahlke, Albuquerque, N. M., was fined $10, and Philip Black, 6542 Prairie avenue, was fined $30 ,and each was ordered not to drive for 30 days.

William Wroblewski, 1633 Julian street, was fined $50 and suspended from driving for 30 days. Stanley Kolány, 2420 Haddon avenue, was fined $50 and barred from driving for a year. Fred Starzyk, 1412 North Damen avenue, was placed on probation for six months and ordered not to drive during that period.

Edward Scott, 22 years old, pleaded guilty to speeding and was fined $25 and costs. Scott is a student at the University of Chicago medical school. He was arrested Saturday at 49th street and the Outer drive.

HIGHWAY POLICE WARN OF ILLEGAL TRUCK LOADING

Chief Walter Williams of the state highway police warned truck operators yesterday that the statutory limits on maximum vehicular lengths apply not only to bumper to bumper measurements but also include any load extending over a bumper.

On the streets of Chicago new automobiles are being transported in truck and trailer combinations forty feet long, a length that while legal is awkward and dangerous in heavy trafic. When loaded, one of the new cars being hauled protrudes three feet in front of the front bumper, making an overall length of forty-three feet, three feet over the legal maximum.

"This is a violation of the law and the operators are subject to arrest," Chief Williams said in a long distance telephone call to Springfield.

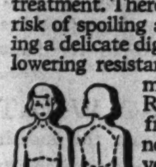
Treat CHILDRENS COLDS this Proved way

WHEN your child comes down with a cold, you can't afford to take needless risks. Use the treatment that has been doubly proved for you—Vicks VapoRub.

It has been proved by everyday use in more homes than any other medication of its kind—further proved by the largest clinical tests ever made on colds. (Full details in every VapoRub package.) Only Vicks give you proof like this.

Vicks VapoRub is direct external treatment. There's no "dosing"—no risk of spoiling appetite or disturbing a delicate digestion . . . and thus lowering resistance just when it is most needed. VapoRub can be used freely, as often as needed, even on the youngest child.



You simply massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back (as illustrated). Then—to make its long-continued double action last even longer—spread a thick layer on the chest and cover with a warmed cloth.

No Long Waiting for Relief to Begin . . .

Almost before you finish rubbing, the youngster begins to feel warm and comfortable as VapoRub goes to work direct through the skin like a poultice. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the warmth of the body, are carried direct to the irritated air-passages with every breath.

This double action loosens phlegm—relieves irritation and coughing—helps break up local congestion. And long after the little one relaxes into restful sleep, VapoRub keeps right on working—hour after hour. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

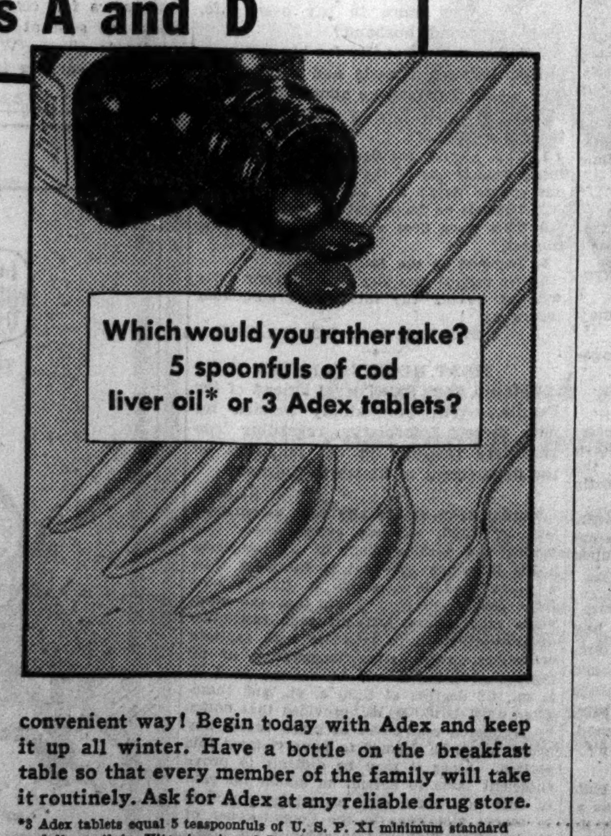
...the modern way for adults to take Vitamins A and D



Which would you rather take? 5 spoonfuls of cod liver oil* or 3 Adex tablets?

PEOPLE had known for years that there was something about cod liver oil that made it so protective, but until recently, they didn't know what it was. Then it was discovered that the vitamins in cod liver oil make it effective.

Today people are taking these vitamins—A and D—as a protection all winter long. But not with spoonfuls of cod liver oil. In a modern form—with Adex!

Just three Adex tablets a day give exactly the same vitamins as five teaspoonfuls of ordinary cod liver oil.* That's because Adex is so very rich in vitamins, all taken from healthful natural sources like good cod and halibut liver oil.

It's one thing to put all these vitamins in a tablet. Another to keep them there.

Exclusive Squibb methods protect the tablets lastingly against destruction of the vitamins. They are guaranteed for their vitamin strength. This explains why you can always depend on them.

Don't be content to get your vitamins in any less convenient way! Begin today with Adex and keep it up all winter. Have a bottle on the breakfast table so that every member of the family will take it routinely. Ask for Adex at any reliable drug store.

SOFKURD
MINERAL MODIFIED MILK

Nature's Most Nearly Perfect Food—Improved

● Have you tried drinking SOFKURD? If you have, then you are probably recommending it to your friends. For the demand is growing by leaps and bounds, thanks to the word of mouth advertising of satisfied users.

If you haven't yet tried it yourself, let us tell you why SOFKURD is hailed as the greatest contribution to milk since Louis Pasteur discovered the pasteurization process which made milk safe.

The SOFKURD process takes fresh, sweet, Grade A milk and makes it even more digestible, therefore more nourishing, more beneficial, more economical.

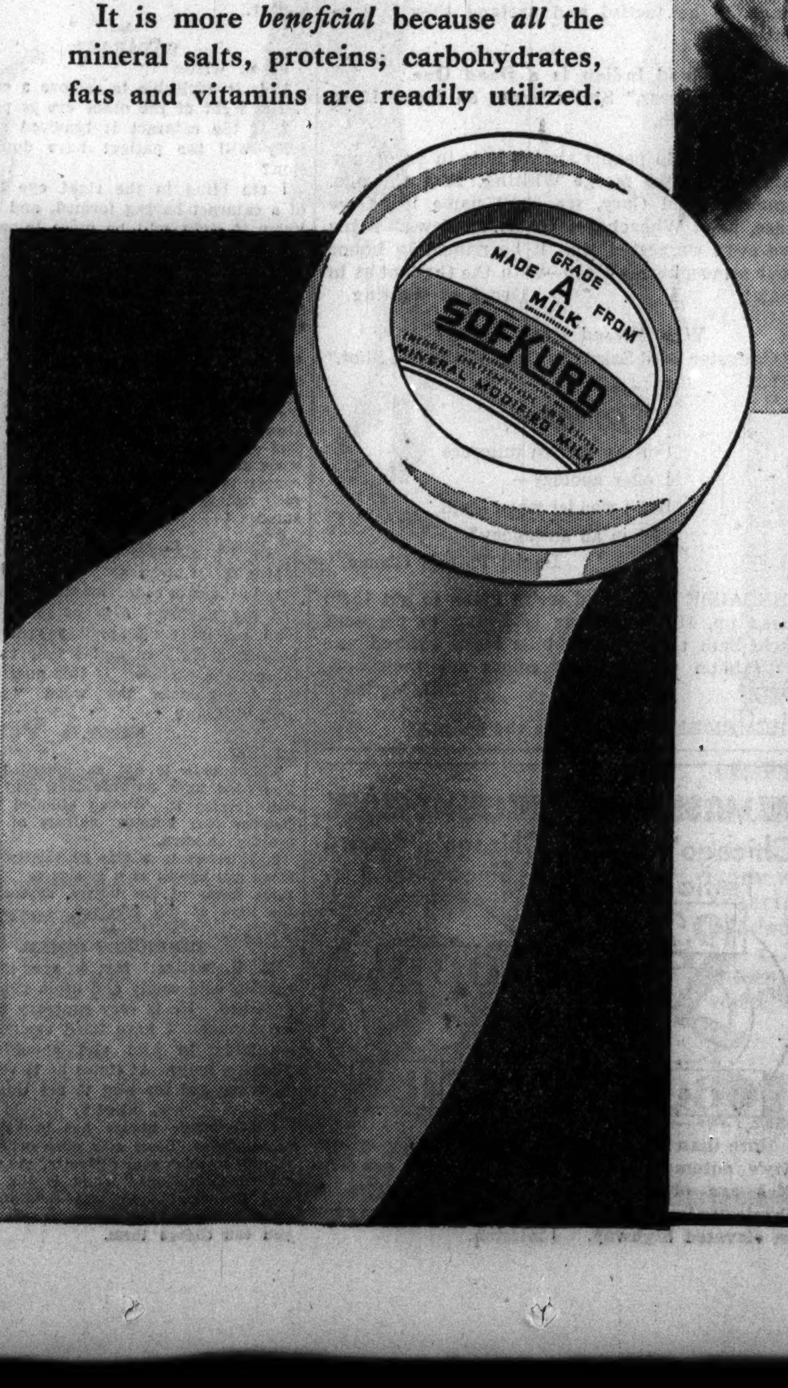
It is more nourishing because a much greater percentage of the wholesome food value is available for the use of the body.

It is more beneficial because all the mineral salts, proteins, carbohydrates, fats and vitamins are readily utilized.



Ask your milkman (who delivers fine dairy products every day) or mark your milk card for SOFKURD

SOFKURD is economical because its valuable milk food elements are completely utilized by the body. One quart of SOFKURD will supply an adult person with a large percentage of his daily requirement of protein, carbohydrates, calcium, phosphorus, and iron, as well as vitamins A and G with smaller quantities of vitamins B, C and D. One quart of SOFKURD will supply an even greater percentage of a child's food needs.

SOFKURD provides an ample supply of calcium and phosphorus (for teeth and bones) as well as carbohydrates and fats for heat and energy, proteins for body building, regulation and growth.

Besides making all of the food value of milk available for utilization, SOFKURD has a rich, creamy, country-fresh taste.

These are the reasons why SOFKURD is hailed as "nature's most nearly perfect food—improved" : : . why it is recommended for children and adults, for well persons and convalescents. And because it is so easy to digest everyone can enjoy drinking this milk.

NO OFF-SEASON CONVENTION.

A Republican off-season convention, as proposed, would be a great political mistake. It would be an assembly of the old faces. It would be a convocation of defeated ambitions, of personages who once dominated sectional politics and whose names are still associated with popular mistrust and, what is worse, derision.

What will the convention expect to accomplish? What could it agree upon? Upon what common ground would these politicians meet, and what sort of a declaration would they make to cause the people of the country to pause and reflect?

To judge by what they have done and said in the past the answer to these questions is: Nothing.

Let it be agreed that it is unfortunate that the party of opposition at the present time is in such a position. A party of opposition is badly needed. The Republican party has not found its spokesmen, and the men who inevitably would be assembled in any conference now wouldn't know what to do or say if they got together.

SETTLE THE AIRPORT CONTROVERSY.

The obstructions to the prompt expansion of the municipal airport seem trivial in comparison to the public interest involved. They should not be allowed to delay proceedings which have moved too slowly. The hazards created by the present situation should be removed as soon as possible and the airport developed as fully as it can be to meet the rapidly growing needs of air transport in this hub of the continental system. We are confident Mr. Herman, whose property rights are involved in the shifting of local railroad tracks, will not use them unreasonably to hold up the city, and both parties to the controversy, if they adopt a fair minded attitude, can come to an equitable agreement without further delay.

AGE IN COMMAND.

The British minister for war, Mr. Hore-Belisha, it is reported, has taken up the problem of age in high command. With war hanging over the empire and the world England is looking very seriously to her defenses, as we should be doing. It should be gratifying to the British public that a minister who has shown the energy and initiative Mr. Hore-Belisha has shown in a previous office realizes that there is an obsolescence in men as well as in material. Naval science recognizes a limit of efficiency in ships. It is perhaps even more important to recognize it in commanders.

The war minister has discovered that four generals in the chief home commands have long passed the age great commanders have won their successes. They averaged 58 at their appointment, while their divisional commanders averaged 54. On the other hand, Maj. Gen. Holmes, who was in Chicago the other day, is 44, and there seems to have been some effort to provide generals young enough to serve under war conditions.

There was a discussion of this question in 1933 upon which THE TRIBUNE commented, when in one of several editorials on that topic we quoted a British commentator's impressive figures. Napoleon was only 26 when he carried on his classic of war, the Italian campaign; Xenophon under 30 when he led "the immortals" in the great retreat; Alexander was 25 at the peak of his military achievements; Hannibal, 30 when he invaded Italy and 46 when defeated by Scipio, 35. Gustavus Adolphus was in his early thirties when he organized what has been called "the first modern army" with epoch making innovation. The great Condé was only 22 at his victory of Rocroi, Wellington under 40 when he saved Portugal from the French, and Frederick the Great just over 40 when he won his greatest victories. Grant was 41 when he took Vicksburg and Sherman 43 in the great year of '63, while Lee was 59. Stonewall Jackson was 38 when he won his brilliant operation in the Shenandoah valley, and the British writer points out that while at first many of our generals were older men, most fell by the wayside under service conditions until by the end of the war the outstanding corps commanders were all in their thirties, as were most of Napoleon's marshals.

It is unquestionable that war is a young man's affair, and this is as true under present conditions as ever in the past. As we said during the discussion in 1933, war is the greatest of ordeals mankind is called on to meet. It demands all the energies of body, mind, and will, in the general officer as in the private, and even more in the commander than in the follower. As Capt. Liddell-Hart, military historian and critic now of the London Times, has just said in the revived discussion: While the numerical tally of years is, of course, not an infallible gauge of a commander's state of physical and mental activity, the changed conditions of modern warfare demand a return to the physical vigor required of generals in the days when they personally led their armies into action.

In fact, the late war demonstrated that personal presence and personal leadership cannot be wisely dispensed with under modern conditions any more than under past. The propensity of commanders past the age of energy and initiative to direct their forces from remote and secure posts of command exacted a heavy toll in unnecessary loss to their troops and costly tactical blunders which would not have been committed if the commander and the staf had been on the ground. Furthermore, soldiers want to see the leader who has their fate in his hands, and the real leader will wish to exert his moral force upon them directly and not expect to do it by deputy. As long as Napoleon's maxim that morale is to material as three to one has any validity this will be true, and the tremendous development of modern material has not destroyed its essential truth and will not as long as soldiers are men and not machines.

To get fit commanders in the high places of command is a major problem of efficient military organization and a very difficult one to solve, as Mr. Hore-Belisha, with all his energy and resourcefulness, will soon discover. It must be a rather cruel solution, too, for it is not easy to deny to men who have devoted many years of peace to fit themselves to meet responsibility the honor which goes with high command. Yet when peace lasts long this sacrifice must be required of them if when war comes the army is to be led by men young enough in mind and body to endure the conditions of warfare and to fulfill all its demands.

SO WHAT AT BRUSSELS?

From the meeting on the Chicago bridge to the meeting in Brussels is about a month in time but more than an ocean in distance. On the Chicago bridge in October Mr. Roosevelt was a confident and determined accuser of bandit nations, and although he alarmed his fellow countrymen his words went traveling around the world, leading people to believe, who wanted to believe, that the United States was about to pop into the middle of things, fully armed in the cause of the better international life.

Since then, fortunately it is to be hoped for the United States, a good deal of the fire has been drawn. The activity of getting into a conference has been brisk enough, it is true. Mr. Norman Davis, the ambassador on the loose, and his staf are ready to sit in at the deliberations, but who knows what it will be all about?

The only assumption that could be based upon Mr. Roosevelt's speech at the Chicago bridge was that the nations which signed the nine-power treaty were immediately to consult and take such steps as would enforce their will upon Japan and compel it to withdraw its troops from the Chinese conquest. That idea has been spiked by Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the British prime minister, who told parliament that Great Britain will have no part in any coercion of Japan by boycotts, economic sanctions, or otherwise.

The British have been outraged since that time by the loss of several soldiers from Japanese machine guns and bombs, but there is no reason whatever to conclude that the position of the British government has been at all changed by popular feeling or that the British at Brussels will be found saying anything but no and so what?

Mr. Roosevelt, after he had released his sentiments at Chicago, distinctly lowered his tone in subsequent remarks about the quarantine of dangerous nations and intimated that the proceedings should include negotiations with Japan with a view to bringing China and its enemy to an amicable agreement. There might be some sense, at least a minimum of trouble, in that, but Japan has declined to have anything to do with the conference.

Therefore it is difficult to see what the meeting is all about, although it is plain enough that a lot of blustering which comes to nothing always strengthens the hand and purpose of the country which, indicted by rhetoric, finds that the opposition melts away into words. Certainly if these countries are dangerous, they are made more so by discovering that all they have to encounter from the outside is an explosion of sentiment followed by a piping down.

An American foreign policy which stood permanently on ground of American welfare, took a long view of real conditions and consistently was proof against emotional snap judgments, would promote the security of the people at home and would enhance the authority of the nation abroad when it was asserted in its proper demands. One injunction of that policy would be not to sign treaties which will not be honored and cannot be enforced when it becomes the intention of the violator to ignore them.

Editorial of the Day

THE BISON BEATS BACK.

[Kansas City Star.]

The government has announced that it is willing, even eager, to sell 289 bison from its four large western preserves. The bison are being offered for $60, crated and delivered to the nearest railroad point, or $50, hide and all, butchered.

Lack of sufficient grazing is the reason given for the offer, and thereby is revealed an interesting fact. Bison, in fact all big game, are on the increase in the United States, so much so that they are growing too numerous for the present range allotted to them.

Within the memory of men now living the western plains contained myriads of buffalo, estimated by Gen. Sheridan at 11 million. They constituted the greatest single reservoir of living creatures in the world. In their millions they were a bar to the settlement of the west, more important even than the hostile Indian tribes, for their strength was such that fences could not hold them and they destroyed crops, besides being a menace to live stock and even human life.

In the '70s the hide hunters carried on the greatest slaughter of wild animals ever seen by the world. Armed with the deadly "buffalo guns"—heavy .50 or .60 caliber Sharp rifles—within less than a decade they all but exterminated the herds. The west, instead of a huge game preserve, became a land of farms, cities, and ranches.

But the extermination went on. And one day America awoke to learn that its most typical big game animal was almost extinct. Only 1,100 remained alive. Many noted men, including Theodore Roosevelt, became interested in the preservation of the bison. A national campaign of education resulted in the protection of the beasts, which became almost sacrosanct. Under that protection the herds, at first numbering only a few hundred animals, have grown into many thousands. In the mere fact that today those numbers have reached the point where the necessity of limitation has been reached America may read with satisfaction the fact that danger of the extinction of the bison is past.

SKETCHES by cartoonists long gone and paintings by the artists of other days have been stored away upstairs, now, in the old restaurant to which we take you today—Madame Galli's. But no cobwebs have been permitted to gather upon one of the sketches, the caricature Caruso drew of the original Madame Galli in 1910. It still hangs upon the wall, near the singer's photograph, and they tell you that Caruso drew it in tribute to her spaghetti.

The restaurant has moved now from Illinois street, where for 43 years it was a retreat for those who loved spaghetti and rare old wines. It has taken its place among the night clubs and picturesque dining places of Rush street, in the remodeled old residence once occupied by John Alden Carpenter. Here Madame Galli's son and his wife carry on the traditions, but they have been forced to modernize; they bring you a menu now, something unheard of in the old days when the waiter told you what there was.

Not so many of the opera folk come in; the Gallis say they don't know many of the new generation. There was a time when half a dozen opera stars, W. C. Fields, and Jane Cowl would have caused no stir if they had all happened in at the same time for dinner. There was quite a flurry the other day when Janet Gaynor and her mother dropped in for lunch. Janet chatted with Madame Galli and wandered around examining the decorations.

Some say Madame Galli's was Chicago's first Italian restaurant, but that seems to be taking in considerable territory. The founder opened it as a boarding house. As the fame of her spaghetti and the sauce she served with it spread, the boarding house attained the dignity of a restaurant, and eventually that of a very fine restaurant, indeed. Eugene Field and George Ade were among her early customers. From the old Criminal Courts building, not far away, came distinguished jurists to dine. Tradition has it that in Madame Galli's was born the Rotary club movement, that Paul P. Harris conceived the idea over a dish of spaghetti. It takes 240 quarts of spaghetti to feed the spaghetti fans on an average day, and it'll be almost that many years before you'll be able to get the secret recipe of the spaghetti sauce.

ARTIFICIAL FEVER—NOT A CURE-ALL.

PHYSICIANS are asked frequently: "What can be done to lower fever?" The answer should be—and is—invariably: "Nothing, until we find the cause."

Of course temperature is but a symptom and the first thing to do is to ascertain where it is coming from. Rather than reduce its level it may be desirable to have it continue. Many authorities believe that it reflects nature's struggle to manufacture an antidote to the disease. We know that heat will accelerate almost all chemical reactions, hence this may be a way to increase greatly the output of neutralizing substances.

An effort then to abate fever is directed only toward those protracted and high temperatures which may actually destroy cells. Thus we may attack a reading of 104 to 105 degrees Fahrenheit with baths and alcohol sponges.

But can it be that fever is curative? Turkish baths, the sweat huts of the American Indians, and the steam ordeals of Finlanders have long been used advantageously. Here the effect of the steam heat is modified by profuse perspiration. In other words, the system behaves as it would on a very hot day in midsummer, cooling its cells by taking in and eliminating water.

Recently, however, attempts have been made to establish within the blood certain healing elements through raising the temperature to 106 or 107 degrees Fahrenheit. The means employed include currents of heated humidified air, high frequency electric oscillation, and external devices, such as an electric blanket. No one of these procedures is absolutely safe unless it is protected at every point. The temperature must be noted constantly, as a defect in the operation of the equipment may cook the body beyond endurable limits. If the operation falls into untrained hands fatalities are possible.

In what diseases is it useful? In so far as syphilis of the nervous system and some forms of gonorrheal infections are concerned spectacular accomplishments have been reported. Among the scores of ailments which have been treated with artificial fever no sound basis for cure has been disclosed except in the two instances mentioned. Chorea also yields to this program, but may require merely injections of some vaccine which will produce a similar result. Now and then a patient with arthritis will be aided. More than 60 different maladies have been subjected to experimentation.

The regimen should not be essayed if the prospective patient is suffering from arteriosclerosis or blood vessel disease of any kind. In fact, any type of heart degeneration may be affected seriously. Therefore persons over 50 years of age may be exposed to a hazard with more harm than benefit.

Protective measures during each treatment must be watched constantly. The patient must not be left alone for a moment, enough minerals must be added to the drinking water to supply those lost in perspiration, and the pulse and respiration recorded to make sure that heart failure is not in the offing.

As with any new measure unwaranted claims for "cure" may be made. In some instances the temperature is maintained at a very high level without the slightest influence upon the original malady. This is borne out by the experience with the malaria organism, which was given for its fever effect. Although it was shown to be efficient in many cases of paresis—enthusiasts were not content, but tried the regimen with other afflictions. An accounting of the end results disclosed patients infected with malaria. Each was obliged to fight the parasite in addition to his first ailment. Fuel was added to the fire instead of the extinguisher hoped for.

We must not allow the dramatic side of the treatment to becloud judgment. It has a definite place, but its utility is exceedingly limited. In gonorrhea, however, particularly if subjected to heat treatment early, the complications which so often lead to sterility will rarely appear.

CATARACT.

F. S. writes:

1. Is it advisable to remove a cataract if the sight of the other eye is perfect?

2. If the cataract is removed successfully will the patient have double vision?

I am blind in the right eye because of a cataract having formed, and I don't know if sight will be more impaired if I have the cataract operated on.

REPLY.

1. It usually is advisable to remove cataract from one eye when it becomes mature, even though the other eye is good.

2. Double vision does occur when wearing the proper correction after an operation for cataract, so that patients usually go without this correction during the time when the other eye is perfect. The difficulty nearly always affects the other eye sooner or later. The operated eye then becomes of great use when glasses are worn. There should be no danger to the good eye in having the cataract removed by a competent ophthalmic surgeon.

LEUCEMIA EXPLAINED.

Mrs. E. M. writes:

1. Is lucemia cancer of the blood?

2. My husband died of chronic myelogenous leucemia about a year ago. I have two children and I fear they may inherit the disease. Is this possible?

3. What does the word "myelogenous" mean?

REPLY.

1. No.

2. Leucemia is not an inherited disease. You need have no fear that your children will develop it. Women afflicted with the disorder may become mothers of perfectly healthy children.

3. It refers to a type or variety of white blood cell known as a myelocyte. There are three forms of the disease, depending upon the kind of cell involved.

DIFFICULT CHILD.

E. S. writes: My 4 year old boy catches cold easily and often runs a temperature. He is very contrary and hard to manage. I have tried various things—talking to him and spanking him. Nothing helps. At times he is very good. Is it natural for him to act this way?

REPLY.

Every public library has books on child management. Some may offer suggestions as to how to solve your difficulty. As a rule the "hard to manage" child is the result of bad training. Study the conditions which seem to cause his contrariness and see if you can change them.

MAKE HIM DROP THAT GUN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES.—A meteorite which fell to earth in the dim and distant past somewhere near what is now the boundary line of the Argentine province of Santiago del Estero may cause a first class dispute between the government of that province and authorities of the adjoining federal territory of the Chaco.

The existence of the meteorite was known as long ago as 1540, when the Spanish conquistadores noticed that the Indians possessed spears tipped with iron. Even by their well known third degree methods the Spaniards never were able to learn the source of the metal. During the ensuing 400 years numberless searchers explored the area where the meteorite was supposed to have fallen. They found nothing but some fragments of it which are now preserved in the museum at La Plata.

In 1884 congress passed a law defining the boundary line between Santiago del Estero and the Chaco territory. The line was to pass over the site of the "Meson de Fierro"—the name bestowed on the meteorite—although no one could say exactly where that was.

Earlier still, in 1873, the governor of Santiago del Estero offered a reward of 2,000 gold pesos and 62,500 acres of land for the discovery of the meteorite.

Now comes Baigorri Velar, who has spent considerable time on the job, announcing discovery of the meteorite and claiming the reward. He says he found the meteorite buried about 5 feet deep at a spot 13 miles inside the Chaco boundary line which was fixed by law when it was found impossible to carry out the law of 1884.

Velar says that the meteorite weighs approximately 22 tons and when fully exposed will constitute a remarkable relic of the past. If his claim is proved valid a knotty point will arise regarding the true boundary of the province of Santiago del Estero. If the law of 1884 is invoked and the boundary line redrawn to pass over the site of the meteorite, the province will acquire a large tract of land at the expense of the Chaco, a tract believed to be rich in oil.

ILLEGAL MARRIAGE.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a person marries a second time, [1] how legal is the second marriage if a divorce was not obtained from the first marriage?

2. Would the second husband have any control over business affairs of the wife? If the second marriage was performed in the same city as the first marriage, how [3] combining is it?

4. Who has more to say over wife, first or second husband?

5. What is the penalty for bigamy committed through threats and fear? Just how would a person go about getting out of such a mess if they have no money to hire a lawyer?

HEAT REQUIREMENTS.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly furnish me with correct information regarding temperatures required in flat buildings by the department of health in Chicago?

J. M.

Section 8119 of the city code as amended Dec. 1, 1928, requires every person controlling the heating plant of any tenement house in which the heat is furnished from a plant used in common to furnish heat from Oct. 1 to June 1 so that the occupants may secure, without such restriction of ventilation as to interfere with sanitary conditions, a minimum temperature of 60 degrees at 6:30 a. m., 65 degrees at 7:30 a. m., 68 degrees at 8:30 a. m., and thereafter until 10:30 p. m., provided that notice by registered mail shall be given before any person shall be deemed to have violated this section. Since it may be difficult to prove sufficient facts to defend an action for rent in case you move out, we advise you first to report violations to the Commissioner of Health, City Hall, and to exhaust the possibility of getting relief by formal notice to the landlord.

FOR A NORTHWEST SUPERHIGHWAY.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—Why all the noise about a west side superhighway or a Congress street development? Have any of these noise makers given the subject any thought outside of purely selfish interests? An honest and unbiased study of the subject must be made in order to get a true picture. A trafic count can determine just how much of the west side trafic is trafic from other parts of the city trying to get to the loop.

Build a northwest superhighway and north side and west side trafic jams will vanish. One has only to see northwest side trafic branching off the north and west side streets to see where all the jams are coming from. Try to get to the loop any morning on Elston or Milwaukee avenue, the only northwest direct route to the loop, and the jams there will convince any one why northwest siders prefer to travel north and west side streets to the loop. Look on Diversey avenue during the rush hour and see the number of cars coming from Lake Shore drive. I would recommend any one to stand at Clybourn and Diversey at 5:30 p. m. to see a real jam.

Look at a map and see where the bulk of the highways converge and see where a highway is really needed. The northwest side has seven main highways ending at its outskirts, the west side has only three. Ask Oak Park and Forest Park to share in the cost of building a west side superhighway and the noise will vanish. Oak Park refuses to be a part of Chicago to pay Chicago taxes, yet it would like to get the benefits. From the city limits on the west side to the loop is only eight miles, while it is thirteen miles by direct route from the northwest corner of the city to the loop, thirteen miles of taxpayers. To get to the loop from the northwest corner of the city one must travel seventeen miles by way of west side streets or Sheridan road to save time. Should there be any question of these facts just try to get to the loop from this northwest corner any day during morning rush hours. Why not give the northwest side a break by building a superhighway there?

STANLEY A. JACQUES.

POSTAL SERVICE.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—I agree with your correspondent, Mrs. Hodeck, about the lack of service in subpostoffices. I stop at the Lincoln Park station often. They have poor service because they need more help at the windows. The money order window has a large line often. Why not open another window? Why not have the boss and assistant boss pitch in at one of the unused windows when there is a rush on?

The postoffice department makes millions of dollars on stamps from stamp collectors; these stamps are never used for postage and no service is rendered. What a fine racket! They issue new stamps every three or four weeks which cost just a few cents per sheet to print. They are sold at $3 per sheet and no service is given. Why not use some of this extra earning for some extra help?

POSTMARK.

THE GAMBLING VOTE.

Park Ridge, Ill., Oct. 28.—Even though the courts have been and are constantly holding that betting in "bookie" rooms is legal in Illinois, Mayor Kelly's police and State's Attorney Courtney's police continue to harass them. The newspapers should support the players better than they do considering the hundreds of thousands of papers sold each day solely for the racing news. Kelly and Courtney's fight for political power is O. K. for them, but we are the ones who are being pushed around. Some of the women in a room in Jefferson Park last week became so frightened that they climbed through the windows. The police were so rough passersby thought the place was being shot up. With dozens of the people being in the 60s, and several men and women over 70 years, it is sickening to see them harried when they are harming no one. We horse players, "regular and occasional," hold the balance of power, and when these birds come up for election next time we should work against them. Maybe we are as dumb as they think, but we are smart enough to know that any ordinary man or woman could hold down these jobs that we put them into.

THOMAS J. PERRY.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Last year I wrote you about the raffles, white elephant sales, tag days, etc., being operated in the schools. The letter bore fruit, as there were several answers, and the activities were stopped a few weeks later.

But little children are still being embarrassed and shamed out of their pennies. During the past ten days my youngster has attended three shows during school hours. One may have had some slight educational value. One definitly had none, being a vaudeville show with tap dancing, comedy, and legerdemain. Do these "actors" need an in to use school auditoriums for vaudeville theaters and school teachers as press agents?

More important is the "voluntary" charge made for the show. My child wanted to give 15 cents so the other children would not think her cheap. And she explained that the children who do not pay have to stay in their rooms and do their lessons. This is what the teachers call voluntary giving.

THE CONSEQUENCES OF DEVALUATION.

Chicago, Oct. 27.—I ask you if the higher costs of most all commodities are not due partly to the decreased value of our dollar?

In France the price of commodities did not immediately change with the devaluation of the franc. It took a little time for business to realize that prices had to rise to meet the devaluation.

So in this country, with the exception of the immediate rise in stock quotations, with the steady improvement of business conditions, and with the distribution by the government of billions of borrowed money, the actual value of the dollar did not materially affect the price of commodities. Now, however, is it not evident that the devalued dollar eventually had to affect prices?

HORNER ADVISERS TO TEST FINDINGS IN RELIEF TANGLE

Committee Plans Study of Chicago Survey.

BY WILL O'NEIL.

Plans for an immediate investigation of the accuracy of the Chicago Relief administration's survey of employables on its rolls were announced yesterday by Walter S. Gregory, acting chairman of Gov. Horner's committee to study the relief problem. At the same time Mayor Kelly expressed confidence that the direct relief load will soon be lightened by shifting many of these employables to WPA.

The CRA is now conducting a survey of the estimated 41,000 employable cases on its rolls to determine the work history and ability of each employable client. It is expected that this will be completed some time this month.

Plan to Use Forty Experts.

"We do not know whether the results of the survey will be accurate," Gregory said. "In order to find out we intend to start work immediately with a staf of at least forty experts checking approximately 10 per cent of the cases. This will give us a guide to the accuracy of the entire survey and tell us whether it will be useful to us in our long time study of the relief problem.

"Private industry, through the Chicago Association of Commerce, has promised to lend us expert personnel and employment men to be put to work as soon as we can get things organized, We plan to put at least two of these experts in each of the twenty relief stations in the city."

Meeting Set for Today.

The committee of fourteen appointed by Horner has been considering for a month ways of attacking the relief problem, Gregory said. It will meet with a joint committee of six state legislators today in the Palmer house at 3 p. m. The legislative committee was empowered by the last assembly to investigate relief and old age pensions. The two committees will map courses of action that will not conflict.

Mayor Kelly said that the city expects WPA to absorb from 20,000 to 25,000 employables who are now on the rolls of the CRA. Five thousand jobs are to be provided this week, the mayor said, and the balance in the near future.

7,200 More Jobs Promised.

H. K. Seltzer, Chicago head of WPA, said that the present WPA quota of 52,800 workers will soon be raised to 60,000, but indicated that this increase of 7,200 jobs is all that the city can expect now.

Mayor Kelly also asserted that he had induced Judge Leon Edelman in renters' branch of the Municipal court to postpone evictions of relief tenants for two weeks.

FANSTEEL STRIKE SENTENCES FAIR, ASSERTS ANSWER

A brief in answer to the appeal of 39 former employés of the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation of North Chicago, who were sentenced for contempt of court for a sitdown strike in the company plant last February, was filed yesterday in the Appellate court for the 2d district at Ottawa.

The answer said that the national labor relations act, cited by the strikers, did not interfere with the police power of the state to maintain order and prevent violence and said that their punishment is justified by the violence and wilful resistance to law enforcement authorities.

The sentences, ranging from $100 fine and 10 days in jail to $1,000 fine and 240 days in jail in the case of Meyer Adelman, organizer for the C. I. O., were imposed by Judge Theodore Forby of Zion, sitting in the Lake county court at Waukegan.

REVEAL VOIDING OF 36 MILLIONS IN REALTY TAXES

New Records Give True Delinquency Total.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Nearly 30 per cent of the $124,902,975 unpaid real estate taxes billed by Cook county for the six years from 1928 to 1933 has been ruled out by the courts and the board of tax appeals. This was shown in a compilation issued yesterday by County Treasurer Horace G. Lindheimer, which disclosed that $36,262,810 of realty taxes has been written off the tax bills for the period.

This compilation, which is the first of its kind, is possible under the land lot ledger system of records installed in the treasurer's office during the last two years. The new accounting system, which keeps an individual card for the tax record of each of more than a million parcels of property in the county, was instituted as a major step in clearing up the tax tangle.

Former Method Inadequate.

Heretofore, in reporting tax collections, the only method of calculating unpaid taxes was by deducting the amount received from the total taxes billed. This method did not allow for deductions resulting from tax objections upheld by the courts and valuation reductions ordered by the board of tax appeals.

The compilation issued yesterday showed that of the $1,028,564,364 total real estate taxes billed for the six years, $903,661,389, or 88 per cent, has been collected to date. Under the old practice, the balance would have been recorded as uncollected taxes. Now, however, the treasurer is able to show that the actual uncollected taxes total $88,640,165, instead of the $124,902,975 difference between taxes billed and those collected. Actually, therefore, 90 per cent of the taxes which are legally collectible have been paid for the six years.

Alters Rail Tax Figures.

The compilation showed also that of $71,656,493 railroad taxes billed from 1928 to 1933, $3,805,000 were ruled out, leaving a collectible balance of $67,851,493, of which $66,901,893 or 98.6 per cent has been paid. Under the old method of reporting, railroad taxes would have been shown as only 93.3 per cent paid.

The treasurer's office is now working to bring personal property tax records up to date and will issue a report soon on the volume which has been ruled out. The present record shows that of the $330,888,000 personalty taxes billed in the six years, less than 55 per cent has been paid. As objections on 1934, 1935, and 1936 taxes have not been finally settled in the courts, deductions on illegal taxes for these years have not yet been calculated.

H. H. Rogers Jr. Sued for $15,000 by Father's Estate

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Henry Huddleston Rogers Jr., who was cut off with a $500,000 trust fund out of his father's $15,000,000 estate, today was sued for $15,000 by his father's executors. They said he hadn't repaid three $5,000 promissory notes.

HARMLESS GUNS FOR RIOT POLICE URGED TO MAYOR

Mayor Kelly will study a proposal that police on strike duty be equipped with harmless gas guns but not with firearms. In making this statement late yesterday he added that police assigned to preserve order in future labor disputes will be selected for their conciliatory attitude toward both sides.

After conferring with members of a citizens' committee on industrial relations, the mayor praised them for having offered progressive suggestions.

The group recommended modifications in police methods of handling strike situations, on the basis of the Memorial day riot at the Republic steel mills in South Chicago, where ten persons were killed.

"My instructions always have been that the police use conciliation in labor disputes," Mayor Kelly said. "However, to make sure that these orders are followed, we will go a step further. Hereafter where there is a strike the city will send only those men whom the strikers won't feel are against them. I believe this will be helpful in preserving peace."

He said he was in agreement with the committee's recommendations that police on strike duty understand and allow full exercise of legal picketing, parading, and meeting, and that they consult with strike leaders as well as representatives of management.

The committee was represented by Glenford W. Lawrence, chairman; William Ayer McKinney, vice chairman; Lucy Perkins Carner, secretary; Herbert Bebb, president of the City club, Mrs. Emily Levy, Orion Page, and Frank W. McCulloch.

RADIO AUDIENCE WILL HEAR ARIAS OF CITY OPERA

Parts of 'Il Trovatore' on Air Tomorrow Night.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Portions of the Chicago City Opera presentations are to be aired in a series of broadcasts direct from the stage of the opera house over NBC starting with "Il Trovatore" tomorrow. Elisabeth Rethberg and Giovanni Martinelli are to be heard on this broadcast which will run from 10 to 11 p. m., with WENR as the local outlet.

Next Saturday, part of the premiere of Walter Damrosch's "A Man Without a Country" is to be aired. Helen Traubel, Arthur Carron, Donald Dickson and John Gurney will be featured. Broadcast will run from 8:30 to 9:30 over WMAQ.

An hour of "La Traviata," featuring John Charles Thomas and Helen Jepson, will be aired from 10 to 11 next Monday with WENR as outlet. Additional pickups are in process of negotiation.

Guest appearances: George Bernard Shaw, dean of British playwrights, is to address America in a special transmission from London at 3:20 p. m. today via WENR. His address will be the first in a series featuring leaders in many fields of British life. . . Gen. Pepino Garibaldi, son of the great Giuseppe, is to make a guest appearance on "We, the People" at 6:30 p. m. Thursday on WBBM. . . Burgess Meredith and Margalo Gilmore are set to do scenes from "Ned McCobb's Daughter" Thursday on the Kate Smith show. . . . Jascha Heifetz, internationally famous violinist, is to make one of his rare radio appearances on the CBS Sunday evening hour Nov. 7.

Three men who have long been prominent behind the scenes in radio hereabouts, Stuart Sherman, Ed Aleshire and Arthur Marquette, are heading a new radio agency, Benton & Bowles-Chicago, which is to begin operation in the Palm-Olive building Nov. 15. Mr. Aleshire is now head of the radio department of H. W. Kastor & Sons; Mr. Sherman is vice president of the toothpaste company which has for almost a decade sponsored Amos and Andy, and Mr. Marquette is associated with the Lord & Thomas advertising agency.

Toby Wing, movie starlet, who is at the State-Lake, was a control room visitor last evening at the broadcast of the Court of Missing Heirs. There is a plan to have Miss Wing appear in this production if she remains for several weeks in Chicago. The Northerners with Harry Walsh as their director, W-G-N favorites, are to open at this theater for a week next Friday.

Sponsors of Vanity Fair, which is to be dropped in favor of the dramatic Grand Hotel starting next Monday, are conducting auditions this week for leading actors for the new show. . . . Martha Crane and Helen Joyce of W-G-N are to address the Lake Shore Athletic club women today on "Backstage Secrets in Radio Home Making." . . . Betty Olson, of the Escorts and Betty, NBC harmony team, was stricken with appendicitis during a broadcast the other evening, rushed to St. Luke's hospital where she underwent an operation.

Harry Zimmer.

Funeral services for Harry Zimmer, son of Warden Michael Zimmer of the County hospital, will be held tomorrow at St. James cemetery near Lemont. He died yesterday in the contagious disease ward of the County hospital of infantile paralysis after being stricken in his father's office last Friday. Harry Zimmer was 41 years old and lived at 2322 Commonwealth avenue. He was unmarried and was in the insurance business.

POLICEMAN FIRST FATALITY OF DUCK HUNTING SEASON

Policeman Otto J. Herman, 37 years old, of the Chicago Lawn station, was drowned yesterday when his boat overturned in the Illinois river, one mile north of Lacon. He and a fellow policeman, Louis Vinopal, 6154 South California avenue, were duck hunting on the opening day of the season. Herman, a good swimmer, started for shore but was pulled under by his heavy clothing. Vinopal clung to the boat and was rescued by river men. Policeman Herman, who lived at 5917 South Wood street, is survived by his widow, Clara.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

Lambs Are Fattened.

November 1, 1937.

THIS year's crop of 268 lambs at the Tribune's Wheaton farm is being fattened for market. The lambs had run on pasture all their lives and had eaten practically no dry feed until they were started on oats about the middle of September.

The amount of feed has been increased gradually until now each lamb is getting a full ration of grain and hay. The grain consists of a mixture of whole oats and shelled corn—six pounds of oats to one pound of corn. The lambs are fed two pounds each of the grain mixture per day. In addition they are given all the soy bean hay they will eat at night and have access at all times to plenty of fresh water. They are running on dry bluegrass and lespedeza pasture.

The lambs were dipped to rid them of lice and drenched with copper sulphate solution for control of stomach worms before being put on feed. They are expected to be ready for market about the end of this month.

Eat Volunteer Oats.

The breeding ewes still are out in the pastures and have been given no dry feed. They are cleaning up some volunteer oats that grew up in the stubble fields this fall. Grasshoppers cut down many of the oat straws before harvest, making it impossible for the combine to pick up all the grain. The kernels sprouted when the ground was soaked by rains late in the summer and the fields soon were covered with a thick stand of lush, green plants.

The ewes are being shifted back and forth between the oat fields and bluegrass pastures, where most of the grass has dried up. They are allowed to graze in the oats about four or five days and then are put on the dry grass for three days. The flock is doing well on this rotation plan. The 266 ewes will be bred in time to drop their lambs about the first of next April. They will be dipped and drenched before cold weather.

Ready for Winter.

Last spring's seedings of alfalfa and red clover at the Wheaton farm appear to be in good condition for going into the winter. These legumes were sown with oats and rye and were damaged by grasshoppers after the grains were harvested, but grew out nicely during September and October and now are in thrifty condition.

The ewes have kept the alfalfa plants eaten down in oat fields that have been pastured this fall. Past experience at the farm indicates, however, that alfalfa is more likely to live through the winter when pastured or clipped closely than when left tall. The plants do not heave out of the soil so badly from alternate freezing and thawing of the ground when they are short.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Pshaw! Here's another opening to write about and the adjectives are all used up. Last night's "Samson and Delilah," the official opening of the Chicago City Opera company's seven week subscription season, was just as glittering, gala, brilliant [you fill in the rest] as Saturday's pre-season, nonsubscription "Aïda."

The stage lights of the Civic Opera house reflected outward on a sumptuously clad audience and shone inward on the squares, temples, and valleys of ancient Philistia. Shone, too, on a multitude of brightly dressed Philistines and Israelites and on generous sized bevys of the dancing girls peculiar to that period.

Of Saturday's principals, Gertrud Wettergren, Giovanni Martinelli, Mark Love, and Giuseppe Cavadore had shaken the Egyptian dust from their feet and had moved smack across the Red Sea to take part in the Saint-Saëns' biblical drama.

Not produced here until 1921 [when it opened the memorable season under the consulship of Mary Garden], "Samson and Delilah" has become in a short time a staple of the city's repertoire. At least a part of the credit for this must be ascribed to the success of the composer's typically French attempt to wed the effective to the musically solid in the score of the work.

The expressive power of Mme. Wettergren's art moved and amazed last night's audience just as it has moved and amazed those who have been privileged to hear her on five or six previous appearances here. Her phrasing has tremendous eloquence even when her voice is not at its best. The great Swedish mezzo's dramatic power and her ability to become a perfectly individualized part in a vast and complicated artistic pattern—without destroying or distorting the pattern—entitle Mme. Wettergren to rank among the most important discoveries of the last few years.

To say that Martinelli's dignity fits him admirably for the part of Samson is no news to any one who saw him in the same opera last year. In the lower octaves of the score, Carlo Morelli and Chase Baromeo discharged competently the musical and histrionic duties of the High Priest and of Samson's preceptor, respectively.

Henry Weber on the conductor's stand kept tempi and phrasing incisive and alive. And the delicately lyrical episodes of the work profited by his restrained use of orchestral volume.

Robert Hall McCormick, vice president of the Chicago City Opera company, spoke again on the necessity of securing for the project the continued support of the people. Once more he stressed the fact that Chicago is providing opera as rich in big names as any in the world, and providing it at admission fees substantially less than that of other cities.

So began the first week of the season. It continues with a re-cast "Trovatore" tomorrow, a popular priced "Butterfly" Thursday, and a "Manon" with three debuts Friday. Saturday will be packed with interest. There is Erna Sack's bow in "The Barber" in the afternoon and the Chicago première of "The Man Without a Country" at night. The latter work will be conducted by the composer, the celebrated Dr. Walter Damrosch.

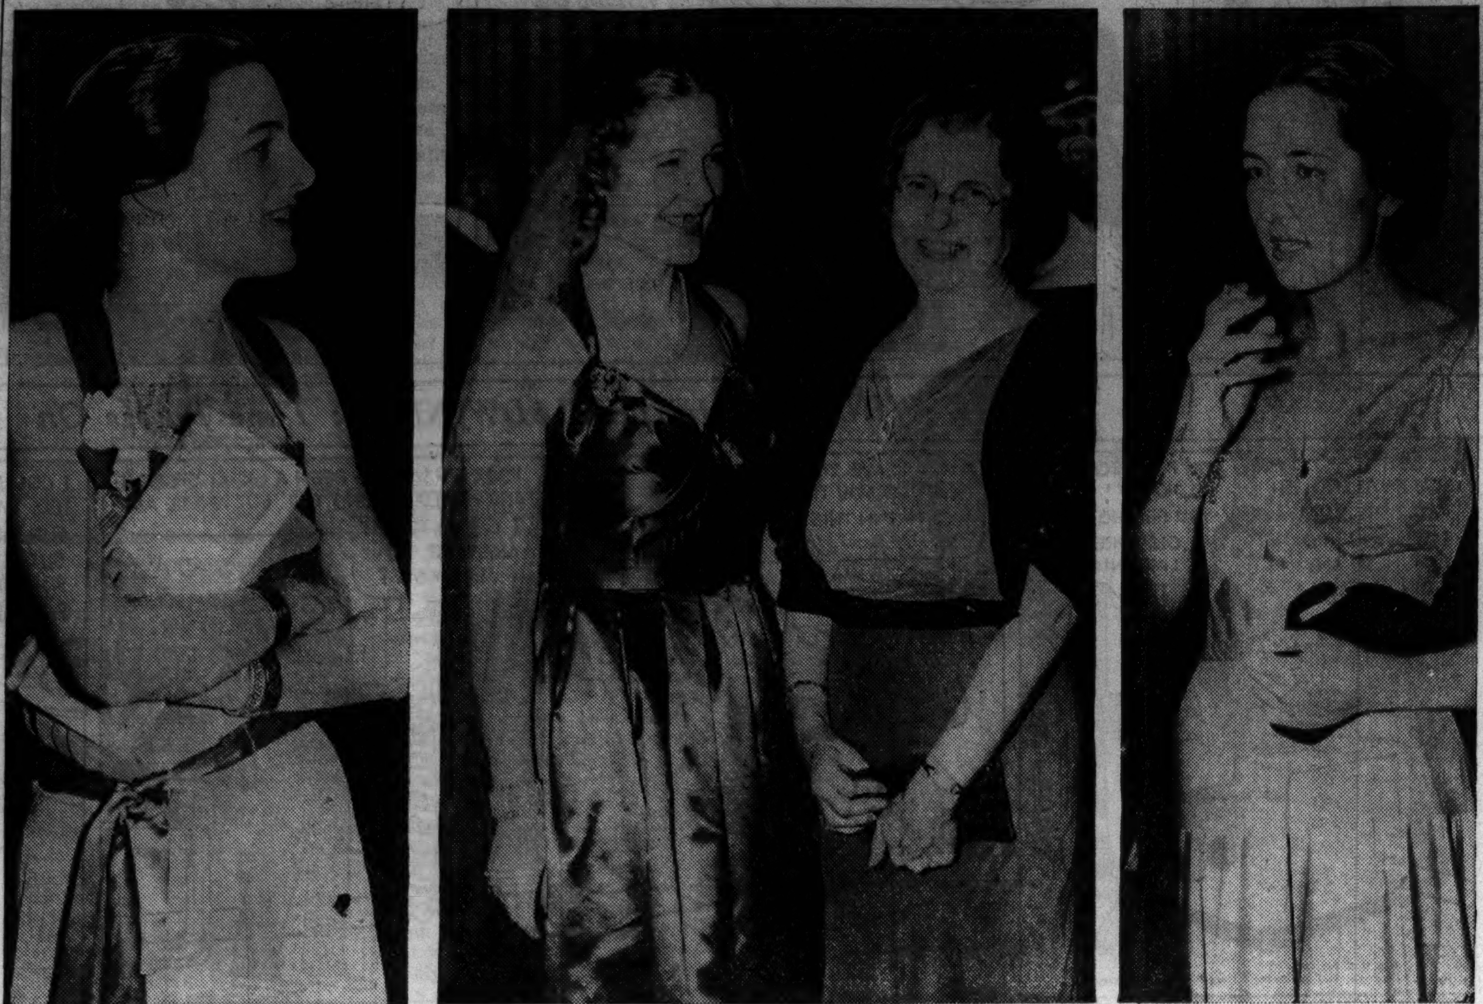
Beautiful Gowns Worn to Gala Opera Performance



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Mrs. James P. Hume, Miss Marion Claire (Mrs. Henry Weber), Mrs. Ida Weber, and Miss Dorothy Dewes (left to right) were among those who enjoyed "Samson and Delilah" last night at the opera. Henry Weber, husband of Miss Claire, and son of Mrs. Ida Weber, conducted. Miss Claire, who will sing with the company later in the season, and Miss Dewes were among the many attractively gowned young women who were wearing veils; Miss Claire's was red to match her satin gown and Miss Dewes' was brown, accenting her gown of eggshell slipper satin.

First Monday of Opera Brings Colorful Display of Fashions

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

WHEN the second night of the opera season is a Monday it is certain to be as brilliant and gala an occasion as the opening, for ever since Chicago had its first opera season Monday has been THE night. For years the managements tried to make every subscription night as socially important as Monday, but in spite of their efforts Monday has remained THE night and will be again this year, without a doubt.

The Saturday matinée runs it a close second; in fact, might be said to tie with Monday if it weren't that a matinée audience never looks as gala as an evening one.

The gowns, the jewels, the furs, and the headdresses seen in the Civic Opera house last night were as colorful and rich as those seen Saturday night, and there was the same atmosphere of excitement and enjoyment that characterized the première.

The people who go to the opera nowadays like it; they aren't bored nor blasé. They have a good time, both while they are listening to the music and during the intermissions when they throng into the foyers and bar and chat with friends. Years ago when opera was given in the Auditorium the men used to go to the Opera club alone and it is presumed that they must have had a very good time there, for they often stayed from one intermission to another, but the women were denied the privilege of having any liquid refreshment in those days. It is not thus today!

Robert Hall McCormick, the vice president of the opera company, who gave another informal talk on the opera during the first intermission last night, had as guests in his box Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Ralph H. James, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, the last name striking in a gown of green chiffon with a row of small pink roses on either side of her auburn hair.

In the next box Mrs. Ernest R. Graham was hostess to her son, William E. Graham and his bride, the former Andree Vilas; Miss Anna Fitzu, Miss Edna Kellogg, and Mrs. Edward Logan of Boston. Young Mrs. Graham was charming in a full skirted gown of white tulle which she wore with a jacket of white paillettes in a green and yellow flower design. In her hair was a coronet of tiny green ostrich plumes.

Mrs. Jacob Bauer brought a party that included Dr. and Mrs. Glenn Frank, Gen. and Mrs. Hugh Drum and their daughter, Miss Carroll Drum, Ove Vett, and Robert Fernald. Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris had with them Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr., the Sterling Mortons, and Mrs. Albert Erskine.

Mrs. Kersey Coates Reed brought with her Mrs. John W. Gary, Mrs. Edward F. Carry, and Mrs. Harold C. Smith; Mrs. John Crerar was hostess to Miss Mary Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loesch, and Patrick Reynolds.

In one of the upper boxes Mr. and Mrs. Franklin M. Miller had the Raymond L. Redheffers, Mrs. Andrew Sherriff, and Dr. Emil Baer, German consul general, as guests. Near by were Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever and her party, which included Mr. and Mrs. Carveth Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Davis.

Occupying front row seats were Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, the latter in a gown of royal blue slipper satin with gold pipings that matched her gold coronet and gold earrings.

Among others there were Mrs. Grace M. Cook, whose son-in-law, Henry Weber, was conducting; Dr. Walter Damrosch, who will conduct on Saturday night when his opera, "The Man Without a Country," will be given its Chicago première; Mrs. Damrosch, Miss Elisabeth Dewes, Mrs. William B. Hale, Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Lawrence, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Mosser. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Willett, Mrs. Edward A. Leight, Mrs. Albert T. Evans, Mrs.

Looking at Hollywood

By Ed Sullivan

Things I'd Like to See Again

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 1.—Babe Ruth, in a world series game, with the count 3 to 2, pointing to a spot in the center field fence and then lashing a homer to the exact spot on the next pitch. What a ball player he was. . . . Jimmy Cagney and Joan Blondell hoofing at the Fulton theater, off Broadway, in "Penny Arcade." Cagney rated $150 a week. . . . W. C. Fields, in the Ziegfeld "Follies" of 1916, doing his hilarious caricature of Teddy Roosevelt. . . . Ethel Waters, at the Cotton Club, the night she introduced "Stormy Weather." . . . Clark Gable playing in the Chicago company of "The Last Mile" for coffee and cake. . . . George Burns of Burns and Allen when he was half of a vaudeville roller skating act, Brown and Williams.

Jesse Lasky and his sister doing a cornet act in vaudeville. . . . Eddie Buzzell and Helen Ford in "The Gingham Girl" on Broadway. . . . The Apache dancing team in the "Greenwich Village Follies," Brown and Prevost. He is better known today as Joe E. Brown. . . . Jack Oakie as Lulu McConnell's vaudeville stooge. . . . Al Shean, of Gallagher and Shean, penning a vaudeville act for his nephews in Chicago, the act that spurted the Nephews, the Marx brothers, to headliners. . . . Pearl Regay introducing the fan dance at Rector's. . . . Mrs. Ted Lewis when she was Adah Becker, a burlesque eyeful. . . . Sigmund Romberg as the pianist at Bustanobys. . . . William Fox firing the pianist from one of his first nickelodeons because he didn't like his playing; the pianist was George Gershwin. Chico Marx got the job.

Wallace Reid in the "Leather Stocking" series . . . Lillian Gish and Dick Barthelmess in "Broken Blossoms" . . . Lon Chaney in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame" or, for that matter, in any picture . . . Harold Lloyd in "The Freshman" . . . Jackie Coogan in "The Kid" with Charlie Chaplin . . . Rudolph Valentino and Agnes Ayres in "The Sheik." Or Valentino, Nita Naldi, and Lila Lee in "Blood and Sand"; Doug Fairbanks Sr. and Billie Dove in one of the first color features, "The Black Pirate" . . . John Barrymore as Capt. Ahab in "The Sea Beast."

John Gilbert and Renee Adoree in "The Big Parade" . . . Glenn Hunter in "Merton of the Movies" . . . Jetta Goudal's grace and charm in "Three Faces East" . . . Ronald Colman, Norman Trevor, and Noah Beery in "Beau Geste" . . . Ernst Lubitsch's first film released in America, "Passion," which introduced Pola Negri and Emil Jannings. That was back in 1920 . . . the work of Jannings, Director F. W. Murnau, and Camera Genius Carl Freund in "The Last Laugh," about 1921, in which Freund introduced a new camera technique [his last was "The Good Earth"] . . . Marion Davies in "Beverly of Graustark."

Lionel Barrymore's magnificent make believe in "The Copperhead" . . . Tully Marshall, Ernest Torrance, J. Warren Kerrigan, and Lois Wilson in "The Covered Wagon." I think Jim Cruze directed it. Carole Dempster and W. C. Fields in "Sally of the Sawdust."

Guild's Drama Bright Play in Modern Vein

"YES, MY DARLING DAUGHTER."

A comedy by Mark Reed, with Florence Reed as star; given in the Grand Opera house Nov. 1, 1937, under the management of Alfred De Liagre Jr. [Second subscription play of the Theater Guild and the American Theater society.]

THE CAST.

Ellen Murray	Agnes Doyle
Lewis Murray	Boyd Davis
Constance Nevins	Helen Flint
Martha	Janice Hanford
Ann Whitman Murray	Florence Reed
Titus Jaywood	Lawrence Grossmith
Douglas Hall	Owen Davis Jr.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

"Yes, My Darling Daughter," which has pleased Broadway for months, was revealed to the Theater Guild's subscription customers last night, in the Grand Opera house, as a bright little play of the week-end species, decidedly pointed in its vivacious comment upon one of the problems of modern parenthood. It chatters urbanely, with a tendency toward casual epigram; it serves the ritualistic highball for the Friday to Monday guest; it becomes slightly dramatic and intense over the tea tray and the lettuce sandwiches; and it wrestles, with comic vigor, over the question: Shall our darling daughter be permitted to spend a few unhallowed nights with the boy friend whom she may never see again?

No doubt it is quite "modern" of viewpoint; and yet in structure and substance it is much like several thousand other light comedies of manners that have had their tours and gone with the wind during these thirty years or more of my chronic theater-going. Its values are those of technique; it is a finished article, written suavely and cleverly but without literary pose; staged with two refreshing interiors of country house atmosphere [near New Canaan, Conn., where everyone is well-to-do]; and acted admirably by a cast which does not need to feel inferior to the parent company, still on duty in New York.

The story, in a few words, is this: The daughter, a comely intellectual just out of college, invites her swain to a free-love rendezvous before they are parted by his desire to sell razor blades to the Belgians. Her mother, twenty-five years ago a rampant Greenwich Villager and free-love feminist, discovers this plan and tries to argue the girl out of it. But she cannot answer her child's arguments; for this studious young woman has done research work on Greenwich Village's contributions to the sex-life of American intellectuals, and mamma's bohemian past is an open book to her. So off she goes to her love affair, with mother's tearful blessing. An angry father gives the audience some heathen amusement; but in the third act the story is given a moral scrubbing by arrangements for a post-nuptial marriage ceremony.

Florence Reed, distinguished actress of many somber or tragic rôles, leads the company in the rôle of the mother and contributes a diverting and pungent character study in a vein of light irony. Her voice, which in other years has been as ominous as that of the hoarse raven over Macbeth's battlements, gives satiric color to her picture of a grande dame who had racketed loosely with the Greenwich Village rebels and then settled down to suburban respectability.

The girl is played with much charm and plausibility by Agnes Doyle, who looks like Margalo Gillmore but imitates nobody. Lawrence Grosswith is also prominently in the picture as a guest whose worldliness helps to solve the domestic problem.

Good Morning!

The man who does the crying is an actor, who, by repeated confessions to murders he's never committed, is regarded by the police as part nut and part publicity hound.

Soon you learn that there's a reason for all this. Lawrence Fontaine is building himself a reputation with the law in order that, when he gets ready, he can really commit a crime without being suspected. . . . One of those perfect alibis, you know. He is, you see, hell bent on putting away the man who, years before, had run away with his wife and little son.

But—so seldom do things turn out as we think they will! Could Lawrence Fontaine have guessed that his son——? Well, never mind. But right here come in some original and interesting twists to the narrative. . . .

Speaking of the yarn—it's no world beater, but the acting is all adept, and the director was right on the job. Lewis Stone, of course, is tops. Tom Brown is appealing as the son. Barbara Read does a beautiful piece of work as the latter's buoyant little sweetheart—and a nice big kotow to Robert Gleckner for his believable impersonation of a police captain!

"The Man Who Cried Wolf" is a short movie. Another point in its favor!

The Housewife

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

The more citrus fruit juices you drink in the winter the better for your health. But there are ways and ways of persuading the juice to come out of the orange. And some give you writer's cramp and a Charley horse in your wrist at one and the same time.

It's a wise housewife who invests in one of the mechanical juicers that are easy to operate, easy to clean, and that certainly do get every bit of juice from orange, lime, or grapefruit. One contrivance operates on the lever and weight principle. You slip half of the orange into the receptacle, then press down on a lever which automatically brings down a metal lid on the fruit and squeezes out the juice.

A coarse, removable sieve strains it. It's so simple to operate this machine that a youngster could do it. And it's so well made [being aluminum] that it lasts a lifetime. We've tried another type that operates by winding a little wheel, but this juicer is far and away superior to it.

Tea to Mark Dedication of New Bauhaus

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE old Marshall Field house at 1905 Prairie avenue, which used to be a center of social life and then was quiet for so many years, is to be the scene of another party. This party will be different from any that has been given in the 25 room mansion in which Chicagoans have dined and danced and been entertained often since the house was built over sixty years ago.

This party is to be a tea in connection with the dedication of the house to its new use. It is a school of design, "in which the principles of design and scientific subjects are taught, coördinated with workshop practice."

The dedication of the New Bauhaus, for such is the name of the school, will take place next Tuesday at 3 o'clock and only those who have received invitations from the Association of Arts and Industries will be present. In fact, a card inclosed with each invitation must be presented before one will be able to enter the doors of the stately brick house, Neo-Grec in style, built after plans by Richard Morris Hunt.

Inside of House Changed Completely.

The exterior of the house has been changed very little to make it into a school; it has a new pink Travertine facing and aluminum letters telling passers-by that it is the New Bauhaus. But inside little remains to remind one of the days when Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Field lived there. Today it is the last word in modern interior decoration, all gray and white, stunning and entirely appropriate to its future use.

Pouring at the tea will be Mrs. Robert B. Gregory, one of the few who still retain their homes in Prairie avenue, once Chicago's south side gold coast, Mrs. George Woodruff, Mrs. Walter Paepcke, Mrs. James Ward Thorne and others who are interested in the association and the school. Dr. Walter Gropius, professor of architecture at Harvard university, who will be adviser to the New Bauhaus and who founded the famous Bauhaus in Weimar in 1919, will be here for the dedication, accompanied by his wife.

The New Bauhaus, of course, embodies the principles of the German Bauhaus, and L. Moholy-Nagy, formerly a professor there, is directing the new school.

The association also has invitations out for a dinner for Dr. Gropius in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer house next Tuesday night at 7 o'clock. After dinner Dr. Gropius will lecture on "Education Toward Creative Design."

Woman's Symphony Opens Season Tonight.

The old Auditorium theater will be ablaze with lights tonight and will remind one of the days when it was the home of Chicago's grand opera company, for the Woman's Symphony orchestra is having its opening concert tonight.

Bidu Sayao, the Brazilian soprano, will be the soloist and Frank St. Leger will conduct the orchestra. Many of those who will be at the concert tonight met the soloist and guest conductor yesterday afternoon at a delightful reception given for them by Mrs. George Woodruff in her attractive penthouse atop 1500 Lake Shore drive.

Mrs. William B. Freer, Mrs. William F. Petersen, Mrs. Walter G. Smith, Miss Emily Goehst, Mrs. Carl Kelly, Mrs. Franklin G. Clement, Mrs.

SYNOPSIS.

When rich old Caleb Winter dies his wife, Isabella, once his housekeeper, wires her daughter, Sally Lee Keyne, at school in Maryland, to come home at last. Because Caleb had demanded a housekeeper without family ties, Isabella had never told him about Sally. Sally bids good-by to wise Mary Culpepper, school headmistress, and sets out. En route Sally meets Robin Ashe, whose family live near the old Crewe mansion, Sally's new home—he falls in love with her. The Winter chauffeur meets Sally in Baltimore and, driving her home, gives a lift to an arrogant tramp, called Vincent. Sally orders the chauffeur to put him out. The morning after Sally's homecoming, Joseph Marr, his lawyer, reads Caleb's will, and her mother has a stroke. Informed of his wife's deception, Caleb left everything to his first wife's nephew, Obadiah Crewe. Mrs. Winter, if she stays on as housekeeper, to have shelter and an income. The new heir turns out to be the tramp, Vincent Obadiah Crewe. Though she hates and fears him, Sally serves him as housekeeper in her mother's place. Vincent inherits Caleb's tricky West Indian valet, Manchi. Sally is touched when Vincent asks her to teach him to be a gentleman. Robin's mother and sister go to Crewe House on visitors' day. Manchi intimates to them that Sally is the new heir's mistress. Robin, whose parents are dependent on his wealthy aunt, leaves college bent on marrying Sally.

INSTALMENT XXVI.

AN ACCIDENT.

Sally bore Vincent's look, keeping her own eyes steady and her face proud.

He looked down and shrugged the shoulders that were too broad and heavy for his hawk's head.

"O. K. If you want it to be like that." He muttered a few more words, something that sounded like "the old lady would likely have more sense."

Both horses jumped sidelong at a thunder shot.

Vincent reined in hard.

"Better go back."

"The storm's behind us. There's an inn about three miles from here . . . closer now than Crewe House. I think we're not more than a mile from the highway and the inn would be the nearest place to try for."

"All right. Make it snappy."

She touched her mare with the light riding cane and both made rapid progress down their leafy lane.

But faster than horses' hooves came the flying feet of storm. Before they came out on the high road they were caught. Rain flogged them, lightning sent Star and Plucky dancing and a thunder clap gave to the latter's self possession its coup de grace. He took his bit in his teeth and ran.

The lane followed the usual pleasant vagaries of country lanes and, even without the veil of falling water, Sally would almost instantly have lost sight of her pupil. She was in terror of him; that intense and fundamental sympathy of one human creature for his endangered fellow, at once submerging the individual, personal hate. She suffered fantastic visions of a young man's death, saw Vincent dragged, kicked, mutilated, saw him in a thousand crushed and crippled ways so that, when she did actually come upon him flung down against the roadside with his head and shoulders in a ditch it was almost a relief so much less dreadful seemed the reality than the least of her imaginings. Plucky had vanished into the streaming, windy world.

Sally tied her own restive mount to the nearest fence rail and hurried to examine Vincent. She was instantly on her knees beside him, pulling away the wet weeds and grasses from his face. He had struck his head against a stone, was bleeding and unconscious. His color was that of death but she could feel his heart beat and hear the slow irregular breath.

Sally moved Vincent with sobbing difficulty so that his head was slightly higher than his heels and spread out uselessly over him her coat, as wet as his. Then, getting up to Star's slippery saddle, she sent the mare off in the direction of Grassaways inn.

It was a blind, slithering, leaping ride. Star stood meekly in the porte cochère, allowing her to dismount. Then she opened the inn door and advanced into the big, well lighted entrance hall. A clerk at the desk rose with a cry of consternation.

"You were caught in the storm!"

"Yes . . . but . . ."

"On horseback, miss?"

"Yes. And will you please get some one to take my mare? She's outside in the porte cochère. But wait a moment . . . the man I was riding with has been thrown and hurt. We must go out and bring him in here at once."

"Let me get Mr. Grange, the manager. They're all at dinner . . . you want to telephone."

"For a doctor . . . and to tell my mother that I'm safe."

By the time she had accomplished these two urgent intentions, the inn had got its station wagon to the door and Sally, refusing to change into dry clothes, climbed, dripping into it with the manager and two other men.

"It's Mr. Crewe," she told them.

"Obadiah Crewe . . . the new owner of Winter's place?"

Her affirmation seemed to increase their sense of his importance. They drove as fast as wind and rain allowed but, when they reached the lane, crept close to its side, following Sally's anxious search with all their eyes. She cried out first, "There he is," and in an instant they were all out, bending over the still unconscious man.

"Looks to me like a fracture or a concussion," said Grange. "Hope Dr. Minor will be at the inn by the time we get Crewe back. It's a ticklish business to move a man with a fractured skull. You must drive slow, Jackson, and keep clear of the bumps."

They lifted Crewe into the car and laid him on its floor between the two lengthwise station wagon seats, where Sally too crouched down, holding his head on her knees between her hands to steady it. The light in the ceiling of the car shone down on the wet, pallid evenly set features making of them a mask with the curious beauty and terror of a mask. That face, she thought, can't possibly ever live again and, dead, the man called Vincent did not seem the same being. This still face was the face of a stranger and, as such, was mysterious, noble, something that might have been beloved. It had sweetness. The heavy lips were gentle in their quiet lines. The closed lids, lashed in dark red, were childlike, pitiable.

When they reached the inn Dr. Minor had not yet arrived. Vincent was carried into one of the bedrooms and there his wet clothing was cut or carefully drawn away and he was covered in blankets. Sally, also in borrowed garments, topped by a flannel wrapper, sat slippered beside him, watching for signs of returning consciousness. After about an hour his eyes opened and Vincent spoke.

"Look a' here, don't you let him come in without giving me a chance to talk to him, will you darling?" he said softly.

He was pulling out one of his white naked arms, stretching towards her its dark red hand.

"If Fred gets in before I tell him about how it happened . . . it will be a mighty tough break for me. It's not so much getting killed I mind but it's him killing me . . . old Fred . . . and never knowing why I did it. See? When did you get back, Tinka? I thought it was a sure thing that you were dead."

Sally said the usual, "Hush. It's all right," smoothingly.

"If you aren't dead sure enough, you know, it's a damn queer mess. But I got the evidence. Only . . . about Fred . . . look a here, you promise you won't let him get in. He was just outside the window while you were playing on the piano."

"Of course I promise." Sally felt a chilly puckering of her skin. "He doesn't know you're here."

"You'll recognize him, won't you, Sally, if he comes to leave his card?"

That startled her. "Vincent!" She bent down closer. "You're coming to your self, aren't you? You do know me?"

"Sure I know you, you little stiff necked devil, and I'll break you good and plenty before I'm through. It's room you want, is it? I'll teach you the meaning of close quarters . . . sure. But you'll know him, anyway. Fred's got a narrow face, like a knife, see? black eyes, kind of close together, a long nose. He's got a grand build . . . like a gentleman, not too heavy, see? He talks mighty low . . . you got to listen close to hear him . . ."

Pat O'Brien Calls Parents for Visit; Gives Them Home

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 1.—[Special].—Pat O'Brien, the motion picture star, presented his parents today with a surprise gift he has been planning for twenty years—a home of their own.

The star's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. O'Brien, of Milwaukee, arrived here today expecting to spend the winter here in a furnished apartment. Instead they were conducted to a recently completed dwelling in the heart of Hollywood, and as they crossed the threshold the actor presented his mother and father with a deed to the property.

The Hollywood residence will be the elder O'Brien's permanent home. Previously they had lived in the same Milwaukee apartment for thirty years.

"Why is it that what's good for you generally tastes so awful?" I once heard a youngster ask.

What's good for us generally doesn't taste "awful," I think. How about the fruits, for example, especially apples and oranges? I know of no person who objects to these, and they're among the most healthful foods.

Orange juice and sliced or segmented oranges may be served at three meals a day without the least monotony. These are only a few ways to make gastronomical use of this precious citrus fruit:

Orange Bread.

[One loaf.]

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon soda
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 beaten egg
¾ cup strained orange juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind
¼ cup melted shortening
½ cup broken nutmeats [optional]

Sift and measure the flour. Resift it several times with soda, salt, and sugar. Combine well beaten egg with orange and lemon juice, grated rinds, and melted shortening. Add the latter mixture all at once to the dry ingredients and stir vigorously only until mixed, not until smooth. Turn into a greased bread pan, cover, and let stand for 20 minutes. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour or longer.

Lamb Chops with Orange Slices.

[Serves six.]

6 lamb chops
Sliced oranges
Salt, pepper, paprika

Broil chops on one side, season, and turn. Place a thick slice of peeled orange on the other side of each, and place under the broiler for 10 minutes longer. Sprinkle with seasonings and serve hot.

Ham with Orange Sauce.

[Serves six.]

1½ pounds ham steak
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups orange juice
Parsley
Sliced oranges

Fry the ham. Add flour to two tablespoons of the fat left in the frying pan, and brown lightly. Add orange juice, stirring well to avoid lumping. Cook until sauce is thick. Pour sauce around ham on a serving dish and garnish the platter with parsley and sliced oranges.

Orange Candied Sweet Potatoes.

[Serves six.]

1 cup orange juice
½ teaspoon grated orange rind
1 cup water
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons light corn sirup
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter
6 sweet potatoes or yams

Combine first seven ingredients and pour over peeled, uncooked sweet potatoes arranged in buttered casserole. Bake covered at 375 degrees for 30 to 40 minutes, or until the potatoes are tender, basting occasionally. Remove cover the last ten minutes to brown.

Orange Breakfast Toast.

[Serves six.]

¼ cup orange juice
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
½ cup sugar
6 slices buttered toast

Mix orange juice, rind, and sugar. Spread over hot buttered toast and place in hot oven or under broiling unit to brown.

Mark Trude, Miss Virginia Stewart, and Mrs. Hubbard Carpenter are some of those who are entertaining at the buffet supper that will precede a squash racquets tournament tonight at the Woman's Athletic club.

Taking part in the tournament will be five of the best eastern women players, including Miss Anne Page of Wayne, Pa., the United States women's champion, and Miss Cecile Bowes of Philadelphia, second ranking player. The women will play five men amateurs of Chicago.

Ridge Farm Will Celebrate Silver Jubilee.

It has been more than ten years since the directors of the Ridge Farm preventorium have sponsored a benefit, but over the luncheon table in Mrs. Henry B. Babson's sunny penthouse high above Lake Shore drive the directors met yesterday to make plans for one in December to celebrate the farm's 25th anniversary. It will be the opening night of Helen Hayes in "Victoria Regina."

Already the women in charge of the party have had requests for tickets and boxes for that night becuase so many parties are being planned. Francis S. North Jr. and Charles D. Preston are entertaining for Mr. and Mrs. Corwith Hamill [Joan Smith] and their bridal attendants of last month. Young Mr. Preston's mother, Mrs. Frederick A. Preston, is chairman of the event, with Mrs. Everett L. Millard as cochairman.

Mrs. Francis R. Dickinson, president and founder of the farm, was not present yesterday, for she has gone to Mexico with her son, Stirling Dickinson, to spend a month in his new home there. A painting by young Mr. Dickinson is a focal point in the living room of the Babson apartment, where it was admired yesterday by Mrs. Babson's guests.

Michael F. Gallagher of Highland Park has received a cable announcing the birth of his second grandchild, Michael Butland, on Oct. 30, in Changsha, Hunan province, China. The infant's parents are the former Garrigue Gallagher and Charles Butland. Their other child is a little girl, Ina, who is a little over two years old. Ina also was born in China but she already has crossed the Pacific several times, for she has visited in Highland Park three times.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Kellogg Platt [Dorothy Pickard] became the parents of their second son last Friday at the Evanston hospital. He has been named Austin Pickard Platt for his maternal grandfather, Wilder Austin Pickard of Evanston. His brother, aged a year and a half, is David Sherwood Kellogg Platt.

Mrs. Thomas Grover and her daughter, Mrs. Grover Winston, have returned to the Seneca hotel, where they will spend the winter after summering in the east. Mrs. Winston's daughter, Diana, is at school in Lowell, Mass.

Hold Eli Bates Sale in Lake Forest Today.

Some of the things that will be given to Miss Clarice Hamill for the green and white kitchen she will have when she is Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr. will be bought this morning at the Eli Bates sale at Mrs. T. Philip Swift's in Lake Forest. Mrs. Mason Phelps is giving a luncheon and kitchen shower for the bride-to-be today at her home in Lake Forest.

Other luncheon hostesses in Lake Forest today will be Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. James B. Forgan, Mrs. Hampden Winston, Mrs. Robert Hixon, Mrs. John P. Kellogg, and Mrs. Kent S. Clow, all of whom are assisting at the sale. There will be especially attractive Christmas wrappings for those who purchase gifts.

The Bryn Mawr College club is looking forward to an especially interesting meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Tavern, when Mrs. Joseph L. Valentine will talk on "Unforeseen Adventures in China." Mr. and Mrs. Valentine were in China at the outbreak of the war.

Mrs. Philip Wyatt Moore, vice president of the club, has arranged the program and tea, at which 1937 graduates of the college will be guests.

Le Cercle Français will meet this afternoon to hear one of its members, Mrs. Edward Summerfield, in a reading titled "Pierre and Marie." Another member, Mrs. Simon Feeney, will play a program of Chopin and Debussy. Marius Paul will talk on "Reminiscences d'Enfance." Mrs. Jefferson Jackson and Mrs. Daniel Taylor will pour.

There will be a tea this afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock in the Albert Roullier art galleries for Mrs. Marguerite Hohenberg, whose abstract paintings go on view in the galleries today. Mrs. Hohenberg, who is Mrs. Arnold Hohenberg of this city, was born in Vienna but came to Chicago when she was a child.

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION.

Question 29: Neither side vulnerable. You are South, the dealer, and hold:

♠A 5 3 ♥K 10 9 7 5 3 ♦5 4 ♣J 7

The bidding proceeds:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	4 diamonds	Pass

What call do you make now?

Answer: You should pass. Your partner's bid was purely preëmptive [shutout] and undoubtedly based on a long diamond suit and little or nothing else. Hence, there is little chance that you could make four hearts, and the same holds true for five diamonds. [One point demerit for any call other than a pass.]

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question 30: Both sides vulnerable. You are South. North deals and bids one spade. Next hand [East] doubles. Your holding is:

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 diamonds	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

Usually it is a prerequisite of good bidding for each partner to "show his groceries" to the other but this does not apply to the type of bidding of which South was guilty in the above hand. I refer specifically to the three diamond bid. South had preferred a jump no trump takeout to an initial response of one diamond, feeling that his distribution and scattered honor strength indicated no trump play, and that the hand would play better with the lead coming up to him. I have no fault to find with this reasoning. When North, however, merely rebid his clubs over two no trump, what possible purpose could a three diamond bid serve? Did South hope that North now could respond with three of a major suit? The chances were strongly against it. North already had had opportunity over two no trump to bid a major and had failed to do so. But I will waive that point. Suppose North actually bid three spades or three hearts over three diamonds. What then? Would South prefer a major suit game contract with only seven trumps in the combined hands? There is no conclusion but that the three diamond bid was just one of those meaningless bids that usually, and deservedly, are boomerangs to the bidder.

In this case it warned West away from his natural diamond opening. As between a spade and a heart opening, West properly chose the former. A short suit opening might strike partner's suit but there was little to be gained by leading from a jack and three small hearts. If declarer had known that the long spade suit was in the hand without an entry he could have fulfilled his contract by going up with the ace. He made the more logical play, however, of finessing. East won and, his entryless condition making a spade continuation futile, shifted to a diamond. Although the diamonds finessed successfully, West was able to establish two diamond tricks for his side before he had lost control of the club suit. Thus, the contract went down one.

Had South made the correct bid of three no trump over three clubs, West probably would have led a diamond and the contract would have become a laydown.

Differences in Children Need to Be Watched

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

I know of two young girls who, when they were little, were always together. They were cousins and quite different in appearance, personality, and the very essence of their inner natures. One was unaffected, reserved, and quietly pleasing in appearance. The other was noticeable looking, talented, and showered with everything from clothes, to food, to attentions from her parents.

The first child, being of a very sweet and unselfish nature, was most admiring of her cousin; but she was often made unhappy and to feel cast in the shade by what seemed like almost superior material and physical personal advantages of her young intimate.

This early association developed, quite unknown to her grownups, into a very pronounced feeling of inferiority; it carried over into young womanhood and is only now being dispelled by the fact that her own latent talents and quiet charm are making themselves manifest.

Differences between children in one family should be very carefully handled by the parents. Repeatedly I receive letters from mothers who describe the family situation in which one child is being made unhappy because of a difference which reflects to the credit of the other. Since children rarely talk about their unhappiness even when they are conscious of it very definitly, these children manifest their feelings in many sorts of ways. Here is one of several letters that will show you what I mean:

"My dear Mrs. Bevans: I have a little problem and I would appreciate it if you could help me. I have a little boy who will be 8 next month. He is quite bright. He likes to read, but does not like to go to the park unless I take him. He does not act friendly to people. He mopes and when people speak to him he will answer something silly or childish.

"I wonder sometimes if the trouble is this: I have another little boy who is four years old. He is very sweet and lovable and has every one fussing over him. If that is partly the trouble I do not know where to start to cure this ill. It is a matter of a few years' growth."

The subject of this article will be discussed further tomorrow.

Art Reviewer Welcomes 3 Good Exhibits

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

Three exhibitions of interest opened yesterday. Paintings by Sam Byers are being shown at The Fair store this week. There are portraits among them, several still life compositions and several studies of animals. Mr. Byers is a member of the Palette and Chisel club and a painter who is well known for his many character studies.

In the Katharine Kuh gallery, Diana Court building, an exhibit of paintings, water colors and drawings by Le Corbusier opened to continue through Nov. 30. Le Corbusier is a modern French architect of international reputation who has made for himself a name among the progressive painters of our day.

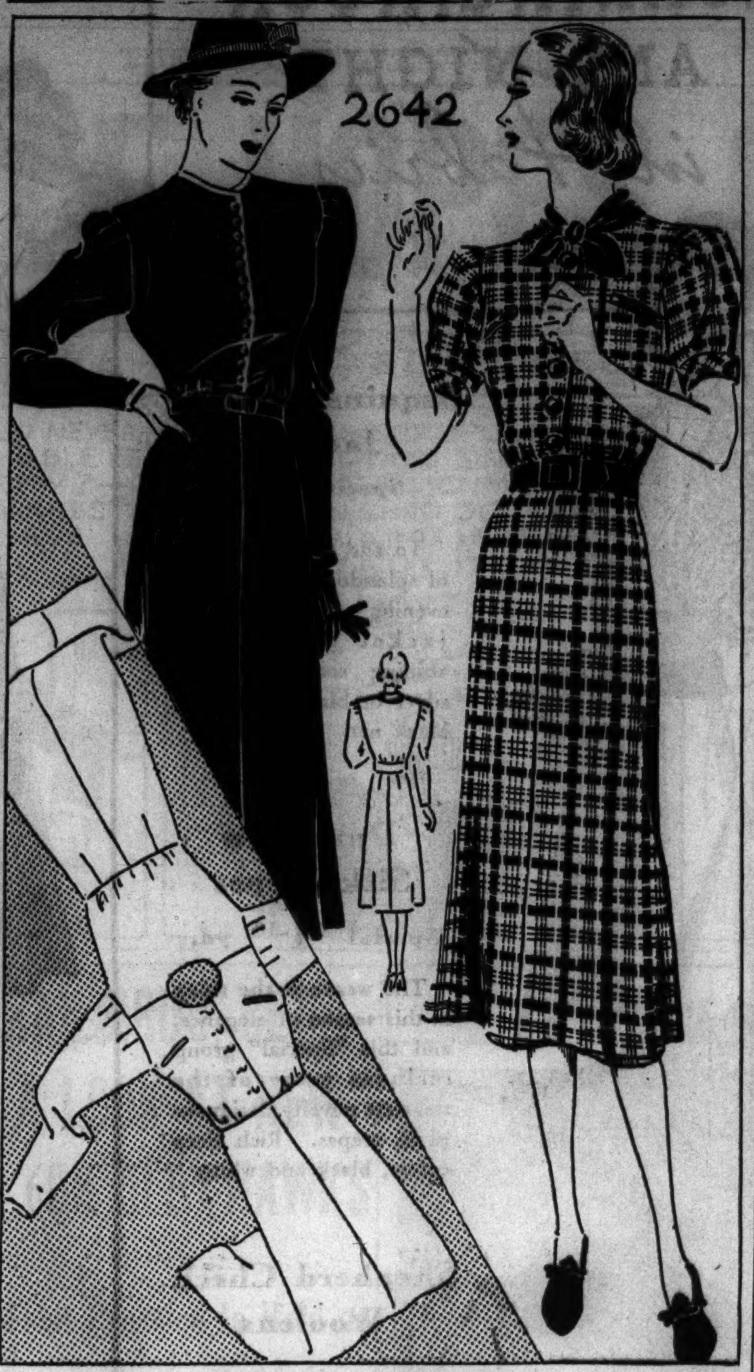
This exhibit is representative of him at his best, containing as it does large oils and water colors, and numerous small sketches and drawings. The stamp of the architect is upon them all, and all bear in part the mark of vague simplicity which is characteristic of the modern painter.

Le Corbusier was here two years ago and spoke at the Arts club and before the Renaissance society, so this exhibit is something in the manner of greeting an old acquaintance.

The All-Illinois Society of the Fine Arts is sponsoring delightful exhibition of paintings by Ted Vognild and Ralph E. Power which is current this month in the Mezzanine gallery the Drake hotel.

Miss Vognild is showing a stunning group of dog and cat paintings; Mr. Power shows a number of marines and boat studies. Both artists are known and well liked in Chicago.

Tailored for All Occasions



WOMAN'S AND MISS' FROCK.

For campus days, busy hours in the office, active days in club life, you need a tailored dress that can meet any occasion, always appear chic, and serve you well. Such a frock is the shirtwaist model shown today, a model that may be either exquisitely fashioned of luxurious fabric or sturdily created from practical materials.

The version pictured at the left is a modification of the standard shirtwaist dress. It dispenses with a collar, but retains the inevitable row of buttons down the front. But they are smart buttons, and there are many of them. The sleeves are puffed at the shoulders and gradually become tightly fitted as they reach the wrist. The skirt is a paneled one with plenty of grace and room for comfortable walking. Various silk crêpes, sheer woolen, velvet and velveteen are fabrics to consider for this version of the pattern.

At the right is a youthful model which college and business girls will like. It has a scarf neckline, large and fanciful buttons, short puffed sleeves with cuffs, a wider tailored belt and uses two little pockets on the bodice. Plaids and gay colors, in either silks or woolens, are ideal for this bright little number.

Style No. 2642 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 35 inch contrasting for the short sleeved dress.

Loop Zonta Club.

The Chicago Loop Zonta club and the American Daughters of Sweden will hold a joint dinner at 6:15 o'clock this evening at the Swedish club.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Good wearable but flattering hosiery for work and street wear and the most exciting new colors and ideas for festive occasions are delights to shoppers. Hosiery designers must keep the lights going all night in new color idea hideouts, for 1937 colors are more glowing and effective than ever before. Irisdescence is the result, tones that shimmer and seem alive; drab, dull, dreary, in-between shades are "out."

In one haven of last minute arrivals you'll see and hear about the "razzle dazzle" colors, mixed and perfected just in time for the party season ahead. They're gay, bright, young, and smartest definition of a good ankle flattery available. For instance, colors dubbed sequin, rhinestone, and marcasite, are all of them glowing with life and color, slick new shades for dull black suedes as well as brown and other dark toned street footgear. They're totally different from anything you've worn, they positively shimmer with vitality, and do magic about keeping trim, slim lines.

The evening shades are particularly lovely and gay, good dress parade tints that complement any and all party clothes. The marcasite is a glorified, up to the minute version of that old flatterer "Peter Pan," and the wine red tones new this fall are abundant proof that we all appreciate and want glowing shades, the brighter and more effective contrast the better.

The black hosiery is going astonishingly well, after years of banishment. It looks new and alluring, especially with black velvet picture book dresses for dinner or dancing.

Wall Paper Designer for Williamsburg to Speak

The Illinois chapter of the American Institute of Decorators will give a dinner tonight in the Edgar Miller room of the Tavern for Nancy McClelland, who will talk this morning at 11 o'clock at the Arts club on her experiences in designing and executing many of the wall papers in the reconstruction of the historic colonial village, Williamsburg, in Virginia.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Flocks and flocks of youngsters have been telling us lately about one of their pet cleansing creams. It's pure, not expensive, and they like it because it leaves their young skins soft and smooth and without a trace of oiliness.

We don't see why the young things should have a monopoly on it. It's exactly what a lot of women are looking for, particularly those who want a light cream. This is the product of a firm that pays special attention to the requirements of adolescent skins. Allergies, of course, are unpredictable, but they do their best to eliminate all ingredients that have been known to cause aggravation to extra-sensitive skin. No perfume in this cream, for example.

The cream is to be patted on the skin rather than rubbed in. In a moment it liquefies. Then you simply wipe it off with tissues. It's a very efficient cream for the sensitive skin that is prone to blackheads. It should be used, in that case, to soften the grime before washing with soap and water.

It can be used by the dry skinned, but it seems to us an even better choice for the woman whose skin is inclined to be oily, even though the oiliness is in patches. No oil oozes back on the skin when it is used before making up. And you can use it several times a day without adding to your oil burden—which is an advantage because oily skins are inclined to get grimy rather easily.

It will cost very little to try this cream.

A HONOLULU farewell is as much of an experience as a stay in the islands. One gazes at the retreating shoreline from the homebound ship a little tearful over such kindness from folk who were strangers two weeks or a week or even a day before, as well as at leaving behind so much beauty. Good-by presents began arriving the day before departure, and in Honolulu they take the form of shell and feather leis, macadamia nuts in the bamboo containers that make flower vases afterward, books, orchids, coconut candy in coconut shells, flower leis, and bootleg okolehau, the excellent distilled liquor of the islands.

The morning of departure the servants and the neighbors' servants brought flower leis and gathered in the driveway to say aloha as we drove off. Arrived on board, a procession of visitors began, singly and in groups. Each dropped a flower lei over the head, usually there was an accompanying kiss on the cheek and a murmured "Aloha." Strands of white ginger and yellow ginger, of the rare and fragrant pikaki, of carnation and crownflower, of a kind of Hawaiian pansy that comes from the islands of Hawaii, and of lavendar and white mauna loa.

I thought I had never seen so many leis. Then I visited the stateroom of Helen Hughes Dulany, who also sailed that day. She had sixty flower leis, by actual count, besides jars and vases of orchids and amaryllis and a pile of presents reminiscent of Christmas morning. The kindness, the good wishes, the white uniformed Hawaiian band meltingly playing "Aloha Oe," the waving friends on the pier, the diving boys in the blue water, the fast retreating mountains and green valleys, and last the lei cast into the water as the boat rounded Diamond Head, to insure a return to the islands. Then the cloud-hung mountains and green slopes began to recede, and soon there was only the ocean, cobalt blue.

THE Japanese dinner in honor of Senator Millard Tydings of Maryland and pretty, vivacious Mrs. Tydings, followed by moonlight surfing, given by Mrs. Frank Midkiff, a visit to the Hawaiian pineapple plant, and the farewell dinner given by Mrs. Vernon Tenney were final activities of our Hawaiian stay. The Japanese dinner was served for the fourteen guests outdoors on a low table with cushions for seats, in an oblong illuminated by Japanese lanterns on standards thrust into the lawn. Japanese girls in kimonos and obis brought strange and delicious food on black lacker trays, the food arranged for pictorial beauty in each bowl and dish. After dinner we moved to another part of the grounds to watch Japanese dancing under the moon, the music supplied by the long harpsichordlike instruments called kotos and by Japanese banjos.

THE plant of the Hawaiian Pineapple company that is the largest in the world is a marvel of efficiency and modernity. Crate after crate of pineapples—two million pineapples a day—passes to the ingenious Ginan machines that core, peel, and slice in one operation. It also crushes or leaves whole, but cored and peeled, the bigger fruit, from which the "royal spears" are to be cut. The fruit passes on swiftly moving belts to long lines of neatly clad girls wearing rubber gloves—Hawaiian, Japanese, Chinese, Korean. They examine the fruit, size the slices, and drop them into tins that pass in shining rows from an adjoining factory. The tins then are sealed by another machine, and then cooked by steam. Juice is canned separately. Practically all the pineapple is used. Shells and cores are ground into a pineapple bran, used for stock feed. Alcohol and citric acid also are byproducts.

Arab Tent

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is an old quilt brought to light with a new name. "Arab Tent" brings to mind the late Rudolph Valentino and the movie "The Shiek," but "Arab Tent" hailed originally from Kentucky and was called "Chimney Swallows." How far it traveled to gain its new name is unknown, but the original square from which my pattern came was almost 100 years old, so the pattern must have arrived on the eastern seaboard and traveled inland to Kentucky. The block is attractive, is made of red and white, and is 12 inches square when completed. An entire coverlet is composed of 56 pieced blocks, set together with five inch bands of white material between, finished with a five inch border and measures 90 by 107 inches.

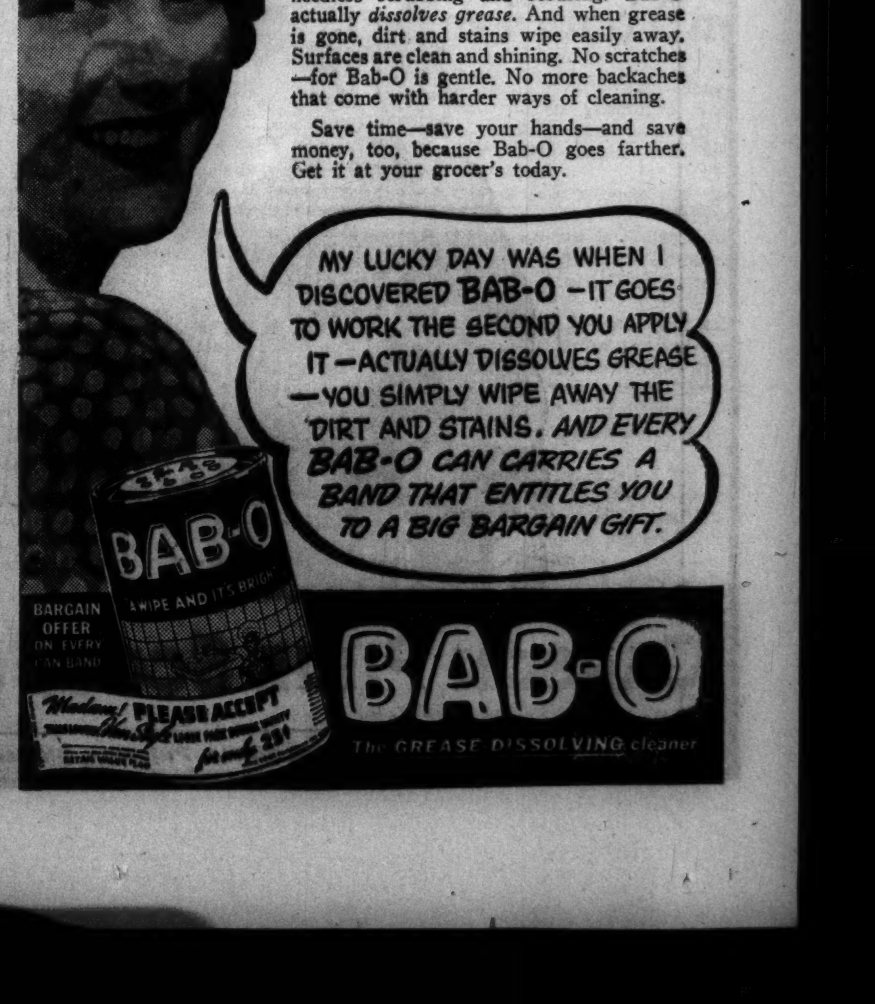
FASTER WAY TO CLEAN
New formula works like magic—dissolves grease so dirt, stains wipe off on cloth—ends slow, needless scouring.
● Two million women know Bab-O as the fastest way to do household cleaning. For Bab-O goes to work the instant it touches grease and dirt.
Ordinary cleansers don't do that. They supply coarse grit for scrubbing and scouring. Then you rub needlessly to get results.
But Bab-O has a special action that ends needless scrubbing and scouring. For Bab-O actually dissolves grease. And when grease is gone, dirt and stains wipe easily away. Surfaces are clean and shining. No scratches—for Bab-O is gentle. No more backaches that come with harder ways of cleaning.
Save time—save your hands—and save money, too, because Bab-O goes farther. Get it at your grocer's today!



MY LUCKY DAY WAS WHEN I DISCOVERED BAB-O—IT GOES TO WORK THE SECOND YOU APPLY IT—ACTUALLY DISSOLVES GREASE—YOU SIMPLY WIPE AWAY THE DIRT AND STAINS. AND EVERY BAB-O CAN CARRIES A BAND THAT ENTITLES YOU TO A BIG BARGAIN GIFT.

Sale—Wear-Weev Suits

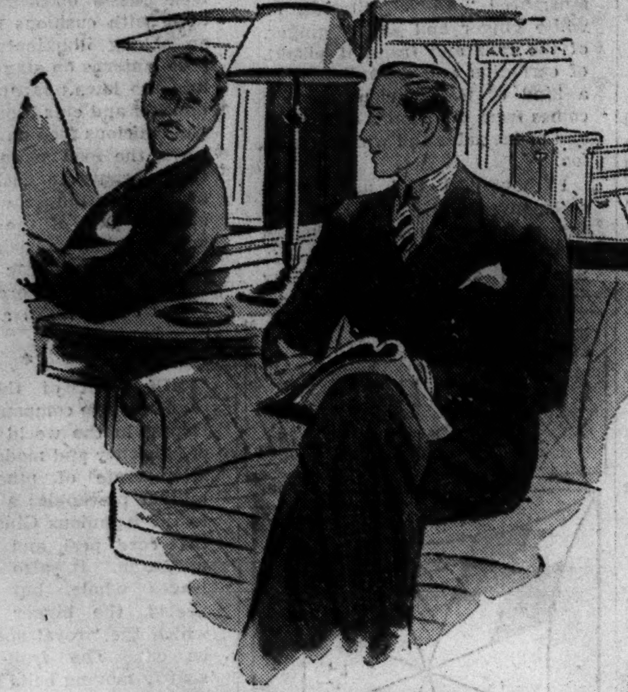
$37.50

Wear-Weev is woven for wear of threads twisted to toughness: an old Scotch school of weaving that bore evidence to the Scotchman's frugal nature. But we have topped the Scotch by adding skilled tailoring to the tough fabric. Strong threads and careful stitching throughout the hidden parts of the suit give it wearing qualities consistent with the hardy character of the cloth. A suit that will hold its shape and at the end of an active day still retain a trim, precise appearance.



Single Stitching

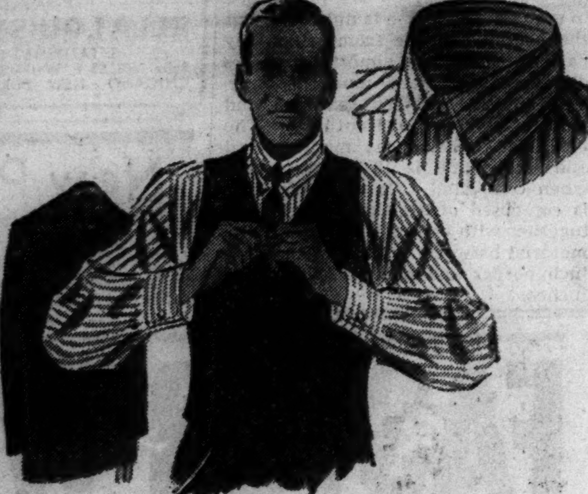
$2.50

Our enterprise and experience has entered into the making of these fine madras shirtings. Single stitch construction in the hands of experienced workmen is custom-like in the flat even seams and the perfection of detail evident throughout. Fine workmanship that gives to these shirts at $2.50 a refinement of appearance that you'd expect to find only in custom shirting establishments.



Value of Fabrics

$2.65

The comfort of the Faultless No-belt, outstanding as it may be, is no more important than the value of these fabrics. They are exclusive with the Men's Store and for interest of pattern, texture, and the ability to wear, far exceed what you'd expect to find at this price. The pajamas are styled with coat; and the shorts that we've shown with them have the no-belt in the rear where it is needed the most.

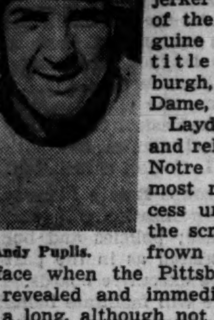
BEARS BUILD TITLE HOPES ON PACKER GAME

LAYDEN GOES TO MOVIES; SMILES, THEN HE FROWNS

Orders Reserves Out for Long Drill.

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Coach Elmer Layden went to the movies today to view a double feature, one a racy little bit of entertainment called "Notre Dame, 7; Minnesota, 6," and the other a tearjerker in tragedy of the most sanguine hue entitled Pittsburgh, 26; Notre Dame, 0."



Andy Puplis.

Layden smiled and relaxed while Notre Dame's most recent success unfurled on the screen, but a frown stole over his face when the Pittsburgh case was revealed and immediately ordered a long, although not rigid drill to safeguard against any recurrence of last year's debacle in Pitt stadium.

Work on the practice field was devoted to laying the foundation for a defense planned to stop Marshall Goldberg, when the Pitt speedster and associated Panthers call at Notre Dame stadium on Saturday.

The Boys Are Tired.

Layden said Notre Dame is emotionally spent from the strain of protecting its one point lead against the Gophers for more than half the game, and that it will not be as fit physically as it was for Minnesota.

"It was one of the most bruising games I've ever seen," he said, "although very cleanly played. It took a lot of zip out of our team."

His remarks to the squad were not particularly critical, and he singled out several men for special distinction. Andy Puplis, who scored the touchdown and point after touchdown, intercepted a Gopher pass and nearly got away for another score and made two long punt returns, came in for commendation.

Ed Simonich, full back, and Pat McCarty, center, were praised for their line backing. Simonich made two pass interceptions, and was a big factor, along with McCarty, who played with a torn cartilage between two ribs, in stopping Minnesota's power attack.

Need More Reserves.

Irish reserve strength will be reinforced this week by the return of Walter [Babe] Marshall, right guard, who started against Navy. He missed Saturday's game with injuries.

Layden will work his first team lightly this week, but will bear down on the second and third teams in an effort to develop badly needed reserves.

Contrary to widely circulated rumors, the game is not yet a sellout. Some 10,000 tickets remain, although these may be gone by Saturday.

John Fogel, center, and Jerry Clifford, left end, both members of the third team, were lost for Saturday's Pitt game as the result of injuries received in today's scrimmage.

Fogel received a torn knee muscle which will keep him on the bench for the next week or two. Clifford suffered a cut on the right side of his face which required five stitches.

WANTS 100TH VICTORY.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Dr. John B. Sutherland now in his fourteenth successive season as head coach at the University of Pittsburgh, has a personal reason for wanting victory against Notre Dame at South Bend next Saturday. A victory will means his 100th triumph at Pittsburgh.

While gaining 99 verdicts, Sutherland has lost only 18 and his elevens have been tied just 12 times. His mark in competition with Notre Dame shows four victories and three defeats. Last year the score was 26 to 0 for Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh opened hard work for Notre Dame today. The squad will depart Thursday night for Notre Dame and will hold its final tune up in the Irish stadium Friday. Pittsburgh will be quartered at Niles, Mich.

It was revealed today that Half Back Marshall Goldberg and End Bill Daddio, who were kept out of the Carnegie Tech contest, spent the week-end in the hospital with hot compresses on their lame legs. They are expected to be ready for action on Saturday. Frank Patrick, who played probably his best game of the last two seasons at full back against Carnegie, was forced to the sidelines by a leg injury, but the hurt has proved not as serious as at first thought.

Pacho Defeats Furr in 8 Rounds; Walker Wins

102,291 TO SEE ARMY AND NAVY; ALL SEATS GONE

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The 102,291 seats in the municipal stadium, Philadelphia, were sold out today when the deadline for tickets for the Army-Navy football game on Nov. 27, arrived at the naval academy.

The deadline for ticket applications at West Point was Oct. 18. Navy athletic officials said the game had been oversubscribed and some of the funds sent in for tickets will have to be returned.

The tickets sold for $4.40 apiece. The net proceeds of the game are divided between the two service schools.

RAILBIRDS GET A LOOK AT NEW (OR OLD) HAWKS

First Practice Is Held on Chicago Ice.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

A lot of fast work by the crew at Chicago Stadium has made it possible for the Blackhawks to put on another preview of the team which will open the season in that big red hall against the New York Americans next Thursday evening. More than a thousand fans greeted the lads at the Chicago Arena at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and a larger delegation is expected at the Stadium this afternoon when the time—2 o'clock—is more inviting to hocky railbirds.

Bill Stewart, new manager of the Hawks, directed a two hour scrimmage drill at the Arena yesterday. He was unable to present his lines as they will appear in Thursday night's opener because of the absence of Mush March from the first line and Johnny Gottselig's from the No. 2 line. March and Gottselig are in Montreal to play in the Howie Morenz memorial game tonight. They will be back for the game with the Americans, however.

Add Only Three New Players.

The preview yesterday was not largely one to present new players. Manager Stewart has added only three new players, Oscar Hansen, with St. Louis last year; Cully Dahlstrom, a speedster from St. Paul, and Vic Heyliger, captain of last year's University of Michigan team.

So the Hawks are not counting on new talent so much as they are the comebacks of some of their veteran stars, who slumped or were injured last year, after one of the lines, the Thompson-Romnes-March trio, had led the league the preceding season.

Mr. Farrell Speaks.

The Hawk officials perhaps are a bit sensitive about comment on the return of so many veterans. This probably evoked the following statement issued yesterday by Joseph C. Farrell, the team's harbinger par excellence:

"The Blackhawk aggregation is not a young team nor is it an old team. Every other club, with the possible exception of the Toronto Maple Leafs, has older players on its roster. The Hawks' average is close to 27 years.

"Aside from the rookie newcomers Dahlstrom, Hansen and Heyliger, the members of the team have averaged five years in major league company. Gottselig and March are the oldest members of Maj. Frederic McLaughlin's team in point of service. Both came to the Hawks in their teens at the start of the 1928-'29 season.

Thompson a Real Veteran.

The major league service of March, Gottselig, Romnes, Wiebe, Trudell and Palangio has been entirely with the Blackhawks. Burke has seen 10 seasons of play with the Canadiens and the Hawks; Levinsky, six with Toronto, New York Rangers and the Hawks; Selbert operated for seven seasons with the New York Rangers and the Blackhawks; Brydson saw service with the Montreal Maroons, New York Rangers, St. Louis Eagles and the Hawks for seven seasons and Kendall played for the Hawks and the Maple Leafs through five schedules.

"Paul Thompson is one of the real veterans of the league. Although only 30 years of age, Thompson has been in the league since 1926-'27, the year it became a two section affair. He has been the Hawks' leading scorer since he came to the team from the Rangers in 1931."

Fight Decisions

At New York—Bobby Pacho beat Phil Furr [8]; Paulie Walker knocked out Richard [Toots] Bernstein [5].
At Marigold Gardens—Billy Marquart beat Kid Irish [10]; Nate Bolden beat Tony Zale [5]; Johnny Helstrom beat Sammy Scully [4]; Frankie Agnes beat Battling Raymond [4]; Eddie Helstrom beat Georgie White [4].
At Des Moines, Ia.—Henry Schaft beat Scotty McLean [8]; Russ Wasser stopped Chuck Burroughs [4].

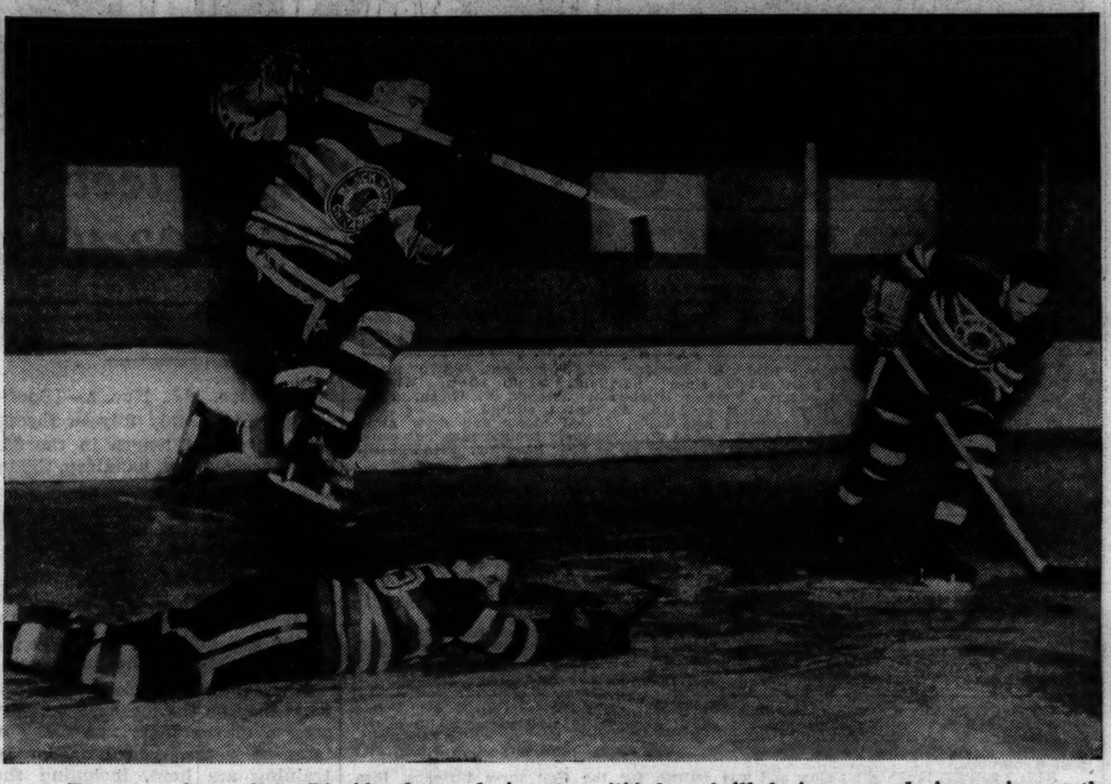
Dress Rehersal for Opening Night



Three members of the Blackhawk squad give the railbirds a thrill during yesterday's preview at the Chicago Stadium. Cully Dahlstrom is on the ice, Doc Romnes is in the air, and Paul Thompson has the puck. The Hawks will open their season against the New York Americans Thursday night at the Stadium.

The Blackhawk boss and three rookies. Left to right: Vic Heyliger, Manager Bill Stewart, Cully Dahlstrom, and Oscar Hansen. Dahlstrom is from the St. Paul club and Hansen from St. Louis. Heyliger was captain of the University of Michigan hocky team last season.

It's So Easy to Win Previous Saturday's Games on Monday

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Every closely fought football game provides splendid opportunity for the second guessing class of Monday morning quarter backs. The review may begin with a calm consideration of mechanical plays, which, if they had succeeded, would have changed the score, but it will finish with vociferous discussion of tactics. No coach or player on the defeated side can win an argument from the second guessers.

Gus Dorais, who was head coach of the All-Americans who defeated the Green Bay Packers last September and whose University of Detroit team suffered its first defeat Saturday, 7 to 0, at the hands of Villanova, has described his profession with the pithy phrase: "When you win, you're a miracle coach, but when you lose, you're a bum."

Gus Takes It as It Comes.

Years of experience, with occasional failures, such as come to all coaches, has caused Dorais to accept football philosophically. Naturally reticent, Dorais always willingly has given credit to a victorious opponent. Football leaders, in the main, are of this pattern.

"Villanova had a better team than Detroit," was Dorais' only comment Sunday on the Titans' first defeat. He didn't rail at misfortune, nor emphasize the forward pass which a Detroit player deflected to an opponent and set up the Villanova scoring opportunity. Nor did he mention the Detroit fumble one foot from the goal line which stopped what might have been an equalizing score.

Yet Dorais might have been excused if he had blamed fate, or whatever it is that upsets a coach's best planned strategy and denies success when it seems assured.

Ask Purdue About This.

There have been an unusual number of heart breaking plays this year. Purdue probably never can forget the pass Vanzo intercepted and the subsequent fumble which Northwestern converted into a winning touchdown. Minnesota, quite likely, traces the collapse of this season's hopes to Nebraska's fourth down victory pass

4,000 Hunters Put Grass Lake Ducks on Spot

The annual bombardment of mudhens at Grass Lake by approximately 4,000 hunters yesterday signalled the opening of the 1937 waterfowl season in Illinois. Rowboats of all types were at a premium as early as 6 a. m. Men who were unable to rent any sort of conveyance took their shots from the shoreline and the resort docks.

Grass lake, the one body of water in the Fox Lake chain in which mudhens like to loaf, was dotted with boats spaced from twenty to thirty yards apart. With one, two, and even three hunters to a boat, the waterfowl could go in only one direction—up—to escape the rain of shotgun pellets. Residents of Antioch, three miles from Grass lake, reported that the shelling, which opened at 7 a. m., made it almost impossible to sleep later than that hour.

Few Arrests Reported.

In spite of the great number of hunters, few arrests were reported by game wardens. Three Oak Park men were arrested for shooting more than their legal limit of mudhens. They had 120 birds in their possession. The daily limit is twenty-five birds for each hunter. Several men were arrested for shooting ruddy ducks, which are not on the open list. Others were fined for failure to plug their guns. The law allows only three loaded chambers.

Mallards, teal and bluebills were hard to bag during the morning shooting, most of them going to the Fox lake sanctuary as soon as the mudhen hunters opened fire. No shooting is permitted on Fox lake except between noon and 2 o'clock.

No Serious Accidents.

The opening of the season was devoid of serious shooting accidents, authorities reported. Some hunters were struck by stray pellets, but marksmanship was chiefly confined to mudhens.

Deputy Game Warden Henry Kern estimated that 150,000 rounds of ammunition were fired during the day in the Fox Lake region, the bombardment doubling during the two hour shooting period on Fox Lake.

Resort owners, who rent duck blinds, reported them sold out and declare they face a boat shortage for the 30 day season if the daily turnout of nimrods approaches yesterday's proportions. Many hunters brought their own boats on trailers.

Plenty to Shoot At.

Illinois hunters won't run out of targets. James Lynch, conservation warden in the northern Illinois lake region, estimates that between 25,000 and 50,000 mudhens are in northern Illinois. Approximately 10,000 bluebills, mallards and other species of ducks also are on hand.

EXPECT RECORD CROWD TO SEE BATTLE SUNDAY

Green Bay Improves After Poor Start.

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Naming the western division champion in the National Professional Football league may be only a matter of counting the score at Wrigley field next Sunday. The Bears returned from New York last night in the enviable position of being able to virtually clinch the title with a victory over the Green Bay Packers this week.

Four games remain on the Bears' schedule after the Packer contest, one with the Lions at Detroit on Thanksgiving day and one each with the Cardinals, Brooklyn, and Cleveland at Wrigley field. Victory Sunday would make it necessary for the Bears to win only two of these contests to enter the league playoff for the first time since 1934. Whipping Cleveland and Brooklyn should not be a difficult task.

Packers Have Outside Chance.

At present the Bears are in first place with five victories and a tie. Green Bay has five victories and two defeats. The Packers, however, are not out of the race. Their five triumphs have been consecutive, coming after three straight defeats at the hands of the All-Stars, the Cardinals, and the Bears at the start of the season. Right now they are the hottest team in the National league and they are apt to be even a bit warmer than usual Sunday because of the importance of the contest.

After the discouraging start, which dropped championship hopes to the lowest ebb, Green Bay fought back determinedly in defense of its league title. The effort has not been in vain. The Packers come down to Sunday's game with more than an outside chance of repeating. They must, of course, whip the Bears. Then their task will entail sweeping their remaining games against Philadelphia, Washington, and New York while the Cardinals or Detroit defeat the Bears.

Tie Could Hurt Bear Chances.

The one tie against the Bears would be the deciding factor in such a situation, giving the Packers an edge in final percentages. The odds are against Green Bay repeating, with the Giants and Bears yet to be met, but the possibility is too potent to be disregarded.

These circumstances established Sunday's contest as the most important in the league race. Abetted by Green Bay's spectacular 14 to 13 triumph over Detroit last week, they have stimulated ticket sales to the point where a new attendance record for professional football in Chicago is predicted. Advance sales now are five times as large as a week ago, when a crowd of 34,530 at the Lion game set an all time mark for postgraduate football in the city. Coach George Halas said last night he expected a sellout crowd of 39,000 would gather at Wrigley field.

Herber—You Remember Him.

Green Bay passed through the city early yesterday morning en route home, confident that it could duplicate its feat of last year, when it lost to the Bears in the early part of the season, but evened the series with a 21 to 10 victory at Wrigley field.

Arnie Herber has recovered from the shoulder injury that sent him out of the All-Star game and kept him on the sidelines for four weeks. His passing arm apparently suffered no ill effects from the injury, and with him available again as its chief offensive threat Green Bay has marched along at an unbeatable clip.

Pitcher Frey Found Dead in Gas Filled Car

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Benny Frey, pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds who quit baseball when ordered to report to a minor league club, was found dead today.

The body of the 31 year old veteran of six years in the National league was discovered in a closed car in a garage at the farm home of his sister, Mrs. Richard Cunliffe, near here.

Coroner Jason B. Meads, who said a rubber hose led from the exhaust pipe into the car, attributed death to carbon monoxide poisoning. Friends of Frey said he had been disconsolate over failure to regain his effectiveness.

Last spring, when ordered by the Reds to Nashville of the Southern association, Frey returned to his home here asking that he be placed on the voluntary retired list.

Frey, a right hander, pitched his best year with the Reds in 1936 when he worked 131 innings, winning ten and losing eight games. He had been taken up by the Reds in 1929 after pitching for Toledo in the American association and Nashville.

Survivors include his mother, Mrs. P. J. Frey Sr., who lives here, five brothers and five sisters.

MARQUART WINS FROM KID IRISH IN TEN ROUNDS

Bolden Beats Zale in Five; Helstroms Triumph.

Billy Marquart, Winnipeg featherweight, whipped Kid Irish of Benld, Ill., in a ten round battle at Marigold Gardens last night. The verdict was not unanimous, Judge John Bray giving his vote to Irish. The other judge, Rube Metz, and Referee Johnny Behr scored for Marquart.

Irish suffered a split lip in the first round and in the third Marquart sustained a small cut over the left eye. A long right to the chin almost floored the broad shouldered Irish in the fifth. The Benld fighter took a beating in the ninth, but he held Marquart on even terms in the final round.

Bolden Whips Zale.

Nate Bolden, graduate of this year's Golden Gloves tournaments, won the hardest test of his career by registering a five round triumph over Tony Zale, member of the 1934 Intercity Golden Gloves team, in the semi-final.

In the second round Bolden almost dropped his opponent from Gary with a series of rights to the head. Several rights to the chin spun the colored Bolden in the next round. Zale then received a cut below his lower lip.

Agnes Beats Raymond.

Frankie Agnes, west side 136 pounder, conquered Battling Raymond in four rounds. The bout was a last minute substitute for a scheduled encounter between Carl Vinciquerra and Clyde Wason, of Minneapolis. Wason was ruled physically unfit by Dr. Frank A. La Gorio of the Illinois Boxing commission.

Eddie Helstrom defeated Georgie White and Johnny Helstrom whipped Sammy Scully in fights at four rounds.

C. Y. O. Shifts Its Tourney to West Side

The annual Catholic Youth organization amateur boxing tournament, which opened last week with preliminary bouts in the south section, will shift to the west side tonight when about forty fights will be held in all weight classes at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street.

The thirty-two survivors—two in each of the eight weight divisions in both the novice and open classes—will advance to the quarterfinals, to be held in two weeks. Tonight's matches will start at 7:30 o'clock.

One hundred ninety-three boys passed their preliminary medical examinations and are eligible for competition on the west side.

The lads in the open division include Al Noto, novice flyweight winner last year; Eugene Tookes, 1937 Illinois Athletic club 112 pound champion, now competing as a bantamweight; Tony Motisi, 1936 lightweight runner-up to William Goldsmith, at present fighting as a welterweight; John Lewandowski, also a welterweight, and Jack Daley, middleweight.

A professional fight card will be presented tonight at White City, 63d street and South Park avenue, under the direction of Billy Cepak. The card:

Dutch Ullmer, Milwaukee, vs. Young Jack Blackburn [6], heavyweights. Chester Rudy, Los Angeles, vs. Les Morris [6], welterweights. Chief Webster, Milwaukee, vs. Danny Valerio [4], junior welterweights. Jimmy La Marr, Cleveland, vs. Mike Krizmis [4], middleweights.

The Illinois athletic commission held a session behind closed doors yesterday. . . . Alex Kettles, South Bend heavyweight, is to undergo a nasal operation today at Mount Sinai hospital. . . . Bill Weidner has been matched to meet Jack Clabourn in the semi-final to the main event between Jim McMillen and Pat Kelly at Rainbo Fronton tomorrow. . . . The Veteran Boxers' association of Illinois will hold a meeting tonight at the Sherman hotel to complete arrangements for a proposed show Nov. 17. . . . The contemplated program at South Bend Thursday, headed by King Levinsky and Eddie Slake, may be canceled in the wake of the recent alleged fiasco there between Jimmy Adamick, Detroit heavyweight, and Lou Thomas, Indianapolis. Adamick was awarded a technical knockout in the third round. F. M.

Rockingham Park Gets Extension of Racing Dates

Concord, N. H., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The New Hampshire racing commission late today granted Rockingham park at Salem an extension of dates until Nov. 13, unless the dates conflict with another New England track.

Time, 1:11 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: High Fleet, $14.50 straight, $7.70 place, $5.20 show; Deliberator, $5.30 place, $4.20 show; Capt. Cal, $9.60 show. Winner, ch. f., 4, by Jack High-Armada. Owner, A. J. Joyner. Trainer, W. F. Mulholland. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:17½. At post 5 minutes.

HIGH FLEET, slow to begin, closed ground around turn, came very wide in stretch and, finishing gamely, won going away. DELIBERATOR was blocked and forced back in run down back stretch, was taken to the outside of the leader and made a game effort. CAPT. CAL got through on inside and finished fast. WISE PRINCE ran good race. ROUGH TIME tired badly after showing early speed. CLINGENDAAL was poorly ridden all the way; he can do much better.

SEVENTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Claiming. Three year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, 1:45 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Kinross, $65.90 straight, $22.80 place, $15.10 show; Building Trades, $7.20 place, $5.00 show; Sicklebill, $5.90 show. Winner, b. c., 3, by Vespasian-Rolling On. Owner, Mrs. C. Tumin. Trainer, A. G. Tumin. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:49. At post 3 minutes.

KINROSS made his bid around turn, caught BUILDING TRADES in stretch and outgamed him at end. BUILDING TRADES showed excellent speed, saved ground and had no excuse. SICKLEBILL, trailed far back for seven furlongs, was taken to the extreme outside and finished with a rush. RUFFY had no mishap. PRINCE SPLENDOR lacked speed and was outrun all the way.

EIGHTH RACE—One and three-sixteenths miles. Claiming. Four year olds and up. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner, br. m., 4, by Paul Weidel-Battle of Flowers. Owner, A. J. Halliwell. Trainer, T. Hoggins. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 5:15. At post 2¼ minutes.

BATTLING GIRL began to move up in last half mile and just lasted to win. XANDRA trailed far out of it for a mile, then finished with a rush. MR. BUN was shut off just after the break, was sent up on the extreme outside, got to the front entering stretch, then tired. PLAYOFF had plenty of speed and showed good effort. CARL B ran well for five furlongs.

High Fleet Wins $3,400 Race at Pimlico

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—High Fleet, only filly in the race, won by a half length in the $3,400 Baltimore Autumn handicap, the most important of eight races which attracted 10,000 to the opening of the fall meeting at the Pimlico race track this afternoon. Driving on strongly behind the swift pace set by other horses, the daughter of Jack High went past half a dozen of them in the last eighth to earn the $2,500 winner's share of the purse.

It was an auspicious opening to what may be the most important fall session of the Maryland Jocky club in many years. The best horses in training are here, including the 3 year old champion, War Admiral, which is likely to go to the post on Wednesday.

High Fleet Starts Slowly.

When the break came from the 6 furlong chute, High Fleet was left behind, Rough Time, Speed to Spare, and Deliberator being the fastest away. At the turn into the stretch, Rough Time had an advantage, but it was a scant one, with others closing on him.

Then Jocky Wayne Wright brought the filly around the knot of horses hammering at Rough Time. She was far the strongest as the eighth pole was passed, and drove away from the lot of them to win with something to spare. Deliberator, a half length back, maintained his pace to get the place another half length before Captain Cal.

The riding Renick brothers, Sam and Joe, scored a double on the day, the former with Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Red Pepper in the second, and Joe with E. R. Bradley's Bow and Arrow in the fifth. Bow and Arrow scored in the Monocacy purse, secondary feature.

Bow and Arrow Is Game.

Bow and Arrow had to come from behind. Conquer made all the early pace and was still in front driving past the eighth pole. From there home he fought it out with Bow and Arrow to be beaten by a length and a half. Back of Conquer, Roustabout gained third. Matey, odds on favorite in the Lawrence Realization, was a beaten favorite again this afternoon. He never got to contention.

Two Chicago Tracks Seek Same Dates

Chicago's six race tracks, complying with new state regulations, filed applications for 1938 dates yesterday. One conflict was noted in the applications, which cannot be acted upon until after Nov. 16.

Washington Park requested 31 days between Aug. 1 and Sept. 5 and Lincoln Fields applied for 30 days between Aug. 1 and Sept. 3. Under the law announcement of dates cannot be made by the Illinois racing commission until Dec. 1.

Aurora notified the commission of a preference for May 2 to May 31, opening the season with a 26 day meeting. No application was made for the month of June. Arlington Park seeks its customary July allotment, proposing to open a 30 day meeting on June 27 and closing July 30.

It's Up to the Commission.

Hawthorne asked for 24 days between Sept. 5 and Oct. 1 and the season would close with Sportsman's Park's 25 day session from Oct. 3 to Oct. 31, if the commission elects to grant all the requests after straightening out the Washington Park-Lincoln Fields conflict.

It is quite likely that the commission will follow the wishes of the majority of the tracks by allowing either Washington Park or Lincoln Fields the June dates which have not been applied for.

Immediate consideration of the matter is precluded by the law which provides that a fifteen day period must elapse between the date of application and action by the governing body.

Arlington Always Takes July.

Sportsman's Park, Aurora, and Arlington Park are seeking the same dates they had last season. Arlington always runs during the month of July, in which it offers several holiday fixtures now numbered among the outstanding turf events of the season.

The six tracks have applied for 166 racing days, nine more than last season. Washington Park asked the largest number, 31, one more than either Arlington or Lincoln Fields.

Under the new state regulations, applications for dates must be accompanied by 5 per cent of the license fee. Fifteen days later, an additional 10 per cent is due. The remaining 85 per cent must be paid when dates are allotted.

Sportsman's Goes to Court.

Difficulty over dates has led to embarrassing situations in the past. Dates were not allotted until January last year. In 1936 inability to effect an agreeable settlement led to a suit by Sportsman's Park, which sought to compel the racing commission to lengthen its season from 18 to 27 days. The suit was thrown out of court by Judge Joseph David when an attempt to bring the litigants together failed.

These troubles led to new regulations which are in force for the first time this year.

PICARD TAKES ARGENTINE OPEN; 288 TIES RECORD

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Henry Picard climaxed a golf invasion of Argentina by United States pros today by winning the Argentina open championship with a record tying 72 hole score of 288.

Tomas Genta, veteran Argentine pro, and Eugenio Dunezat tied for runner-up honors with 290. Genta carded a seven under par 66 in the last round, but Picard, who coasted in with a 74, had too long a lead.

Byron Nelson, another member of the American group, finished in a tie for fifth place with 294 with Denny Shute well back at 298. Picard's total equaled the record score posted by Genta in 1930 over the same course.

BUSHNELL HEADS NEW EASTERN COLLEGE SETUP

Princeton Man Will Have Complete Charge.

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Eastern colleges moved today toward a super-conference of intercollegiate sports with the naming of Asa Smith Bushnell of Princeton as football's new high commissioner and administrative officer of eleven varied organizations.

The announcement of Bushnell's elevation to the commissionership was made by James A. Lynah of Cornell, chairman of the special committee empowered by the Eastern Intercollegiate association to organize a coördinating agency of seaboard college athletics. Bushnell will assume his new duties on Jan. 1.

He'll Be the Head Man.

In addition to his duties of choosing officials for all football games of colleges in the E. I. A., Bushnell will be given far greater power than Walter Okeson enjoyed, under a new set-up of eastern athletic groups. Eleven organizations, most of them hitherto at loggerheads, have been brought under one head, with Bushnell as administrative officer of each.

Central headquarters will be established in New York City for the eleven groups totaling more than 50 colleges. The organizations enlisted under Bushnell's directorship include the E. I. A., the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A., the Eastern I. C. basketball, and Baseball leagues, the Eastern I. C. basketball conference, the I. C. hocky association, the Quadrangular Hocky league, the Eastern Swimming league, Heptagonal Games association, and Eastern I. C. Golf association.

Groups Retain Identity.

Each organization will retain its independence; policies and budgets to be formulated as in the past by the respective executive boards. The central office will facilitate handling and cut costs, provide a clearing house for new ideas, a repository for records, and a saving in coöperative buying of equipment.

While Chairman Lynah pointed out that the new lineup is in no way a conference, the final uniting of all the groups will give eastern colleges a far stronger voice in national collegiate sports than they have had in the past.

In the statement from Lynah is carried the note that "eventually the new organization may establish a bureau of arbitration," which means that the coördinated group will stand up for its rights.

List Committee Members.

Members of the committee, other than Lynah, include William J. Bingham, Harvard; George F. Little, Rutgers; Commander A. C. McFall Jr., Navy, and Al G. Severance, Villanova. Their voting was unanimous for Bushnell.

Bushnell's salary was not disclosed, but it is expected to be $15,000 a year, with each group contributing a share. Okeson, once getting $15,000 a year but cut to $7,500, asked to be relieved of his post last summer, effective next Jan. 1.

Goodman Reaches Finals of Mexico Amateur Golf

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 1.—Johnny Goodman, holder of the United States amateur golf title, will meet Don Schumacher of Dallas, Tex., in the finals of the Mexican amateur championship tournament tomorrow. Goodman today defeated Ed Appold of Mexico City, 9 and 8. Schumacher entered the finals by defeating Blain McNutt of El Paso, Tex., 10 and 9.

NORTHWESTERN NEARS TOP FORM; ILLINOIS IS NEXT

Lynn Waldorf.

The fact that Northwestern appeared to hit its stride against Wisconsin Saturday is not surprising since it is a matter of record that Coach Lynn Waldorf's teams have a habit of reaching their peak performance about this time of the season.

In 12 years of coaching, Waldorf has lost but two games in November. One of these defeats occurred before he came to Northwestern in 1935 and the second took place last year when Notre Dame upset the Wildcats in the final game of the season.

Expect Hard Game.

Consequently if past performances are to be taken as a criterion, the Wildcats are destined to cause a lot of trouble for Illinois, Minnesota, and Notre Dame, the November opponents on their 1937 schedule.

However, Coach Waldorf is not counting too strongly on past achievements to aid the Purple this fall. He pointed out reasons yesterday why Illinois will give the Wildcats a tough afternoon at Saturday's home coming game at Dyche stadium.

On the strength of its line play against Notre Dame, Waldorf expects Illinois to present a stubborn defense. In fact, the Wildcats have reasons of their own to respect the Illini defense. Northwestern won the 1935 game, 10 to 3. Last year the Wildcats were victorious, 13 to 2. On both occasions, however, Northwestern was unable to gain a comfortable lead until the last quarter.

ILLINI STRENGTHENED.

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Announcement that Harry Lasater, injured Illinois left tackle, may be able to play against Northwestern this week cheered the Illini as they began preparations to meet the Wildcats. Although Jim Reeder, sophomore tackle, acquitted himself well in Lasater's position against Michigan, the return of the more experienced player is expected to strengthen the line.

The performaces of Ralph Bennett, sophomore full back, in the Michigan game brought favorable comment and it is possible the youngster may press Howie Carson for a position in the starting lineup.

BADGERS TAKE REST.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Wisconsin's varsity football squad, somewhat battered after successive defeats by Pittsburgh and Northwestern, was given a rest today by Coach Harry Stuhldreher, its first since practice began on Sept. 10.

The Badgers have an open date this week-end and will not return to conference competition until Nov. 13, when they meet Purdue here. "The rest will do our players more good than a day of practice," Stuhldreher said. Although this week's drills probably will be comparatively light, Stuhldreher indicated he would stress offensive blocking and defensive tackling for it was in those two departments of play that Wisconsin showed a surprising lack of knowledge against Northwestern.

CONCORDIA AIMS AT UNDEFEATED SEASON; 2 TO GO

The Concordia college of River Forest football team, working for the first year under a full time coach, is undefeated in four games, and with only two more to play is aiming to keep its record clear. Concordia's new coach is Bill Hedtke, who was graduated from the University of Illinois in 1934.

Concordia has been scored upon only once this season, by Morgan Park, when the River Forest eleven was using its second team. Concordia won, 22 to 7. Concordia has beaten Morton, 12 to 0; Lisle, 32 to 0, and Northwestern of Watertown, Wis., 3 to 0.

This Jail Will Have a Football Team if Cops Can Catch It

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Rockview penitentiary has a football team and the McKeesport jail will have one, too, if the cops can catch it.

The penitentiary eleven beat a squad of strolling players from McKeesport, 24 to 0, yesterday. A few minutes after the last gun, a message ticked over the police teletype: "Hold that team!" But the visitors already had a clear field.

McKeesport police explained that eleven football uniforms were missing from the gymnasium of St. Peter's church in that town, after a group of youths had been refused permission to borrow them for a Sunday game. The police put two and two together and decided that the stolen uniforms were being paraded before the eyes of penitentiary officials.

The uniforms still are missing but the McKeesport jail hopes to have a football team before sundown tomorrow.

MAROONS LOSE CENTER ANTONIC THROUGH INJURY

George Antonic, veteran lineman, probably is lost to the Chicago squad for the remainder of the season as a result of an injury in the Ohio State game Saturday. Examination yesterday revealed Antonic had sustained a torn ligament in his knee, aggravating an injury which had bothered him since his sophomore season two years ago.

He is the seventh center, potential or on the roster, the Maroons have lost since midsummer, several candidates having failed to attain eligibility, and Dick Wheeler, slated to be the starter, having left for South America. Coach Clark Shaughnessy indicated yesterday that he may shift Bob Greenebaum back to the position, or use Henry Kellogg, Russell Parsons, or Morris Grinbarg, the latter two being sophomores.

Having been duly blistered by Ohio State the Maroons now prepare for their game against Michigan, which will be played Saturday at Ann Arbor. On the theory that they are getting closer to their own level of competition, the squad was put through the first of a series of sessions on offense.

MICHIGAN GETS REST.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Michigan's football team celebrated its second straight Big Ten victory of the season today with a respite from practice. Coach Harry Kipke held a squad meeting in the afternoon to show the team pictures of the Illinois game and make plans for the Michigan meeting with Chicago here Saturday.

Kipke was highly pleased with the Illinois victory, but his sentiments were not reflected by Line Coach Hunk Anderson who pronounced the Wolverines "lucky to win." Numerous Michigan fumbles and a poorly timed Illinois pass which was intercepted and led to the winning score was the basis for Anderson's judgment.

No injuries were reported after the Illinois game and the squad this week will be at top strength. Joe Savilla, sophomore right tackle, who did not make the Illinois trip because of a twisted ankle, probably will be ready for Chicago, according to team physicians.

13 BIKE TEAMS ON FINAL LIST FOR 6 DAY RACE

Thirteen teams will compete in the six-day bicycle race which will start in the Stadium at 9 o'clock Sunday night, Manager Harry Mendel announced yesterday after completing the task of teaming the riders. As a result of a death in his family, Jack Sheehan, of Brooklyn, has withdrawn and has been replaced by Fred Ottevare, of Detroit.

Gustav Kilian and Heinz Vopel, Dortmund, Germany; Emile Ignat and Emile Diot, Paris, France; Torchy Peden and Douglas Peden, Victoria, B. C.; Al Crossley, Boston, Mass., and Jimmy Walthour, New York City; Cor Wals, Holland and Jerry Rodman, Chicago; Tino Reboli, Newark, N. J. and Alfred Letourner, Paris, France; Henry O'Brien, San Francisco, Cal., and Russell Allen, Hollywood, Cal.; Ray Ligman, Berwyn, Ill., and George Thelin, Chicago, Ill.; Alvaro Georgetti, Milano, Italy and Charley Yaccino, Chicago; Jules Audy and Henri Le Page, Montreal; Gerard Debaets, Antwerp, Belgium and Bobby Thomas, Kenosha, Wis.; Cecil Behringer, Minneapolis, Minn., and Fred Ottevare, Detroit, Mich.; Fivoranti Baggio, and Raymond Bedard, Montreal.

LAURI DEFEATS PONZI, 125 TO 59, IN CUE MATCH

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Onofrio Lauri of Brooklyn tonight defeated Andrew Ponzi of Philadelphia, 125 to 59, in five innings, the shortest match played thus far in the world's championship pocket billiard tournament.

In the other match tonight Erwin Rudolph of Cleveland conquered Jimmy Caras, Wilmington, Del., 125 to 29, in eight innings.

Bozeman and Layton Split 3 Cushion Matches

Jay Bozeman of Vallejo, Cal., and Johnny Layton, Sedalia, Mo., divided the first two blocks of their new challenge three cushion billiard match yesterday at Bensinger's recreation, 131 South Wabash avenue. Bozeman won the afternoon match, 50 to 42, in 41 innings. His high run was 11. Layton took the evening match, 50 to 46, in 56 innings. Each had a high run of six. They will play two matches daily through Sunday.

Aronson-Roop Team Leads Roller Derby with 31 Points

Iowa Troubles Mount; Three Linemen Hurt

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football squad was sent through a light practice this afternoon with three additional men disabled as a result of the Purdue game last Saturday.

The three, Capt. Homer Harris, Erwin Prasse, and Bob Lannon, all received injuries in the contest which may keep them out of the Minnesota game here this week end. Their loss will have serious effects on both the tackle and end positions.

Capt. Harris, who suffered a shoulder separation, has been used at both positions this season, and Prasse, who incurred a similar injury has started most of the games at end. Lannon, the regular left end, was excused from the practice with a charley horse.

GOPHERS TAKE IT EASY.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A battered University of Minnesota football team, recovering from a 7 to 6 defeat by Notre Dame, the first home game lost by the Gophers since 1932, took it easy today as it prepared for the Iowa game at Iowa City Saturday.

Horace Bell, star field goal kicker, who was forced out of the contest before Minnesota scored its touchdown Saturday, is suffering from pulled muscles in his back and shoulder. John Mariucci, sophomore end, has a bad knee, and George Faust and Wilbur Moore ailing ankles.

MAROON PAPER TABULATES POLL ON SPORT TODAY

Results of the campus poll, instituted by the Daily Maroon to determine student sentiment on the proposal to discontinue all intercollegiate athletic activity at the University of Chicago, will be announced in today's issue of the paper.

Although sentiment is believed to be predominantely against the suggestion, the result of the poll is not expected to be an adequate expression of student opinion because many of the ballot boxes disappeared during the voting and have not been located.

The student newspaper suggested the poll on the eve of the Ohio State game Saturday. The Maroons were beaten, 39 to 0, their fourth straight setback.

New York Boxing Writers Unveil Humphreys Plaque

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A plaque which will stand as a memento to the memory of the late Joe Humphreys, famous fight announcer, in the lobby of Madison Square Garden, was unveiled today with ceremonies under the auspices of the New York Boxing Writers' association. The plaque shows Joe in the attitude so familiar to patrons of the Garden on fight nights, that moment in which he was wont to raise his hand and request: "Quiet, Please!"

Oarsman, 88, Celebrates Birthday with Workout

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Fred Plaisted, dean of American oarsmen, celebrated his 88th birthday today by rowing over the national course on the Schuylkill river, where he once reigned as sculling king. Plaisted won the world professional single sculling championship on the Schuylkill river in the centennial regatta of 1876. Russell S. [Rusty] Callow, University of Pennsylvania rowing coach, accompanied the veteran on his birthday cruise.

Weidner and Talaber Wrestle 60 Minute Draw

Bill Weidner of Glendale, Cal., wrestled Frankie Talaber of the north side to a sixty minute draw last night at White City. It was a fast contest all the way. Mike Kilonis threw Lou Goldberg in thirteen minutes fifty three seconds. Paul Miller downed Jim Londes in 22:37; and Joe Orawiciez pinned Pete Holtz in 16:04.

Purdue Looks Ahead to Fordham and Goes to Work

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Scheduled to meet Fordham's undefeated eleven in an intersectional clash in New York City on Saturday, Purdue's football team wasted little time this afternoon in striving to improve its blocking on running plays.

With only three days of drill available before invading the east the customary day of rest was abandoned as the coaches reviewed the errors in the Boilermaker victory over Iowa last Saturday.

Coach Mal Elward, none too pleased with the manner in which the running attack functioned against the Hawkeye line, pointed out that the Fordham line, which held Pittsburgh scoreless, is likely to smother Purdue's bids for running gains unless the line charging and blocking is vastly improved.

With Cecil Isbell nursing a leg injury he suffered in the second half of the Iowa game, the coaches devoted attention to Jim Nesbitt and Jack Brown, sophomore half back, who showed to advantage in a steady drive down the field against Iowa in the fourth quarter. Nesbitt and Brown are expected to see plenty of action against Fordham.

FORDHAM HAS DAY OFF.

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Coach Jim Crowley gave the Fordham squad the afternoon off today as a reward for the North Carolina victory. The Rams reported only two injured players as a result of the game. They are Bill Krywicki, quarter back, and Joe Bernard, guard.

YANKS RECEIVE $6,471 APIECE, GIANTS $4,489

Twenty-six members of the world champion New York Yankees baseball club have been mailed checks for $6,471.11 each as a result of their world series victory over the New York Giants, Baseball Commissioner K. M. Landis announced yesterday. In addition to the twenty-six full shares, a dozen lesser awards were made to make up the total players' share of the receipts, $193,044.33.

The Giants divided a pool of $128,696.22 into twenty-seven full shares of $4,489.95 each, plus nine fractional awards.

The Detroit Tigers and the Cubs, second in the two leagues, divided $34,472.20 each among their players. The third place White Sox and Pittsburgh Pirates split $22,981.47 each and the fourth place Cleveland Indians and St. Louis Cardinals divided $11,490.74 apiece.

That meant $1,188.70 to each Tiger who was voted a full share. The Cubs, who also took the losers' end in the city series, drew down $1,276.75 apiece from the world series and $393.49 each from the city series to total $1,670.24 each. The Sox shares totaled $1,302.25 as each full share amounted to $752.71 from the world series and $549.54 from the city series.

Its' So Easy to Win Any Game the Day After

Memory of Trosko's touchdown pass to Nicholson last Saturday at Champaign which caught the Illini secondary unprepared, will return to haunt the boys who had hoped to give Illinois homecomers a victory over Michigan. Pittsburgh cannot forget the holding penalty which nullified what would have been the winning touchdown against Fordham, and Red Blaik and his Dartmouth boys will vision again and again the pass from Clint Frank to Al Hessberg which permitted Yale to tie the undefeated Big Green eleven.

Pros Know the Feeling, Too.

Hessberg twisted free from two Dartmouth tacklers before he finished his touchdown run. The sting of failure is more poignant than the sensation of victory is gratifying. And there's no football coach today who feels disappointment more keenly than does Dutch Clark of the Detroit Lions. Player Clark missed a drop kick in the final seconds of the Lions-Green Bay game Sunday which would have won that battle, 16 to 14. Instead, Detroit was defeated, 14 to 13.

Fighting against time, Detroit advanced fifty-seven yards in a continuous drive after Clark Hinkle had had scored the Packers' tying touchdown and Ernie Smith had place kicked the winning point. Thirty-five seconds remained to play when Detroit reached the Bays' 22 yard line. The Lions tried one more play for position and then Clark drop-kicked and missed.

Dutch may have reconstructed the situation afterward. He might have attempted his dropkick without the play for position. He had a fair shot at the goal posts and by running the ball, he had to hurry his try, for fear time would expire before he could kick.

The Saddest Words, Etc.

Would Clark have dropkicked the goal if the team had lined up more slowly and he had approached his task more calmly? He has kicked from greater distances. Successful, Detroit still would be in the fight for western division professional championship. Now Green Bay remains the only rival of the undefeated Chicago Bears.

Yachtsmen Meet to Discuss Plans for Series of Lectures

The power squadron of the Lake Michigan Yachting association met last night at the Sherman hotel to make plans for its annual winter series of free navigation lectures, which will be open to all yachtsmen. The meeting was under the direction of George Schaeffer, vice commodore of the squadron and a member of the Southern Shore Yacht club. Schaeffer is expected to be elected commodore of the Lake Michigan Yachting association at its annual meeting Saturday at Sherman hotel.

Russ Allen of Harvard Out of Game with Army

Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Capt. Russ Allen, Harvard right guard, who suffered a leg injury in the Princeton game, will be out of the Army contest here next Saturday, Coach Dick Harlow announced today. Chuck Klein will replace Allen.

ARMY TRIES NEW PLAYS.

NAVY SCRIMMAGES.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Navy's football team, determined to atone for its upset defeat by Pennsylvania, started work today for Saturday's clash with Columbia by holding scrimmage.

YALE'S GREATEST BACK, SAYS POND OF CLINT FRANK

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Coach Ducky Pond of Yale today proclaimed Clint Frank of Evanston, Ill., the Blue's heavy duty half back, the best back he has ever seen at New Haven.

This praise of Frank, made at the weekly Football Writers' association luncheon, gave Fritz Crisler, Princeton coach, something to think about. Crisler, still a little shaken by Harvard's rout of his Tigers, listened to Pond's laudation of Frank, who will take a shot at the Princeton defenses on Nov. 13.

Pond's rating places Frank above such Yale immortals as Albie Booth, Bill Mallory and Mal Stevens, all of whom have played for the blue in the fifteen years Pond has been associated with Yale.

While extolling his captain, Pond also pointed out that Al Hessberg, who scored the tying touchdown with Dartmouth, Saturday, was Yale's chief trouble shooter.

"Hessberg is one of Yale's most valuable backs," said Pond. "He can replace any of three first string backs, Frank, Al Wilson or Dave Colwell. He doesn't start many games, but he plays a great deal."

Admit Knox, Monmouth to New League

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The Illinois College conference, a new circuit proposed last spring within the Little Nineteen or Illinois intercollegiate athletic conference, officially became a ten-school organization today when representatives voted Monmouth and Knox college to membership at a special meeting here.

When action toward formation of the new conference was taken last spring after controversies over the freshmen rule Knox and Monmouth had to refer the move to their respective faculties.

They're Charter Members.

Today's action made both institutions charter members of the new conference, along with Illinois Wesleyan, Lake Forest, Wheaton, James Millikin, North Central, Bradley, Augustana, and Illinois college.

The application for membership of Carthage college was received, but action was deferred until the regular meeting of the new organization.

Illinois College conference was adopted as the official name. The constitution provides for observance of the full freshman rule in football and basketball this season and a full freshman rule in all sports beginning September, 1938.

Freshmen Are Barred.

This year athletes may compete in minor sports on the basis of one semester's residence. The freshman rule prohibits freshmen from participating on varsity teams.

Final action on eligibility rules will be taken at the December conference meeting in Chicago.

Bigley, Amateur Boxer, Named Dartmouth Coach

Hanover, N. H., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Robert F. Bigley, a graduate of New York university, was named boxing coach at Dartmouth college today. He also will have duties as coach of freshmen and recreational soccer. Bigley, as a welterweight, was undefeated through forty college and amateur bouts.

INDIANA WORKS ON ITS DEFENSE FOR OHIO GAME

Backs Seek to Develop More Power.

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Back from Nebraska where they received a setback from the Cornhuskers, Indiana university's football players received no rest today as defensive preparations for the Ohio State game at Columbus got under way.

The usual Monday rest period for the regulars was cancelled and the squad went through a dummy defensive drill against a freshmen eleven which used Ohio State plays. Bucking straps were brought out for the backs as harder charging was sought. George Miller was put through practice at kicking placements from the 30 yard line.

John Olmstead, guard, and Bill Anderson, back, received minor leg injuries in the Nebraska game, but are expected to be ready for the Buckeyes.

OHIO STATE DRILLS.

Columbus, O., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Coach Francis Schmidt ran the Ohio State varsity through a light football practice session today minus the services of Alex Schoenbaum, giant tackle who suffered an ankle injury in the Chicago game last Saturday. However, Forrest Fordham, Toledo half back who has been out of uniform with a knee injury since the Southern California game, participated in the practice and was pronounced fit for Saturday's clash with Indiana. Today's drill was harder than most Monday sessions.

VILLANOVA AND MARQUETTE EACH LOSES REGULAR

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Franny Nye of Harrisburg, Pa., quarter back for the undefeated Villanova college team, has played his last game of college football.

Coach Maurice [Clipper] Smith announced today that Nye, a senior, twisted his knee during a workout at Detroit last Friday and will be unable to play in the remaining games against Marquette, Boston university, Temple, and Loyola university of Los Angeles.

The injury has been diagnosed as a slipped cartilage, Smith said.

MARQUETTE CENTER OUT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Marquette, faced with the loss of its star senior center, Roy Schoemann, practiced in the rain today for Saturday's game at Philadelphia with Villanova. Schoemann wrenched his knee in the Santa Clara game and may be out for the remainder of the season. Andy Bakula, sophomore half back who was unable to play last week, returned to practice today.

THAT IMPORTANT PLUS
VAN DYCK 32's
A FINE 5¢ CIGAR

ALWAYS FAVORED!

You can count on that important plus to lift a girl—or a cigar—above the crowd. Men bought 140 million Van Dyck 32's last year because they have that extra mildness, extra mellowness, extra satisfaction. It costs only a nickel to get acquainted!

CITY'S BUILDING PACE SLACKENS IN LAST MONTH

October Total Lower than Month and Year Ago.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago building construction decreased again during October. Permits were fewer and involved less money than in the preceding month and October of last year.

Permits for 128 buildings costing $1,386,980 were issued by Building Commissioner Richard E. Schmidt last month. This compared with 137 permits, for $2,664,445, during September, and 177 permits, with a value of $1,728,241, during October of last year.

Home Building Slackens.

Home building, which during March, April, and May registered encouraging gains in volume, with a record total of 137 permits issued in March, declined last month to sixty-five permits. This compared with ninety-four in August and sixty-six in September. In October, 1936, permits for ninety-one homes were issued.

The total number of permits for single family dwellings issued during the first ten months this year was 931. During the same months last year 698 permits were issued.

Single Family Units Lead.

Single family dwellings continue to lead all other classes of construction in Chicago on sixty-five permits for new homes. Permits for fifty-eight business buildings were taken out. One was for a church and one for an apartment building.

The total for all classes of building construction so far this year is more than ten million dollars ahead of a year ago. There were 1,459 permits for all kinds of structures, costing $26,254,408. During the same ten months last year 1,340 permits were issued with a total value of $15,854,851.

Jones & Laughlin to Build Ammonia Fertilizer Plant

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Jones & Laughlin Steel corporation will soon begin construction of a new ammonia fertilizer warehouse and bagging plant on its Memphis, Tenn., properties, the company announced today. The warehouse will have capacity for storing 8,000 tons of sulphate of ammonia, a coal by-product. Distribution of the fertilizer will be handled by Swift & Co. fertilizer works and the Virginia-Carolina Chemical corporation.

Owens-Illinois Glass.

Investors' Guide: All information on Owens-Illinois Glass company will be appreciated.—M. S.

Answer: Operating under the stimulus of prohibition repeal, improved general business conditions, the entering of new fields, and development of new products, this largest American manufacturer of bottles and other glass containers has made the largest profits in its history during the last two years.

Backbone of the business is the glass container division which produces about 35 per cent of all such wares used in the United States.

Development of glass insulating material, glass wool for air filtering, glass blocks and other products for use in the industrial and building industries has opened an increasingly sizable market in the last few years. The company also has entered the fine glassware field. The metal container division ranks fourth in that industry.

Sales amounted to $93,385,000 and net income was $10,845,000, or $4.08 a share, in the 12 months ended Sept. 30. Both figures were far above those in the preceding 12 months and sales continued to gain, but net was less than the $11,856,000, or $4.46 a share, in the 12 months ended June 30, 1937.

William R. Levis, president, said recession in profits was the result of higher wages and operating costs, increased overhead, engineering and development expense, and certain charge-offs in connection with rehabilitation of manufacturing facilities. The record of recent years follows:

	Sales.	Net income.	Income per share.
1936	$78,715,000	$10,099,000	$7.59
1935	57,902,000	7,883,000	6.57
1934	51,263,000	6,406,000	5.41
1933	....	6,032,000	4.86
1932	....	2,068,000	1.62

Per share earnings in the above table are based on the amount of stock outstanding each year. In 1936 130,000 shares were issued to finance expansion, and the stock was split 2 for 1 last spring to produce present capitalization of 2,661,204 shares of $12.50 par value common stock.

Funded debt consists of $15,000,000 of 3½ per cent debentures sold privately in August to finance further expansion to care for increased business. Financial position is strong.

Dividends have been declared in each year since the company was formed in 1907, $2 being paid in 1932, $2.50 in 1933, $3.25 in 1934, $4 in 1935, and $6 in 1936. A quarterly payment of $1.50 was made before the stock split this year, since which time $2.75 has been paid in three dividends, including 75 cents payable Nov. 15 to stockholders of record Oct. 30.

The stock deserves a high rating.

COTTON

Weakness in Liverpool and continued favorable weather in the south for picking and ginning led to increased pressure on cotton futures yesterday. Despite trade buying on the way down, closing trades on futures on the Chicago Board of Trade were at net losses of .09 to .17 cent. Other American markets declined .08 to .16 cent a pound.

A cotton crop of 17,788,000 bales, the second largest on record was estimated yesterday by Nat C. Murray in a report to Clement, Curtis & Co. This compares with an estimate of 16,885,000 bales a month ago when the government set the prospective yield at 17,573,000 bales. The 1936 harvest was 12,399,000 bales.

Spot cotton closed .15 to .20 cent lower, with New Orleans 7.95 cents, New York 8.05 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 7.75 cents a pound. Prices follow:

U. S. STEEL MAY KNIT ITS UNITS IN NEW MERGERS

Program of Consolidation Is Forecast.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Reports in steel circles today said that the recent shakeup in highly placed officials of the United States Steel corporation presaged a radical change in the parent company's operating arrangement of its subsidiaries.

Although there was no authoritative word to be had, the move carries out the prophesies made along the same line when the Carnegie Steel company and the Illinois Steel company were merged into the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation with headquarters in this city.

Lack Modern Methods.

Many of the big subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation, it is understood, have not kept pace with the major independent operators in adoption and erection of modern steel manufacturing plants.

There are now strong indications that other major subsidiaries, such as American Steel and Wire, National Tube, and possibly Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad, will be brought under the wing of Carnegie-Illinois.

Considerable time may elapse before such consolidations can be effected, but some high officials insist this is the ultimate goal. The idea is to create one manufacturing and selling concern in place of many scattered companies owned by the U. S. Steel corporation, a holding company.

Program Based On Savings.

There are two major reasons, both to save money, behind the program. First, millions of dollars might be saved through consolidation of subsidiary branch offices. Second, savings could be effected in taxes. Government tax laws have been drawn so as to impose a severe tax penalty on companies with many subsidiaries. Last year U. S. Steel paid 50 million dollars in taxes, about the same as it earned for its stockholders.

A company is not permitted to offset the profit of one subsidiary with the loss of another. Taxes are paid by the profitable concern and no credits are allowed for those with deficits. If all the units were consolidated into a single operating company, taxes would be paid only on profits of the entire organization.

TESTIFIES OIL BUYING PROGRAM BOOSTED PRICES

Madison, Wis., Nov. 1.—(AP)—A Dallas, Tex., commission buyer of gasoline told a federal court jury today that purchasing by major oil companies in east Texas in 1935 caused gasoline prices to rise. The government charges 23 oil companies raised and fixed prices in 1935 and 1936 by means of a conspiracy, part of which, it alleges, was a program of buying gasoline of small independent refiners at artificially high prices.

Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone reserved rulings as to admissibility as evidence of telegrams Bradshaw sent to customers telling them of market conditions in east Texas in 1935. Bradshaw testified he bought gasoline for two of the defendants, Gulf Oil corporation and Sinclair Refining company.

RFC GETS ORDER FOR CORN LOANS FROM PRESIDENT

Will Ask Congress to Repay Funds.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The corn loans, which treasury experts have been trying to finance "within the budget," will be provided by the Commodity Credit corporation, President Roosevelt announced in a telegram to Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the RFC, made public today.

Jesse H. Jones.

The telegram was the first official explanation of how the $85,000,000 corn loans were to be financed. A high government official said the plan would not jeopardize the President's budget balancing program.

The telegram indicated that the President had deviated from his plan, outlined in his revised budget statement of Oct. 18, that the RFC was to make no further commitments.

Will Ask Congress for Funds.

Mr. Roosevelt's message to Chairman Jones made it clear, however, that the loan by the RFC to the Commodity Credit corporation for financing the corn loans will be temporary, the RFC funds to be replenished by moneys to be supplied the Commodity Credit corporation through legislation which the President will ask at the special session.

The President said he had decided to ask congress as soon as it meets to "provide the Commodity Credit corporation with ample capital and with authority to raise the funds necessary for operation through the sale of its own obligations."

"This legislation," said the President, "should authorize annual appropriations to be made available to the corporation to cover any impairment of its capital as shown by an appraisal of its assets from year to year. Under this plan each year's budget will reflect the losses, if any, sustained by the corporation."

Former Loans Are Paid.

Agricultural experts here believe that the corn loans are a good risk, pointing out that during the last three crop years corn loans have been liquidated 100 per cent. Ordinarily, the loans are not required before Dec. 1, but the exceptionally good weather in the corn belt produced early crops this year, which necessitated quick action by the federal government to carry out Secretary Wallace's program for assuring a fair return to farmers for their crops.

Although the amount of the corn loans has not been announced officially Secretary Wallace indicated they would be around 46 cents. In order to qualify for the loans, farmers will have to pledge themselves to abide by the AAA soil conservation program.

Government Underwrites Loans.

The loans are actually made by commercial banks, the rôle of the federal government being simply underwriting of the loans.

The federal government pays no money under the corn loan program, it was pointed out, unless there are losses, in which event it must make up the deficit. Thus, when the President referred in his telegram to the making of appropriations by congress to cover impairment of Commodity Credit corporation's capital, it was believed he referred to the possible need for a supply of funds to meet losses. Unless the unexpected losses should materialize, the government advances nothing, it was explained.

Atlantic Ship Operators Boost Passenger Fares

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Because of higher operating costs members of the Trans-Atlantic Passenger Conference placed in effect today an increase of $5 in all off-season trans-Atlantic passenger fares. Fare increases also will be made in the summer schedule next year.

Trade Slump to Last, Say U. S. Experts

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—A continuation of the letdown in business "well into 1938," and a national income lower next year than in 1937, were forecast today by the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture. The prediction was made in connection with the annual survey of government and private data which is made for the guidance of farmers in making arrangements for the following year's production and marketing.

The economists said there are indications that the business recession will be only temporary. They found "favorable factors" in the long term outlook. They pointed out that short periods of recession characterize all general recovery periods such as the one under way in the United States since 1932-'33.

How Cycle Works.

At such times, the bureau said, business sentiment becomes less optimistic, security prices decline and business men postpone extensive commitments for expansion or rehabilitation. These conditions, in turn, lead to hesitant buying by consumers and eventually cause stocks to pile up in retail stores, wholesale outlets and at factories.

"It is difficult to determine how long such a recession will continue," said the bureau, "but the appraisal of general conditions gives some support to the impression, based on the situation for individual industries, that it will run well into 1938."

Federal Spending.

"A tendency to curtail government spending and expansion of credit by deficit financing through banks," said the report, "would remove business stimulants which have existed since 1933. Business must take up the slack caused by the gradual removal of government pump priming.

"Business debts are low, credit is cheap and plentiful, banking resources are not strained, there is no building boom, and there has been an absence of violent speculation of the type which generally precedes the end of a business boom," the economists said, in finding the long term outlook favorable.

So far as the farmer is concerned the bureau predicted that prices and buying power of farm products will decline. It forecast that exports of farm products will increase, with the possible exception of cotton, but will be moved at lower prices.

CROP MARKETING QUOTAS IGNORED BY HOUSE GROUP

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Marketing quotas proposed for cotton, wheat, and rice failed today to win a place in the house agriculture committee's rough draft of new general farm legislation.

The committee sent the tentative bill to the printer without provision for marketing quotas, except in the case of tobacco. It left the way open, however, for the omitted proposals to be placed in the measure later in desired.

Secretary Wallace had reported recently that farmers believed marketing quotas might well be placed on the entire cotton crop, and that in the case of corn and wheat quotas might be necessary when surpluses became excessive. He said the quotas might be enforced by congress under its power to levy taxes or to control interstate commerce.

As sent to the printer the tentative bill centered around provisions for compulsory regulation of tobacco and for control of wheat, cotton, and rice merely by benefit payments to producers coöperating with federal production programs. Members said provisions for corn had not yet been worked out.

Belgian and Swiss Moneys Reach High Marks for 1937

The Belgian belga, up 0.03½ cent to 16.93½ cents, and the Swiss franc, up 0.01 cent to 23.13 cents, reached their highest levels this year in foreign exchange dealings yesterday. An advance of ⅛ cent was recorded by the pound sterling. The French franc closed 0.00¼ cent higher.

MANUFACTURERS SAY SURPLUS PROFITS TAX CURBS EMPLOYMENT

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Employment in the manufacturing companies of the country is being seriously affected by the surplus profits tax, a poll of a representative cross-section of manufacturing in the United States by the National Association of Manufacturers disclosed today.

Replies to the questionnaire by one quarter of the manufacturers stated definitly that if the tax were lifted and they were thus allowed to devote taxes to plant expansions and purchases of new machinery, they were "positive" more employés would be needed.

A total of 18.5 per cent was handicapped by the tax on earnings used to pay off debts; 4.7 per cent was handicapped by contracts and state laws which prevented the distribution of earnings in the form of dividends; 68.7 per cent stated that they were paying out uneconomically large dividends; 25.4 per cent stated they would employ more men if exemptions were allowed for plant expansion, and 26.4 per cent stated they probably would do the same if such capital expenditure were exempt from taxation.

RAIL OFFICIALS MEET TODAY ON RATE BOOST PLEA

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Railroad trafic executives will meet in Washington tomorrow to prepare a final draft of the proposal for a 15 per cent freight rate increase. It is expected the petition will be filed with the interstate commerce commission Thursday or Friday.

Urges Help for Roads.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Congressman Samuel B. Pettingill of Indiana, in an interview here today, said unless the interstate commerce commission aids railroads with freight increases soon he believes there will be additional railroad receiverships. Pettingill, author of the bill in congress to repeal the long haul-short haul provision of the I. C. C. act, said that at present 39 per cent of railroad mileage is in receivership.

Public Service Profits Larger in 3d Quarter

(Other profits reports on page 23.)

The Public Service Company of Northern Illinois yesterday reported substantial increases in net income for the quarter, nine months, and twelve months ended Sept. 30, compared with the same periods last year. Net income for the quarter was $777,301, equal after preferred dividends to 77 cents a share on 666,489 common shares, compared with $626,489, or 57 cents a share on 651,185 shares a year ago.

For nine months ended Sept. 30 the company had net income of $3,467,416, equal to $4.03 a common share, against $2,493,965, or $2.65 a share, in the corresponding 1936 period. Net income for twelve months was $4,712,781, or $5.51 a common share, compared with net income of $3,621,293, or $3.99 a share, in the preceding year.

Tax Adjustment Is Factor.

The company said that per share earnings would be 79 cents for the quarter, $4.14 for the nine months, and $5.62 for the twelve months ended Sept. 30 after reduction in undistributed profits tax accruals resulting from the special 80 cent common dividend payable Dec. 1.

Kilowatt hour sales of electricity, exclusive of sales to other electrical corporations, were 12 per cent higher in the quarter ended Sept. 30 than in the same 1936 period. Revenues from such sales increased $610,529, or 10.4 per cent. Therm sales of gas, exclusive of sales to other gas corporations, were 57.6 per cent higher and revenues from such sales increased $287,008, or 17.9 per cent.

Expenses and Taxes Higher.

Operating expenses and taxes for the quarter were approximately $641,700 higher than in the corresponding 1936 period. Of this increase, $151,700 occurred in gas purchased, $190,000 in operation, $52,900 in maintenance and $259,000 in taxes.

The company said total provisions for estimated taxes were $1,193,381, equal to $1.79 a common share, an increase of $256,000, or 38 cents a share, over the same period a year ago.

Socony-Vacuum Oil Cuts Gasoline Prices in East

The Socony-Vacuum Oil company yesterday announced a reduction of ½ cent a gallon in the tank car price of all grades of gasoline throughout New York and New England. The tank wagon price also was reduced ½ cent a gallon in most parts of the territory.

REPORT U. S. STABILITY FUND IS LOSING GOLD TO OTHER COUNTRIES

New York, Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The United States has been losing gold to other countries in the last month, it was indicated from several sources today. One estimate was that the government stabilization fund in the last week had lost enough gold through its operations to nullify the $27,000,000 of gold imports and the estimated $3,000,000 of new domestic production.

France was reported to have received most of the gold released by the treasury and there also were reports that Brazil had taken about $3,500,000 of the $60,000,000 in gold which the government agreed to sell to that country. It also was reported that gold has gone to England. Both the French and British exchanges have been strong against the dollar recently.

Georges Bonnet, French finance minister, announced last week that France was withdrawing some gold from the United States. Dispatches from London said that gold hoarding had been resumed, with gold buyers selling dollar exchange in order to acquire gold.

The monthly review of the New York Federal Reserve bank indicated a loss of gold last month. Imports were placed at $61,300,000 and $6,400,000 gold held under earmark for foreign account was released, a total of $67,700,000. However, the American gold stock increased only $60,000,000.

TRANSIT LINES REPORT MIXED TRAFIC TRENDS

Street cars in Chicago carried 60,834,304 revenue passengers during October, a decrease of 2.86 per cent from the 62,716,973 handled in the same month a year ago, the Chicago Surface lines reported yesterday. A total of 540,739,152 passengers were carried in the first ten months of this year.

The Chicago Motor Coach company reported its October trafic was 4.8 per cent larger than in the same month last year. Trafic in the first 10 months of this year was 18.4 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1936 period.

RESERVE BOARD PLANS TO KEEP EASE IN CREDIT

May Buy Bonds, Add to Lendable Funds.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The federal reserve board soon may take credit easing action designed to prevent a stiffening of interest rates, informed persons said today. They explained that the board probably would begin buying federal securities on the opening market to hold the nation's supply of lendable money close to the billion dollar level.

The step would be calculated to stimulate business by insuring an adequate supply of credit at cheap interest rates. It would send lendable money into the commercial banks in place of the federal obligations sold to the board and thus, authorities said, would tend to keep interest rates low.

Purchases Long Considered.

The board has been considering the purchase of government securities for several months. Provisions for such purchases was made in a credit program drafted by the treasury and reserve officials last September.

[The federal reserve board actually does not buy or sell government securities. Such sales or purchases are for the accounts of the twelve federal reserve banks. Because, however, the majority of the members of the "open market committee" are members of the reserve board itself, the latter in effect makes the decisions concerning buying or selling of government securities by the reserve banks. The managements of the reserve banks are frequently not even consulted. The twelve federal reserve banks already hold 2 billion 571 million dollars worth of government securities.]

The supply of lendable money, or "excess reserves," stands now at 1 billion 70 million dollars. Authorities said this was ample to maintain "easy money" conditions, but that seasonal expansion in demands for credit and currency were expected to drain away part of the present idle funds.

Seek To Prevent Deflation.

Government experts added that, while the supply of excess reserves theoretically might be adequate even if it fell well below 1 billion dollars, any substantial drop might bring a "deflation psychology" and a consequent stiffening of interest rates. To prevent this, it was said, the board probably would buy short term federal securities, which could be sold after seasonal credit needs contracted.

The credit problems now faced by the board are the converse of those which confronted it a year ago, when undue credit inflation was feared. At that time the board increased deposit reserve requirements to "freeze" a portion of excess reserves, which had climbed above $3,000,000,000.

Early this year, still worried over the possibility of inflation, the board lifted requirements to the legal limit to reduce excess reserves further. These requirements still are in effect.

TWO MORE FIRMS JOIN IN BOOST OF TIRE PRICES

Increased prices of automobile tires, effective at once, were announced yesterday by the B. F. Goodrich company and the General Tire and Rubber company. The B. F. Goodrich company increases are 2½ to 9 per cent and those of General Tire were given as 1 to 5 per cent.

Last week the Firestone Tire and Rubber company announced increases of 4 to 7 per cent and the United States Rubber company announced increases of 2⅛ to 5 per cent on its first two lines and 1 to 10 per cent on its third line.

Gen. Motors to Pay $1.50 at Year-End

Directors of the General Motors corporation yesterday declared a year-end dividend of $1.50 on the common stock. Previously this year the company paid 25 cents on March 12, $1 on June 12, and $1 on Sept. 13. The current declaration is payable Dec. 13 to stockholders of record on Nov. 12.

This will make a total of $3.75 a share paid on the common stock, compared with $4.50 in 1936, which included an extra of $1.50 in December. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 was authorized yesterday on the $5 preferred stock.

Through these two dividends, General Motors will pay out approximately 67 million dollars. The common stock dividend will require about $64,100,000 and the preferred payment will be around $2,900,000.

Coca Cola to Pay Extra.

An extra dividend of $2 and the usual quarterly payment of 75 cents were voted by the Coca Cola company. A similar extra was paid last Dec. 15.

The Standard Dredging corporation declared a special dividend of 40 cents on the common stock and an initial quarterly disbursement of 40 cents on the new $1.60 cumulative convertible preferred stock.

International Nickel Company of Canada, Ltd., declared an extra of 25 cents and a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on its common stock, bringing payments for this year to a total of $2.25 a share.

STEEL INDUSTRY MAKES FURTHER CUT IN ACTIVITY

Operations in the steel industry this week are scheduled at 48.6 per cent of ingot capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute reported yesterday. This is 3.5 points or 6.7 per cent below the scheduled rate last week and compares with an indicated rate a month ago of 66.1 per cent.

Steel operations in the Chicago districts are scheduled at 39.2 per cent, a decline of 1.7 points from last week's schedule. Carnegie-Illinois is removing another blast furnace from service at South Chicago, leaving three out of eleven active. At Gary, the company has six of its twelve furnaces in blast. A month ago the Chicago rate was 62.8 per cent of capacity.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—The Interstate Commerce commission today authorized the Missouri Southern railroad to intervene in the Missouri Pacific railroad reorganization proceedings, and to be treated as a party to the proceedings.

STEELS LEAD FRESH DECLINE IN STOCK PRICES

Losses Run Up to $3 or More a Share.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 1.—Steel shares led another decline in stocks today which carried many issues down fractions to $3 or more. The selling followed announcement of a further reduction in steel output. A last hour rally reduced some of the losses, but final prices for most issues were below Saturday's close.

With the election holiday coming tomorrow speculators were unwilling to trade heavily. Volume for the day was 1,029,210 shares, against 713,910 Saturday and 2,343,940 a week ago.

Steels were weak throughout the day. United States Steel was off more than $3 at one time and closed at a loss of $2.50. Bethlehem was off $1.25, Republic, 87 cents, and Inland, $1 at the finish.

Motors and Rails Lower.

Motors and rails also worked lower. Chrysler lost $1.12 for the day and Union Pacific sagged $3. Other declines included: du Pont, $2.75; Case, $5; Pennsylvania railroad, 87 cents; Santa Fe, $1.75; Allied Chemical, $1.75; Goodyear, $1.25, and Texas corporation, $1.37. Stocks that closed higher were mostly preferreds or inactive issues with thin markets.

The Dow-Jones averages showed a loss of 2.23 points in industrials, 0.74 in rails, and 0.47 in utilities.

Although today was the first trading session under the new margn requirements, liberalization had no noticeable effect. Brokers said the higher margin on short sales will make the market more subject to shocks than heretofore and thus act as a curb, at least temporarily. Based upon this view they expect that the next two months will be a dull period for securities trading.

Membership Bids Higher.

Prices of New York Stock exchange memberships were unofficially quoted today as $78,000 bid, $90,000 asked. This showed considerable improvement over the situation a week or so ago, when a membership sold at $61,000, the lowest in 18 years.

The existence of bids $17,000 above the previous sale was attributed in part to the reduction in margins on stock purchases from 55 per cent to 40 per cent.

Although the change was viewed as an indication of improved confidence in brokerage circles, exchange authorities pointed out that a current market for memberships was not to be considered a safe index to the trend, as the bids and offers are subject to sudden withdrawal with the appearance of favorable or adverse developments.

PLEDGES GIVEN BY KANSAS CITY TO FORD MOTOR

Kansas City, Nov. 1.—(AP)—City Manager H. F. McElroy sent the Ford Motor company written pledges today intended to bring about the reopening of its assembly plant here to the more than 2,500 employés.

Ford officials closed the plant, claiming McElroy failed to provide police protection for them in going through C. I. O. picket lines. McElroy conferred in Detroit last week with Henry Ford and was told to put his pledges in writing on his return here. He declined today to disclose the contents of the letter, addressed to Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company.

Your Debtors Protect Themselves
—Why Don't You?

Most delinquencies are unavoidable. Most insolvencies are "honest." Most "77-B" reorganizations have no fraudulent intent. But most debtors protect their own interests first. Therefore, you have to protect yourself. You can -- by insuring your sales.

Hundreds of Aa A1 Manufacturers and Jobbers keep their capital intact and their profits secure with Credit Insurance. Smaller firms, whose limited capital must work harder and faster, need this protection even more.

American Credit Insurance

takes over your selling risks, guarantees payment on all goods sold under the terms of the policy. Delinquencies have the same status as insolvencies. Indemnities are prompt. A policyholder (name on request) recently wrote: "We are very glad that we have received such a prompt settlement, for the amount of your indemnity, now restored to our capital, will once more be at work and contributing to our earnings."

General and specific coverage is now available. Insure all firms, special groups, individual accounts, or non-rated debtors. For details, telephone or write this office.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—Low priced domestic corporate liens were the target for modest selling in the bond market today. Utility and railroad obligations showed the widest losses, closing down fractions to around 2 points. Federal loans were irregular. Declines, which were in the majority, ranged to 7-32 point; the few scattered gains did not exceed 3-32 point.

Trading was the slowest in nearly 2 months, only $5,439,100 being the face amount of bonds changing hands, compared with $10,226,850 last Friday. Traders ascribed the lull to the election day holiday tomorrow. The Associated Press averages for 20 rails and 20 utilities were unchanged at 77 and 92.5 respectively. Twenty industrials dropped .1 point to 99.1.

Some of the wider losers included American Water Works 6s at 93, off 2, Great Northern 4½s at 91, off ⅛; International Hydro Electric 6s at 65½, off 2¼; Missouri Pacific 5s at 21, off 1; Nickel Plate 4½s at 64, off 1; Southern Railway 4s at 54, off 1, and Studebaker 6s at 82, off 2. There was also a fair sized sprinkling of gains. Western Union 5s pushed up 1⅛ to 73½ and Texas corporation 3½s, North American 5s, Detroit Edison 4½s, Goodyear 5s, and American Telephone 3¼s advanced fractions.

Foreign dollar loans were quiet. Milan 6½s dropped 1¼ to 64, and Rome 6½s lost the same amoun tto 65.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks moved moderately lower in a quiet session on the Chicago exchange yesterday. Only 31,000 shares were traded, compared with 58,000 shares Friday. The Tribune average of 20 stocks declined 0.25 to 12.49.

General Household Utilities, Commonwealth Edison, Chicago corporation, and Armour common were among the trading favorites which lost fractions. Issues moving a point or more lower included Borg-Warner, Montgomery Ward class A stock, and Noblitt Sparks. Eddy Paper, Chicago Flexible Shaft, and Allied Laboratories gained a point or more.

Bank Stocks.

First National bank stock advanced $2 a share yesterday, and Lake Shore Trust rose $3. Chicago Title and Trust was $1 higher. Other Chicago bank shares were unchanged.

Commodities

Another slump in rubber, hides, export copper, and tin led a decline in commodity prices yesterday. Eggs moved against the trend by recovering further from the severe decline of last Friday.

Further weakness of copper on the London metal exchange resulted in a reduction in the New York price of export copper to 10.90 cents a pound from 11.05 cents which prevailed over the week-end. Copper in London sold as low as 10.97 cents at one time during the day.

The domestic copper price was again quoted at 11.75 cents a pound by some smelters, and 12 cents by producers. Copper futures eased 0.15 to 0.16 cent a pound. November to October contracts were quoted at 9.95 to 10 cents at the close.

Tin for immediate delivery tumbled to 47.75 cents a pound, off ¾ cent from Saturday. A sharp recession also occurred in tin quotations on the London Metal exchange.

Rubber futures showed a net loss of 0.34 to 0.42 cent a pound for the day. December contracts finished at 15.32 to 15.33 cents a pound, and March contracts at 15.42 to 15.46 cents. Cash rubber was 0.41 cent lower at 15.31 cents a pound.

Egg futures gained ⅜ to ⅝ cent a dozen on the Chicago Mercantile exchange. November contracts finished ⅝ cent higher at 18⅝ cents, December contracts ⅜ cent higher at 18⅝ cents, and January contracts ½ cent higher at 18½ cents. Cash eggs were unchanged.

The Surplus Commodities corporation reported acceptance of five cars of eggs, 60,000 dozen, here Saturday. Total purchases at all points Saturday were 22 cars, or 264,000 dozen, bringing purchases since Oct. 14 to 298 cars, or 3,576,000 dozen.

Stock Price Indices.

When a stock market "average" moves up five points it does not mean that the average price of stocks goes up $5 per share. The reason for this is that not all stocks sell in the same price range. Percentage-wise, an increase of 50 cents in a stock selling for $10 per share is as great as an increase of $5 in a stock selling for $100 per share.

If the Dow-Jones average of 30 industrial stocks stands at 130 points at the close of the market on Tuesday and moves up to 135 points at the close on Wednesday there is an indicated net increase in the aggregate value of all stocks listed on the New York stock exchange of a little more than 3.8 per cent.

On such a day a stock selling for $130 might rise $5 per share and just keep pace with the average price increase of 3.8 per cent. Similarly a stock selling for $13 would have to rise only to $13.50 to keep in line with the general trend.

All stocks, however, do not move in the same degree—or even in the same direction. The "average" simply measures the general trend.

BUSINESS BITS

Benton & Bowles, Inc. of New York yesterday announced the formation of Benton & Bowles-Chicago, Inc. Stuart Sherman, former vice president of Lord & Thomas, Chicago, will be president of the new advertising agency. Arthur F. Marquette, former copy chief of Lord & Thomas, and Edward Aleshire, formerly radio director for the same firm, will be vice presidents. Offices in the Palmolive building will be opened Nov. 15.

George C. Howard, trade commissioner for the United States department of commerce in Calcutta, India, will be in the Chicago office of the commerce department in the 333 N. Michigan avenue building tomorrow, Thursday, and Friday, for interviews with persons interested in trade with British India.

J. E. Lewis, president of Harbison-Walker Refractories company, has been elected chairman of the board to succeed Harry W. Croft, who resigned. Richard G. Croft, a son, was elected a director.

Appointments of Karl F. Nystrom as mechanical assistant to the chief operating officer and of Joseph A. Deppe as superintendent of the car department of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad were announced yesterday by J. T. Gillick, chief operating officer of the road.

Oscar W. Rosenthal of Chicago yesterday was made a member of the Illinois state housing board, to succeed Duncan C. Smith, East St. Louis, who resigned as vice chairman.

Langdon Pearse, sanitary engineer for the Chicago sanitary district, will discuss "Sewage Disposal in the Metropolitan Chicago Area" tomorrow evening before a meeting of the Chicago section of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers in the Chicago Engineers' club, 314 S. Federal street.

FEDERAL, STATE CHIEFS DISCUSS FARM PROGRAM

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Machinery for carrying out provisions of the 1938 agricultural conservation program and objectives of the program to be drafted next year were discussed today at the opening of a two day conference of federal and state farm officials.

A series of district meetings will be held Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, when county committeemen and farm advisers will discuss the program and plan procedures for later community meetings to be held between Nov. 8 and Thanksgiving.

"Two points stand out as farmers look ahead to 1938 and to succeeding years," said Lee M. Gentry, Oregon, chairman of the state committee participating in the conference. "The first is how to carry on their farming operations most efficiently and in a manner that will maintain the farm, and second, how to safeguard their income so that they and their families may have a good living."

The schedule announced for district meetings included—Wednesday: Murphysboro, Peoria, Polo, Macomb, and Champaign; Thursday: Geneva, Mount Vernon, Shelbyville, Cambridge, and Carrollton; Friday: Belleville, Olney, Ottawa, Springfield, and Harrisburg.

SUSPEND RULING ON 'BELOW COST' RAIL SERVICES

New York, Nov. 1.—(AP)—An interstate commerce commission ruling that seven eastern railroads cease certain "below cost" services was suspended today by a special statutory court, pending appeal to the United States Supreme court.

The interstate commerce commission had directed the railroads to discontinue by Nov. 13 special rates for the warehousing of freight, the commercial storage of goods, the insuring of goods, and other services. The commission decided that the rates enabled the railroads to gain valuable transportation accounts in unfair competition with independent warehouses in the metropolitan area.

The railroads named are the Baltimore and Ohio, Lehigh Valley, Erie, Jersey Central, New York Central, Pennsylvania, and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.

Federal Lawyers to Probe Records of Oil Companies

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—Attorney General Cummings ordered three justice department attorneys to leave for the west coast today to examine the records of eight major oil companies. The attorneys are attached to the justice department's anti-trust divison. Cummings' action followed a six month investigation of trade practices employed by major west coast oil firms. He said all the companies had agreed to cooperate with the department by making their records available to authorized representatives of the department. The department did not name the companies under investigation.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1.—(AP)—The treasury awarded today a $45,625 contract to the Langlois Construction company, Berwyn, Ill., for construction of a postoffice in Bradley, Ill. Work is to be completed in 300 days.

LIVE STOCK RISES ON LIGHT SUPPLY, RALLY IN MEATS

Lambs Lead Upturn with Gains of 25 to 40c.

Top natives sold at $10.40, or 65 cents above last week's low and 40 cents over the week's close. Little change was registered in aged sheep, old ewes going for slaughter down from $4.00.

Hog Supply Is Small.

Only 57,000 hogs arrived at the eleven markets, a decline of 26,000 head or 31 per cent from the preceding Monday. Prices were strong to 10 cents higher here. Shipping demand was the broadest of the season, due to a recovery of 50 cents to $2.00 per hundred pounds in wholesale pork prices in the east. Both the average price and the top rose 5 cents to $9.15 and $9.55, respectively.

Long fed steers were in demand, one load going to an eastern buyer at $19.85, or within 5 cents of the 1937 high. They averaged 1,291 pounds. The next highest sale was $18.75, with the bulk selling at $9.00 to $16.00.

Short feds were weak to 25 cents lower. Beef cows, most hefers, canners, cutters, and veal calves were steady.

October Run Extremely Low.

Aggregate receipts of meat animals at the Chicago stock yards last month were smallest for October in 55 years, or since 1882.

The total run of cattle, calves, hogs and sheep, 705,972 head, compared with 693,865 in September, and with 980,855 a year ago. Two years ago the previous October low was established at 821,518. In 1934 the yards handled 1,247,305 head in that month. The half century low mark for any month was made in June, 1935, when only 580,115 head arrived.

All classes of stock declined from the September totals except hogs. The hog run for the month at 295,463 compared with 217,603 in September, but it was the lowest October total on records back to 1878. A year ago the hog receipts were 407,668, and in 1934 they totaled 505,792.

Cattle receipts dropped from 188,057 in September to 173,890 in October. The sheep run at 204,678 stood lowest for October since 1892. The September sheep supply was 256,849 head, and a year ago 311,186 were received.

LAKE CARRIERS RETIRING BOATS AS TRAFIC SAGS

Cleveland, O., Nov. 1.—[Special.]—Fleet owners are rapidly retiring vessels from service as the end of the lakes shipping season nears. Only a third of the 309 boats of American registry will be operating after this week.

The Pittsburgh Steamship company will load its final cargoes of season late this week. The company operated 75 vessels most of the season. A few were retired late in August, others in September, and about twenty during October.

Boats now at this end of the lakes will carry one more ore cargo; those at the head of the lakes will be docked as soon as they arrive at lower lake ports. The entire fleet will be in winter quarters by the middle of November, company officials said today.

GRAIN MARKET LISTLESS; PRICE CHANGES NARROW

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$0.96¼	$0.96⅝	$1.14⅛
Corn	.57½	.57½	.94⅞
Oats	.30½	.30½	.41⅛
Rye	.73¾	.73⅞	.82¾
Soy beans	.93¾	.93⅜	1.23¾

The grain trade was dull yesterday and changes at the close were confined to small fractions of a cent. Speculative interest was light and most trading was the result of professional operations.

An early upturn of a cent a bushel in wheat futures in sympathy with an unexpected advance of 1⅞ to 2¼ cents in Liverpool was followed by a quick recession on scattered selling. Closing quotations were ¼ to ½ cent a bushel lower. Export demand for North American wheat was small.

December Wheat Weakest.

Scattered liquidation by holders of December wheat contracts developed yesterday, resulting in that future losing ¼ cent a bushel compared with the May delivery.

Part of the selling of wheat occurred in sympathy with the weakness in securities. Traders displayed a cautious attitude pending announcement of the farm relief program at Washington.

A decrease of 4,693,000 bushels was shown in the domestic visible supply of wheat, reducing the total to 120,364,000 bushels. The supply was 70,459,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn Receipts Heavy.

Although receipts of corn were estimated at 627 cars, the largest arrivals of new corn at this season in many years, the run fell below trade expectations. Corn futures held within narrow limits. Fair support appeared on the break, which was attributed to the removal of hedges against export sales, estimated as high as 400,000 bushels.

No. 2 yellow cash corn sold in the sample market yesterday at 57 cents a bushel, the lowest price since June, 1934. In September it sold as high as $1.17½. The basis for sales of carlots of cash corn in the same market declined 2 to 6 cents a bushel relative to the December future.

10 MONTH GRAIN TRADE EXCEEDS FULL YEAR 1936

Trading in grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade in the first ten months of 1937 totaled 12,941,136,000 bushels, exceeding the total during the entire calendar year of 1936 by 831,000,000 bushels, the Commodity Exchange administration announced yesterday. If the current volume of business continues for the rest of 1937 trading for the year will be the largest since 1933, when it totaled 18,213,781,000 bushels.

Sales of grain futures during October aggregated 1,018,956,000 bushels, an increase of 78,000,000 bushels over September and nearly 431,000,000 bushels over October, 1936.

Comparative sales of grain futures in October and for the last ten months, last three ciphers omitted, follow:

H. A. Gray Given New Post in Federal Housing Setup

With the turning over yesterday of the activities of the housing division of the Public Works administration to the newly created United States Housing authority, Howard A. Gray, director of the PWA housing division, has been made assistant administrator of the PWA. He succeeds Col. Horatio Hackett of Chicago, who resigned on Sept. 1 to reënter private business in this city. Gray, a Winnetka neighbor of Secretary of the Interior Ickes, was for 22 years an executive of James T. Ryerson & Son, Chicago steel firm.

Salesmen.

IF YOU HAVE AMBITION,
IF YOU WILL WORK HARD
IF YOU WANT TO GET OUT OF THE RUT

then we have a real opportunity for you selling an article for the kitchen that has no competition. Nothing else like it on the market. Real chance for promotion as we are expanding nationally and need leaders. No house to house canvassing. Live leads furnished. High cash commission paid in advance. We go out with you and make sales and give you the orders and the money to get you started—in other words we give 100% co-operation. We don't just hand you the equipment and push you out and say: "Go Get It." But we go with you and show you how. Product manufactured by a company with triple A rating. Complete equipment furnished without 1 cent of deposit. Car necessary.

Call at our factory, 2714 W. 36th-place, Chicago, at 11 a. m. today and see this wonderful product demonstrated. A light lunch will be served immediately after the demonstration.

DON'T FORGET, 11 A. M. SHARP TUESDAY.

MEN—WORK.

To the man who is sincerely looking for a worthwhile opportunity, who is honestly willing to study and work, and satisfied to learn this electrical unit business and get along on nominal earnings to start, we have a permanent position that offers a genuine opportunity. Excellent bonus and comm. We are not looking for the smart fellow or the clever talker, or so-called "high pressure artist." We are interested in the earnest, sincere man regardless of his former experience. This is work that he can easily adapt himself to. Applicants must be between the ages of 25 and 50. Character reference required. Apply to Mr. L. H. Larson, Tuesday morning, 10 a. m., at 2417 S. 52d-avenue, Cicero.

I WANT A MAN TO SHARE MY OPPORTUNITY.

I came to Chicago two years ago a stranger. Didn't know a street or a soul. I got into a business strange to me—and made good because I worked at it and because this is a wonderful elect. unit business. Now I am ready for a reliable man who can start work immediately on percentage. A west side or west suburban man of good character, 25 to 48 years of age, and preferably married. Call to see me promptly at 10:30 a. m. Tuesday morning, Nov. 2, at 3 W. Madison-street, Oak Park, southwest corner Madison and Austin, Room 250. Ask for T. N. Lind.

SALARY PLUS COMM.

2 men over 25 years who can sell or who are desirous of learning to sell. Neat appearance, good education, and a strong determination to succeed are necessary requirements. This is educational work of high merit, is steady, with opportunity for advancement. Will employ North side, South side and West side men at the following address. Apply Personnel Director, 1521 W. 63d-st., 2d floor, 11 to 12 a. m. and 1 to 4 p. m.

POSITION NOW OPEN.

We have a position for west or west suburban man between 25 and 45, neat appearance, who can furnish good character reference. This is a permanent sales position that will pay about $35 per week for the first few weeks. Good commission and bonuses. Your weekly income will increase as you learn more about this electrical unit business. Apply to Mr. Adams Tuesday at 10 a. m. at 4808 W. Chicago-avenue.

WEST SIDE MAN.

I want a man to build into a successful business. We manufacture and merchandise our own electrical units completely. Opportunity for future is unusual. Married man, 25 to 40, preferred, who is ambitious, to hold a responsible sales position at good pay. Commissions and bonus. See Mr. P. Burnham, Tuesday, 10 a. m. sharp, 1508 N. Crawford-avenue, Chicago.

AT ONCE.

We will employ several neat appearing men, 25 to 45, of average ability, who desire a permanent connection with a national organization manufacturing electrical unit; must be willing to work 8 hours a day and start at our terms. This means about $40 per week on percentage to start. Employment Manager, Room 613, 203 North Wabash-avenue.

BEAUTY EXPERTS
Wilfred System of Beauty Culture
to Chicago

Ever since the merger of Wilfred Academy and the Chicago Hairdressing Academy—under the Wilfred banner and under John Mueller's guidance, Chicago's leading hairdressers have written letters of welcome and praise of the unique Wilfred System of hair and beauty culture training.

CONDOS—ARTISANS OF BEAUTY, write: "Chicago needed a Wilfred Academy and we are glad that John Mueller was selected as its leader in our city. The combination should make Wilfred Academy the most outstanding beauty culture school in this section of the country."

EMIL RHODE of the EDGEWATER BEACH HOTEL SALON writes: "There is a definite need here for an institution of your calibre. I am acquainted with John Mueller's work in training young men and women for the beauty profession and I know every one will welcome his association with your famous organization."

Hunters Bombard Ducks on Opening Day of Season—Mrs. Hahn and Son Tell Stories on Stand at Trial

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

DUCK SEASON OPENS IN ILLINOIS; THOUSANDS OF HUNTERS BAG THEIR QUOTAS IN FEW HOURS—Grass lake, in the Fox chain of lakes, rang yesterday to the bombardment of some 4,000 hunters out after their quota of mudhens as the Illinois waterfowl season [illegible] at 7 a. m. These five Chicagoans, William Blease, G. Jeffries, Harry Olson, William Blease Jr., and George Blease (left to right) came to shore early with their kill. Elsewhere in the state where shooting was reported good, hunters looked forward to a fine season. (Story on page 17.)

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

SON TAKES STAND TO AID MRS. HAHN AT MURDER TRIAL—Oscar Hahn, age 11, as he took oath in court at Cincinnati yesterday. He testified in effort to refute state testimony tending to link his mother to the poison death of George Obendoerfer in Colorado Springs. The boy said he owned a toy chemical set from which one bottle was missing. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

FORMER HUSBAND OF DUCHESS ARRIVES IN NEW YORK—Ernest Simpson, who lost his wife to a king, now the duke of Windsor, as he left the S. S. Queen Mary yesterday. He refused to discuss what he termed personal affairs. He said he made the trip for a visit to his mother and in the interests of his business. (Story on page 8.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

EXTENSION OVER FRONT GIVES TRUCK AN ILLEGAL LENGTH—State police warned yesterday that this three foot extension over the front of a truck with bumper to bumper dimensions of 40 feet, the maximum legal length, is unlawful. The vehicle belongs to the Automobile Shippers, Inc., 23d and Federal streets. (Story on page 9.)
